Child Health Day.
One Cubic Inch, One Ton.
Good Fight, Ahead.
The Lady's Husband.

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

PRESIDENT HOOVER, designating May 1 as "Child Health Day," urges parents and all others to co-operate.

These are some ingredients of child health.

Fresh air and sunlight—they cost nothing.

Regular hours, long and regular sleep. They cost nothing.

Eating slowly, which costs nothing, and develops teeth and jaws, avoiding adenoid and other troubles.

Good, simple food, with variety, from day to day. That costs trouble, principally.

WHILE designating a Child Health Day, the government might think of the mother's health also, and the digraceful fact that this nation leads all others, civilized, in the number of mothers that die in childbirth, for lack of competent attention.

If a sow is about to have a litter, or a cow a calf, the government stands ready to advise and help through the agricultural department.

For the expectant human mother, there is no such help.

URANIUM, heaviest of all metals, is now produced for $40 a pound. Some of it was shown to chemists at Atlanta. The present price is low. Recently the stuff was priceless.

It weighs twice as much as lead, but, cosmically considered, that is not heavy. Learn from science that the substance of certain stars, because of terrific gravity and compression, weighs 2,000 pounds to the cubic inch. Imagine the outer joint of your thumb weighing a ton!

THE sun's radiation, heat and power are supposed to come from the "stripping of atoms." The electrons, revolving around the nuclei, are stripped off and shot into space. The nuclei, left alone, are packed one against another, with no space separating them from their electrons and from each other. It is as though you stripped away the planets from suns in space and packed the suns solidly together in a lump. That would be heavy.

AN ELECTRON, in proportion to its size, is as far from its central nucleus, as the sun is from the earth.

Each atom is a little solar system, so small you do not notice a million of those systems in the corner of your eye. Our universe is really too complicated, at least for our feeble minds.

MRS. RUTH McCORMICK returns to her work in Washington, having beaten by more than 200,000 votes Mr. Deneen, who beat her husband, the late Medill McCormick, for senator, six years ago.

If Medill McCormick, now in Heaven, knows about that, he is well pleased with his energetic widow.

SOON Mrs. McCormick will run against James Hamilton Lewis, able and dignified statesman of the old school.

Her husband beat James Hamilton Lewis, when he, Medill McCormick, was elected senator.

That coming election will be interesting. Mrs. McCormick could not say anything against Mr. Lewis, and Mr. Lewis, twice as chivalrous as Bayard, would not say anything against Mrs. McCormick, if he could, and he could not.

IT WILL have to be a prohibition fight. Mrs. McCormick is dry, and unlike some statesmen, she is dry INSIDE AND OUT. She votes and lives dry. Mr. Lewis is a wet. "The American citizen should not be deprived of his personal freedom, sir."

MRS. M'CORMICK will say, "Vote for me, and I shall keep you out of the World Court and keep you dry."

Mr. Lewis will say "Elect me, and I'll keep you out of the World Court, as a matter of course, and I'll give you back your foaming beer."

Where the skyscrapers look on Michigan avenue, and Michigan avenue looks upon the lake, good citizens will muse at length on those propositions.

A SAN DIEGO census enumerator sheds light on prohibition in this state.

"Madam," he asked, "what is your husband's business?"

"He's a bootlegger," replied the lady, "and I tell you, he's doing fine. Is he employed at present? I should say he is. He drove a truckload of wine to Los Angeles this morning."

"I'll put him down as a drink salesman," said the tactful enumerator.

There is no employment problem among bootleggers.

THE District of Columbia Supreme Court decides that the administration's oil conservation program, is illegal, presumably, because it is based on conversations and agreements among big producers.

How else could conservation be accomplished? Why not make it a felony for two American business men to speak to each other?

SECRETARY WILBUR believes that conservation will win, and it ought to win, before the highest court. Squandering of the country's oil resources is criminal foolishness. And forbidding Americans to engage in business on a really big basis,

CLERGY PLAN OFFERED FOR TAXI PEACE

Drivers Urged to Return to Work While Arbitration Board Hears Both Sides

A new peace plan has been submitted to the striking taxicab drivers and their employers, the Parmelee Company, by a group of clergymen, the Rev. Albert E. Day announced today.

The ministers propose that the drivers return to work pending arbitration by a non-partisan board.

Announcement of the plan preceded unofficial announcement of a cut in wages for the strike-breaking drivers. This is the second cut since March 18.

"BONUS" CUT AGAIN

Announcement of the plan preceded announcement by the Parmelee Company that, with today, the drivers now working would receive less pay.

This was interpreted in some quarters as a wage cut, but the company described it as a reduction of the bonus given when "extraordinary circumstances warranted an emergency wage." The reduction is from $5 to $2.50 daily. The drivers still receive 37½ per cent, the announcement said. This is the second reduction since March 18.

There was nothing to substantiate a report that the drivers, notified of the reduction, had threatened to strike tonight.

Among some of the drivers there was the impression that the cut in wages applied only to those drivers who refused to flaul passengers to the outlying districts, where the police protection against attack is not so thorough.

These are the other high points of the peace plan.

1—Neither Parmelee nor the strikers are to have a representative on this board of three, but each is to appoint a representative to present its case to the board.

2—It is suggested that two members of the board of arbitration be James Rae, president of the Chamber of Commerce, and Leo Green, business agent of the Steamfitters' Union.

3—Chairman of this board shall be one of such men as William B. Wilson, former United States Secretary of Labor; James N. Tufts, professor of ethics at University of Chicago; William Reiserson, professor of industrial relations at Antioch College; Paul H. Douglas, professor of industrial relations at University of Chicago.

4—The board's decision shall not be binding unless unanimous, and the costs of arbitration shall be divided by the company and the strikers.

5—The board shall submit its decision within at least four weeks.

PLAN INJUNCTION APPEAL

The peace plan overshadowed announcement by Henry Ellenbogen, counsel for the strikers, tha an appeal to the Supreme Court would be taken from the decision of Judge Swearingen that

Injunction On Merger Killed

YOUNGSTOWN, O., April 11.— (AP.) — Judge C. S. Turnbaugh today dissolved the temporary injunction restraining the recording of disputed votes in the merger of the Youngstown Sheet and Tube Company with the Bethlehem Steel Corporation.

Decision not to consummate the merger as long as litigation is pending, was agreed upon by both sides last night.

DELAY AIDS FOES

The longer the delay continues, the more strategic becomes the position of Eaton, Cleveland financier, who has determined to fight to the last ditch. If he can keep matters tied up in the courts until after the stockholders' annual meeting April 22, it is believed he will win.

Voting rights to the 91,000 shares in doubt will pass to their present owners after the annual meeting and of this block, 51,038 shares are owned by Eaton's Otis & Co. Eaton then would be able to elect a sufficient number of directors to cast further obstacles in the way of the merger and possibly control enough stock with the Otis & Co. block to vote the proposition down directly.

POPE TO TALK OVER RADIO

VATICAN CITY, April 11.—(AP.)—It was reported today that the radio station which Senator Guglielmo Marconi is constructing for the Pope will be ready June 29, when the Pope, on the feast days of Saints Peter and Paul, will broadcast a message to the world.

Following the Pontiff's brief address, messages will be broadcast to sovereigns and chiefs of state who have diplomatic relations with the Holy See, after which greetings will be exchanged with radio stations directed by missionaries in various parts of the world. It is believed the Pope thus will conclude his jubilee year, which he extended for six months last December.

Ludendorff Presses Fight on Hindenburg

BERLIN, April 11.—(INS.)—Gen. Erich von Ludendorff today continued his campaign against President von Hindenburg and the government with another of his fiery articles in Volkswarte. He now asks that the President and all cabinet ministers holding office since the revolution be arrested and tried on charges of violating the constitution on the ground that they permitted economic distress among laborers and the middle classes.

Queen Mary Raps Royal Lady in Book

LONDON, April 11.—(AP.)—There will be guesses, mostly alike, Mrs. Charlotte Cavendish's biography of Queen Mary quotes her as remarking that the activities of a certain royal lady in a foreign land have been more suited to the role of film star than of the occupant of a throne.

Frances Starr, Actress, Quits Artist Mate

NEW YORK, April 11.—(AP.)—Frances Starr, noted emotional actress, is in Reno, Nev., arranging to obtain a divorce from Haskell Coffin, portrait painter and magazine illustrator.

"Yes, it is true, but what a pity," Coffin said at his studio in the Beaux Arts Building. "She's my only love and there will never be another woman for me . . . I'm through with all women, with her gone.

"I had a Reno letter from Mrs. Coffin and I've had letters from her attorney, a former judge out there. They wanted me to sign some sort of an agreement, but I have not done so yet. Perhaps there is hope, she'll change her mind. Sometimes women do, you know.

"There's only one possible ground for divorce, and that's non-support. For two years I was ill of nervous depression and wound up in a hospital for two months.

"But I'm making more money now than I ever did in my life, perhaps $100,000 a year, so the economic reason no longer exists."

Miss Starr, who became famous under the management of David Belasco, began her stage career in Albany in 1901. She became a Belasco star in the part of Laura Murdock in "The Easiest Way," which she played from 1909 to 1911. She appeared in the part again in a revival in 1921.

She is 43 years old and Coffin is 52. He has three sons by a previous marriage.

19 DIE IN BUS WRECKED BY TRAIN

Gasoline Explodes, Burns Debris of New Mexican Crash; Cars Derailed

ISLETA, N. M., April 11.—(AP.)—Nineteen passengers of an eastbound Pickwick-Greyhound bus were killed and eight seriously injured today when the bus was struck by a westbound Santa Fe fast mail train near here.

The speeding train sideswiped the bus, causing its gasoline tank to explode and burning much of the wreckage.

Bodies were hurled from 50 to 200 feet along either side of the grade crossing and the right of way.

AT HIGH SPEED

Parts of the bus were carried along for a half mile, the engine traveling at such a speed that it was not brought to a stop for a mile and one half.

Eight injured were taken to hospitals at Albuquerque, near here.

There were 27 passengers on the bus, so far as officials were able to ascertain.

The first body identified was that of a Mrs. Huff, of Oklahoma City, who was a passenger with her eight-year-old son, Kenneth. The boy was injured.

TRAIN CREW ESCAPES

Part of the train was derailed, but none of its crew or passengers was injured. F. D. Williams, driver of the bus, which is owned by the Pickwick-Greyhound Company, of Kansas City, was among those killed.

George Irwin, the conductor, said the exact time of the accident was 9:27 a. m. All of the bodies were burned or mangled. The clothes were burned off many of the bodies.

The officers of the Pickwick company at Albuquerque said they had no passenger list and that the bus driver did not have a list.

IDENTIFICATION DIFFICULT

Attempts to identify the bodies will be difficult because of their condition.

The scene of the accident is on a paved road to Isleta, an Indian Pueblo. The crossing is open to view on both sides in a level territory.

The crossing is only a half mile from the Indian Pueblo, and Indians and tourists were the first to arrive. The Indians made no attempt to remove any of the bodies.

HEIRESS ELOPES WITH NEWSIE

LONDON, April 11.—(AP.)—Happy as the bride of a 2-year-old British newsboy, Vivienne Huntington, 27-year-old New York heiress, will leave tomorrow with her husband, Alfred Cecil Durban, on the liner Montrose for Toronto, where they hope to make their home.

Mrs. Durban is the daughter of the late Charles Pratt Huntington, architect of New York, and a cousin of Archer Milton Huntington, New York author. The groom, until his marriage March 13, earned his living selling newspapers outside Folkestone station. His father drives a butcher's cart.

Their marriage and engagement were kept secret and revealed only with their arrangements to sail for the Dominion. It was a civil rite at Folkestone.

PORTER IS WITNESS

The ceremony in the registry office here was witnessed by only three persons, a fellow newsboy of the bridegroom, a railroad porter and the registrar. The bride's mother was in Switzerland at the time, and neither she nor the bridegroom's family knew of the

Watch for This Impostor

Pittsburghers were warned today of a man representing himself as connected with a newspaper who has been promising men, especially those unemployed, work in newspaper offices. In some cases he has attempted to collect pay in advance for membership in unions of the mechanical departments. Persons who are approached by this solicitor are requested to summon a policeman and cause his arrest.

Heat Here Sets New Record

The chewinks were chewinking
The flickers were flickering.
Mourning doves were cooing.
And the trout season opens Tuesday.

These were all sure signs of warmer weather but the infallible sign was the thermometer. It skyrocketed to 83 degrees, the hottest April 11 here in the history of the weather bureau. The previous high of the year was 70 degrees, attained on March 5. The previous maximum for this date was 81 in 1887.

Fire Routs Dancers From Chicago Cafe

CHICAGO, April 11.—(INS.)—Fire which forced 200 dancers to flee from the Chinese Cafe here was still burning today.

One hundred couples fled to the street at midnight when smoke and gas from a fire in an adjoining building swept through the cafe. The blaze spread quickly, causing an estimated loss of $50,000.

Mrs. Butler Robbed Of $50,000 in Gems

NEW YORK, April 11.—(INS.)—Police and private detectives today sought $50,000 worth of jewels, stolen from Mrs. James Butler, Jr., daughter-in-law of a wealthy chain store owner. The gems were taken from the Butler home during her absence, she told police.

BOARD IGNORES SCOTT PARENTS

Members of the Scott Township school board today stood firmly against renaming L. A. Warren supervising principal of township schools, although his dismissal caused a storm of protests at a board meeting last night. A petition signed by a majority of school children asking Warren be retained failed to impress the board and the pupils may protest by remaining away from school, it was intimated.

Miss Phoebe Latimer, a teacher in the Gregg school in the township, has been elected supervising principal to succeed Warren.

Meanwhile, students have chalked the schools with such signs as "We want Warren," "Warren or we strike."

Parents tried to gain entrance to the board meeting in the Glendale School last night, but found doors closed against them. The citizens then held a rival meeting in an adjoining room. Directors sent word they would receive a committee. Five men were first delegated to appear before the board, but when they failed in their mission, a committee of women, headed by Mrs. Sarah Johnston, entered the board room and for more than an hour argued with the directors.

Movie Men Escape Gun Fire at Auto

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., April 11.—(INS.)—Fired upon in their speeding automobile, Ernest Lubitsch and Lothar Mendes, well known picture directors, narrowly escaped death when one rifle bullet shattered the glass in their car.

7 GANGSTERS IN BATTLE KILL ONE

Two Others Shot as Citizens Pursue Robbers Fleeing With $10,000 Bank Loot

PIQUA, O., April 11.—(AP.)—Seven bank robbers armed with machine guns and repeating rifles, killed one man and wounded two others in a running gun battle through city streets today after they had robbed the Citizens National Bank and Trust Company of approximately $10,000 in currency.

Henry Matthews, 40, married proprietor of a delicatessen store was wounded fatally, and Ray Alexander, manager of a loan company, was shot through the hit and wounded seriously. Nathan Lawrence, Piqua carpenter, was shot through the leg when the bandits turned onto the Dixie highway.

ALARM HOUSES CITY

While four of the robbers were looting the cages in the bank, an employe stepped on a burglar alarm and aroused the city. Alexander opened fire on the robbers as they left the bank. More than 100 rounds of of shells were fired through the loan company windows.

Matthews was standing in front of his store when the robbers opened fire. A bullet struck him in the breast and he died a few minutes after entering a hospital.

The bandit automobile carrying the heavily armed robbers was driven north from the city with police in close pursuit. The police automobile had arrived at the bank as the robbers were starting away. The bandit car had Michigan license tag No. 50025, police said.

BANK PRESIDENT FELLED

As the robbers fled through the northern section of the city they were fired on by employes of two gasoline filling stations. They returned the fire, but none was injured.

Four of the men entered the bank and forced the president L. M. Flesh, F. P. Irvin, the cashier; Warren Gravett, assistant cashier, to lie on the floor while they were looting the cages. Flesh refused to obey at first and was injured slightly by a blow on the head from the butt of a pistol in the hands of one of the robbers.

When the burglar alarm sounded the robbers forced Irvin to accompany them to the door of the bank. Windows in many stores along the downtown section were riddled by the bullet barrage laid down by the robbers.

Officials of the bank said they had feared a robbery and posted armed guards, but the bandits disarmed the guards and made them lie down with other employes. The bank officials said that several suspicious persons had been in the bank during the past several days and that they had prepared to offset any robbery attempt by the employment of the guards.

JOHNSON REFUSES TO HEAD NEW SENATE SLUSH FUND QUIZ

PENNA. RACE GETS CLOSE SCRUTINY

Elections in New Jersey and Illinois Will Be Probed; $100,000 Voted to Body

WASHINGTON, April 11.—Senator Johnson (Rep.), of California, today asked Vice President Curtis to relieve him of the chairmanship of the newly appointed committee to investigate expenditures of senatorial candidates in this year's elections. He had been selected to succeed Senator Reed of Missouri.

In a letter to the vice president, the California senator said:

"My time is so wholly occupied with my duties, and particularly those which have come to me as chairman of the Commerce Committee of the Senate, that it is utterly impossible for me to undertake additional tasks."

The decision of Senator Johnson left the chairmanship of the newly-created committee vacant. Efforts to get him to reconsider were immediately undertaken by leaders of all factions and the Vice President deferred announcement of a successor.

ILLINOIS PROBE SEEN

An investigation into Illinois primary expenditures is deemed certain to be undertaken by the committee.

Illinois has just concluded the most spectacular primary in the state's history, a bitterly fought contest that resulted in the defeat of Senator Charles S. Deneen by Ruth Hanna McCormick.

Pennsylvania, too, will be looked over by the 1930 investigators.

Secretary of Labor James J. Davis, candidate for the Senate, said he "welcomed" the inquiry.

"Thank God, so far as Pennsylvania is concerned," Davis said, "money cannot buy the senatorship of that great state."

NEW JERSEY FACES PROBE

New Jersey is another state that probably will get some attention from the committee. There the candidacy of Dwight W. Morrow is opposed by ex-Senator Joseph S. Freylinghuysen. Both are enormously wealthy.

The 1930 committee is composed of senators who are not themselves candidates, and they come from states in which there are no contests. The committee as announced by Curtis includes Senators Patterson (Rep.), of Missouri; Wagner (Dem.), of New York; Goldsborough (Rep.), of Maryland, and Pittman (Dem.), of Nevada.

State Republicans Welcome Senate Probe

PHILADELPHIA, April 11—(AP.)—Leaders of the various Pennsylvania Republican factions declared today they stood ready to co-operate with the special committee authorized by the United States Senate to investigate primaries and general elections.

Senator Joseph R. Grundy joined Secretary of Labor James J. Davis in approving the move.

W. W. Atterbury, president of the Pennsylvania Railroad and Republican National Committeeman, said he would welcome an investigation.

Councilman Charles B. Hall, spokesman for the William S. Vare organization in Philadelphia, said the Senate or any other body was welcome to investigate the primaries and elections in Philadelphia.

S. Davis Wilson, deputy city controller, who is city campaign manager for Gifford Pinchot, announced he would gladly co-operate with the Senate committee.

4 Boy Holdups Flee With $720

Four youthful bandits early today held up Robert Hendell, manager of the Enright Bowling Academy, Enright Theater Building, East Liberty, and robbed him of $720, according to his report to police.

Hendell declared that the robbers accosted him on the stairway as he was leaving the bowling alley at 12:40 a. m. They beat him and then searched his clothing, and fled.

Hendell was found by Robert Cole, a Negro janitor, who summoned police. He was treated by a physician and later taken to St. Margaret's Hospital.

marriage until it had been performed.

The couple went to Brighton on a short honeymoon, and then returned to palatial Embrook Manor, Cheriton, where the bride and her mother have lived for 18 months.

The bride told her own story of the wedding today, and said that she had cabled "Cousin Archer" in New York, telling him of the marriage and hoping they would see him. She said that she had money, although less than she expected, and that they would go to Toronto, where her husband hoped to get a post in the engineering business.

MANOR PAPER BOY

She said Durban used to deliver papers at the manor where they live. There were occasional chats at the door and later she began to admire him and could see that he was fond of her.

"I had always said I would never marry a man beneath my station," she said, "but you see what love does. We walked out together very secretly many times, enjoying dodging people who were likely to recognize us. Then he told me he would like to marry me.

"No other man in the world could have made me happier. He is most adorable, a perfect darling."

Cousin One of Richest Men in United States

Archer Milton Huntington, New York author, cousin of Vivienne Maud Huntington, is one of the richest men in the United States, his fortune being based on an inheritance of $30,000,000 from his mother, the widow of Collis P. Huntington, California railroad builder.

Vivienne is the daughter of Charles Pratt Huntington, noted New York architect, and his first wife, the former Maude M. A. Bayly, of Camberley, England. Huntington was 48 years old when he died in 1919.

POWER BOARD SHIFT URGED

WASHINGTON, April 11.—(AP.)—The Couzens bill to reorganize the Federal Power Commission, by establishing an independent body instead of the present group of cabinet members, was reported favorably to the Senate today by the Senate Interstate Commerce Committee.

Senator Couzens (Rep.), of Michigan, announced he would call for final consideration of the measure in the Senate early next week.

The bill would authorize the new commission to employ its own assistant personnel, except for field investigations, and would remove all executive authority from the office of executive secretary.

The measure was the basis of extended investigation by the Senate Interstate Commerce Committee, in course of which the condition of power commission affairs were criticized, and the resignation of F. E. Bonner, executive secretary, was demanded on the floor of the Senate.

SESSION FIXED TO END NAVAL CONFERENCE

Plenary Meeting on Monday; Agreement Takes Form Of 3-Part 5-Power Pact

LONDON, April 11.—(AP.)—The "big five" delegates to the naval conference today decided to hold a plenary session on Monday for the purpose of receiving the completed work of the conference.

Another plenary session will be held Thursday for signing, if it is possible to prepare for prospective treaty in time. Should it be impossible to get the treaty ready by Thursday the signing probably will be deferred until after Easter.

In any event it is hoped that the heads of all the delegations will be in London for the signing whenever it occurs.

3-PART 5-POWER PACT

The treaty will take the form of a three-part five-power agreement in which the backbone will be a complete agreement between the United States, Great Britain and Japan on the limitation and reduction of all categories of sea armaments and a supplementary agreement including France and Italy concerning matters upon which all the powers are in accord.

The drafting of the treaty and getting it in shape for signing by next Thursday is a tremendous job and some of the experts were doubtful if it could be achieved.

Most of the delegations today were hard at work preparing a treaty draft and virtually the whole American delegation was busy getting its treaty ideas on paper.

Envoys Offered Delay in Leviathan's Sailing

LONDON, April 11.—(AP.)—The United States Lines today offered to adopt the almost unprecedented measure of holding the great liner Leviathan 24 hours beyond her scheduled sailing date, April 22, for the American delegation to the London naval conference.

Secretary Stimson greatly desires not only to sign the naval treaty here in London, but also to catch his boat home.

But it is going to be a race against time and if the delegates board the Leviathan even after more delay they will have done a good job. If the Leviathan is held it will be a red-letter day for Southampton, since it is a rare thing for one of the largest of the world's ships to be held even an hour.

"You'll get nothing; you helped yourself to all that is coming to you," Fazio told Gregory, his widow said.

ACCUSED OF "HI-JACKING"

Gregory told her, the widow said, that an associate of Fazio, now hunted in connection with the murder, drew a revolver and ordered Gregory to leave, and that Gregory drew his own gun and backed out the door.

Gregory had been accused by Fazio of systematically "hi-jackin" the gang's beer, according to a story told by James Moleno. Moleno, held as a material witness in the murder, said it was for that reason Fazio offered him $200 to help kill Gregory.

SEEK BLOOD IN AUTO

Another link in the chain of evidence being woven around Fazio was being forged today as detectives prepared to examine the Clairton racketeer's automobile for evidence tending to show that the machine was used in transporting the headless body of Gregory to Grines Run, Penn Township, where it was found in a cabbage barrel two weeks ago.

The machine, according to County Detective Chief George W. Murren, is equipped with a false bottom, large enough to secrete a barrel, and was used by the slayer suspect in his beer-running activities. Chief Murren revealed that his investigators had learned Fazio had the automobile washed since the finding of Gregory's body, but it was planned to go over every inch of the upholstery, flooring and particularly the false compartment, in a minute search for blood stains.

Pocci testified he heard someone call "scab" as he was driving in William Penn way near Seventh avenue and alighted and walked back to a car in which were three youths, Cohen being on the running board. All four were arrested.

Cohen denied using abusive language. He and his companions, Joel Spear, 16, of 1463 Beechwood boulevard, a student at Shadyside Academy, and Robert Baer, 17, of 5616 Marlboro road, were discharged.

The bill now goes to the Senate where its passage is expected before the Legislature adjourns tomorrow.

PINCHOT HITS AT NEW TAXI LINE TIEUP

Service Commission Scored For Failure to Sanction Immediate Service Here

The Public Service Commission is pursuing a "public be damned" policy in refusing to allow a new taxicab company, because of the drivers' strike, to give service immediately in Pittsburgh, former Gov. Gifford Pinchot, seeking another term, charged today.

Other cities have many taxi companies with resultant better service and lower rates, he asserted.

Pinchot today was completing a three-day visit here with a reception in the Magee Building headquarters, a speech to Westinghouse employes at Wilmerding and a broadcast at 8 p. m., over WJAS. He leaves tonight for Johnstown and other points in Cambria County.

DELAY DENOUNCED

Pinchot's statement on the taxicab situation declared, in part:

"Gov. Fisher has done a wise and proper thing in issuing a charter for a new taxicab company in Pittsburgh. But I regret to note the official statement that three months may be required to secure a certificate of public convenience from the Public Service Commission, without which certificate the charter is of no effect.

"If the Public Service Commission were as much interested in the people of Pittsburgh as it appears to be in preventing competition with the present taxi company, neither three months nor three weeks nor three days, would be required to get action.

ADVOCATES ABOLITION

"I do not ordinarily use strong language but the policy of the Public Service Commission in this matter can best be summed up in four words, 'The public be damned.'

"When any organization under the government gets to thinking it can make those four words its motto the sooner it is abolished the better."

Broadcasting last night over KDKA, Pinchot declared the state built more good roads during his four years as governor than had ever been built by any organization in the world in the same length of time, and had spent $250,000,000 in the program "without a breath of scandal."

Previous to his radio address, Pinchot spoke at a street meeting of the Westinghouse employes in East Pittsburgh and attended a meeting of his committee in Beaver Falls.

DAVIS-BROWN COMMITTEE

County Commissioner Joseph G. Armstrong, Allegheny County chairman for the Davis-Brown ticket, yesterday said an executive committee would be announced tomorrow.

Secretary of Labor James J. Davis, candidate for United States Senator, who heads the ticket with his gubernatorial running mate, Francis Shunk Brown, is expected here tomorrow to confer with Armstrong on the personnel of the committee and other campaign details.

Increased campaign activity was observed yesterday at the Pittsburgher Hotel headquarters of Senator Joseph R. Grundy, where State Senator James J. Coyne and S. C. Jamison, Grundy's personal representative, interviewed leaders from Allegheny County and adjoining territory.

Randolph W. Childs, state campaign manager for the anti-dry ticket, visited local headquarters in the Magee Building yesterday and was "highly elated" at the progress made in this vicinity for the Bonlen-Phillips ticket.

Girl Artist's Adam and Eve Shocks Women's Club

CHICAGO, April 11.—(INS.)—The tempest raging about a young woman artist's depiction of the banishment of Adam and Eve from the Garden of Eden was expected to come to a showdown today in the art salon of the exclusive Illinois Women's Athletic Club.

The painting which raised a storm of debate among club members is one of a collection exhibited by Miss Valentine Vogel, of St. Louis, a 24-year-old art student who recently completed a year of study in Paris and Rome.

Club members, tarrying for a cup of tea, gazed at the creation and voiced their opinions, most of which are that the canvas should be withdrawn. As no one member has as yet taken it upon herself to make the exhibit an out-and-out issue, the painting has remained.

The loudest objections to Miss Vogel's creation were based on the absence of any drapes or shading. The startling color scheme that has clothed the two figures in a copper-colored hue has also brought comment. A pale gray sky forms the background.

Miss Vogel herself sees no occasion for the storm.

"I don't think it's an obscene painting, and I see no reason for its removal. If this is indecent, then half of the paintings in the Art Institute here should be removed," she exclaimed, her blue eyes flashing.

International News Service.

LONDON, April 11.—An exciting scene occurred in Marlborough Street Police Court here today when the Duchess of Leinster, formerly May Etheridge, one-time musical comedy star, was arraigned for the second time on a charge of attempting suicide. She was found unconscious some days ago in a gas-filled room in a Brixton lodging house.

The scene occurred while Stanley Williams, young cook with whom the duchess is said to have rented the furnished room, was giving evidence.

Williams said he left the room after an argument with the duchess as to whether they should tune in on Paris or London on their new radio. Returning a short while later, he said, he found the duchess with her head inside the gas-oven.

TELLS OF RESCUE

"I rescued her," he said, "and then she started raving like a lunatic and attempted to strangle herself."

At this point the duchess, who had been sitting tight-lipped and with clenched fists in the prisoner's box, rose up out of her chair and shouted:

"You liar!"

The presiding magistrate rapped with his gavel and told the duchess to behave herself.

Williams said he then left the room a second time and when he returned he found the duchess unconscious on the floor. A police officer testified that when the duchess recovered consciousness, she turned furiously on Williams saying:

"You brute, you're trying to ruin me."

REMANDED TO JAIL

The duchess was remanded to jail for further hearing Monday. Decision whether to release her on bail will be made later.

The Duke of Leinster, premier Duke and Earl of Ireland, who has instituted divorce proceedings against the duchess, was represented by an attorney at today's hearing.

WILLIAMS HITS AT INGALLS

WASHINGTON, April 11.—(AP.)—Lieut. Al Williams, navy speed ace, who resigned from the service after being ordered to sea duty, said today a letter read before a Senate committee by Assistant Secretary Ingalls of the Navy left a false impression of his attitude toward the sea duty order.

The flier, who sprang into prominence through feats and speed planes, said that Ingalls, in reading the letter before the Senate committee did not point out that he had asked for sea duty after he had completed his work on the Mercury racer, a plane that he unsuccessfully attempted to complete in time for the speed trials in England last year.

Ingalls yesterday read before the committee a letter written by Williams requesting sea duty.

MOVIES OF RIOT TO AID FOSTER

NEW YORK, April 11.—(AP.)—In a heavily guarded courtroom, five Communist leaders, arrested after the "Red Thursday" plots in Union Square March 6, went on trial today on charges of unlawful assembly. The accused are William Z. Foster, Robert Minor, Israel Amiter, Joseph Lester and Harry Raymond.

Detectives of the radical squad and 10 extra policemen patrolled corridors, closely scrutinizing all loiterers.

Robert H. Elder, former assistant district attorney of Brooklyn, retained by the American Civil Liberties Union to defend the five men, said one of the features of the defense, the court permitting, would be presentation of sound pictures of the riot. The riot started when Communists in an unemployment demonstration attempted to march to City Hall despite refusal of permission by Police Commissioner Grover A. Whalen.

Ruth McCormick's 'Dictator' Foe Defeated

JOLIET, Ill., April 11.—(AP.)—The charge of Mrs. Lottie Holman O'Neill, Illinois' first woman state legislator, that Ruth Hanna McCormick was a "dictator" was substantiated in Tuesday's primary election as far as Mrs. O'Neill was concerned.

Seeking nomination as a state senator, Mrs. O'Neill lost by a vote of 15,627 to 38,354 to Senator Richard Barr, of Joliet.

Mrs. O'Neill's break with Mrs. McCormick last year attracted considerable attention in the Illinois women's political circles.

HOUSE CHEERS MRS. M'CORMICK

WASHINGTON, April 11.—(INS.)—A great ovation was given Mrs. Ruth Hanna McCormick today when she took her seat in the House of Representatives at noon, fresh from her victory in the Illinois primary.

The entire Republican side of the chamber stood and applauded as the smiling daughter of Mark Hanna entered the chamber, and her ovation was given a nonpartisan flavor by considerable applause on the Democratic side.

The applause was started by Mrs. McCormick's California colleague, Mrs. Florence P. Kahn, and Mrs. Ruth Pratt, of New York, both Republicans, and on the Democratic side by Mrs. Ruth Bryan Owen, of Florida.

Mrs. McCormick was dressed in a beige satin blouse and a brown tweed skirt.

While Mrs. McCormick was receiving the plaudits of the House, Mrs. Alice Roosevelt Longworth, her bosom friend, was in Speaker Longworth's office. Mrs. McCormick joined her for luncheon.

Girl of 5 Genius At Piano--Great Career Looms

CEDAR FALLS, Ia., April 11, (AP.)—Wee fingers of 5-year-old Patricia Anne Samson, moving across piano keys, have produced compositions which critics said forecast a brilliant future. Already she has a half dozen works to her credit.

Although given no formal study by her father, G. W. Samson, Jr., instructor of organ at Iowa State Teachers' College, Patricia Anne has been granted full sway to creative impulse upon advice of Rudolph Ganz, president of the Chicago Musical College.

Nearly half her life the child has sat at the piano as much as her parents allowed. Often, they said, she has startled them by playing pieces she has heard her father's pupils practicing.

Away from the piano, Patricia Anne behaves as any other 5-year-old girl. Dogs hold a particular fascination for her.

William Dumman, engineer, was burned on the face and hands. The fire started in the boiler room of the building from an undetermined cause. The blaze was discovered by a cook, who summoned firemen. They confined the flames to the basement and first floor.

The majority of the children were on the second floor when the fire started. They were quickly rounded up by officials of the home and marched down the stairs to safety.

PROBE KILLER'S ATTIC WOOING

LOS ANGELES, April 11.—(AP.)—The strange romance of Otto Sanhuber, whose love for Mrs. Walburga Oesterreich kept him penned for 16 years in attic hideouts, today formed the basis of District Attorney Burton Fitts' efforts to secure indictments in the eight-year-old murder of Fred Oesterreich, wealthy garment manufacturer, the woman's husband.

Sanhuber was to have appeared before the grand jury for questioning on his confession he shot Oesterreich to save the woman from harm during a quarrel with her husband, but these plans were upset when his counsel ordered him not to talk. Sanhuber had been expected to tell about staying in dingy garret retreats to be near the woman, and how he came from his secret compartment in the Oesterreich home when aroused by angry voices, to kill the garment maker.

22 HURT IN RIOT AT BOMBAY

BOMBAY, India, April 11.—(AP.)—Twenty-two persons were injured in rioting outside the courthouse here today when a number of followers of Mahatma Gandhi who yesterday offered passive resistance during a police raid on National Congress headquarters, were sentenced to various terms of imprisonment.

A large crowd attempted to get at some of the prisoners as they were removed, to hang garlands on them. The police fought them off and the Indians tossed sandals and stones.

Ten police, of whom three were Europeans, were injured by missiles. The police then charged the crowd with bludgeons, scattering them. There were 12 casualties among the Indians.

Among those sentenced were Abid Ali, who was given nine months' imprisonment, and Mehr Ali, charged with abetting incitement to violence and breach of the salt laws, given four months' simple imprisonment.

Dancer Accused by Amster Wed Another, Says Chum

NEW YORK, April 11.—(INS.)—Lyle Stackpole, former roommate of Olga Eide Edwards, today took the witness stand for the prosecution at the extortion trial of the California dancing girl and testified Olga told her in 1924 that she was married to a mining engineer.

Miss Edwards charges that Nathan Leo Amster, multi-millionaire, is the father of her 6-year-old son, Lee. Amster denies this and alleges the defendant blackmailed him.

The defense earlier today attempted to show that Amster had nothing to do with the arrest of the dancer.

Defense counsel tried to show that the trap laid for the defendant was fashioned by Amster's secretary, Charles Jeffers, and Louis Whicher, his wealthy business associate.

James Murray, attorney for Miss Edwards, in cross-examination of Detective John Coleman, who arrested Olga after Jeffers paid her $500 for Amster, brought out that Amster had not asked him to make the arrest. Coleman said he took information for the arrest from Whicher and Jeffers.

Murray then asked if Coleman knew Whicher had friends in the Police Department. Coleman said that he did not know.

Seek Gunmen in Mystery Attack on Radio Station

MUSCATINE, Ia., April 11.—(AP.)—Police in all Iowa and Illinois towns where bridges span the Mississippi River today were watching for three men reported to have fired upon the operator of radio station KTNT, Norman Baker, a few minutes after he had signed off at 1 a. m. today.

The Baker station promoters were attacked by the American Medical Association through its official journal a few days ago as a "quack" outfit.

The attack was verified by C. E. White, keeper of the toll bridge, who said he saw the shooting from his shanty less than 100 feet from the scene, at the back of the building where Baker and Harry Hoxey, of Girard, Ill., were having a conference in a room in the broadcasting station.

Hoxey told police he shot one of the men. The victim's two companions dragged him to a waiting automobile and escaped.

Baker is head of the Baker Institute, a cancer hospital here, and owner of the radio station.

Shortly after the shooting Baker telephoned the office of the Associated Press in Chicago, and, simulating a broadcast, told of the incident. He sent a telegram attacking Dr. Morris Fishbein, editor of the Journal of the American Medical Association, for the latter's current editorial condemning the KTNT station as a quack institution. Baker said he felt the editorial might have aroused feeling against him and Hoxey.

DRYS REGISTER SLIGHT GAIN IN POLL

Repeal Advocates Still Lead With 41.7 Per Cent of Total From 44 States

The drys made a slight gain in the fifth week's returns of The Literary Digest's Nation-Wide Prohibition Poll as four new states are represented and over a half million additional votes are tallied, according to tomorrow's issue of the periodical.

The minor change for strict enforcement, which amounts to slightly less than one-half of one per cent, is taken from the vote for repeal. Also a rather minute increase is noted for modification.

Colorado, Idaho, Montana and Utah are the states from which first returns are tabulated this week.

REPEAL VOTE HEAVIEST

Of the grand total of 2,516,072 votes in this fifth report, 712,549, or over 28 per cent of the total, are for strict enforcement, 754,266, almost 30 per cent, are for modification, while 1,049,257, or 41.7 per cent, vote for repeal.

Kansas still registers a heavy majority vote for strict enforcement and is the only state that is classified as bone dry in sentiment in this report.

Tennessee, which last week showed a majority vote for enforcement, loses its classification as a bone dry in the current tally, showing a vote of less than 50 per cent for enforcement.

In the anti-dry division Connecticut, Maryland, New Jersey, New York and Rhode Island, each show over 50 per cent of their respective votes for a repeal.

DUPLICATION EXPLAINED

The heaviest anti-dry vote reported in the present tabulation is from Rhode Island.

Twenty-two of the forty-four states reported show a plurality vote for enforcement, while the other 22, plus the District of Columbia, show a plurality for repeal.

In answer to complaints that a number of people have been vote-repeaters in the poll, the magazine explains that one person may actually receive and cast more than one bonafide vote as there are five polls in progress at present besides the main referendum of 20,000,000 ballots.

Special poll ballots are specially marked, however, and are not counted in the great poll, the magazine says.

In the 1922 prohibition poll taken by the Literary Digest on the same three questions used in the current "straw" balloting, the fifth week's tabulation showed a total of 617,858 ballots returned, of which 236,349 were for strict enforcement; 253,009 for modification; and 128,500 for repeal.

VOTE BY STATES

Fish Would Keep Arms From Radicals

WASHINGTON, April 11 (INS.)—Legislation prohibiting interstate shipment of firearms is necessary to prevent them from being possessed by radicals and gangsters, Representative Fish (Rep.), New York, told the House Interstate Commerce sub-committee today.

The committee is considering several bills all designed to curb shipment of weapons. Maj. Gen. Ewing Booth, assistant chief of staff, asked that the bills not curb the transportation of firearms for national defense.

Today

while permitting foreigners operating here to do as they please, is business foolishness. You don't find that foolishness in Britain.

ATTORNEY GENERAL MITCHELL asks the Supreme Court to rule that ordering bootleg liquor delivered at your home is illegal.

Judges have decided that ordering, buying and causing transportation of liquor is no crime. They would not so decide if you ordered a fence to deliver stolen goods at your house.

The fact is that many judges, like others, when it comes to the point, refuse to take prohibition seriously.

DISPLAYING HIS GOWN

EDWARD C. BONNER SHOWING HIS BRAND NEW DRESS

Bonner, "leading lady" in "Manhattan Preferred," Cap and Gown Club production sponsored by the Civic Club of Allegheny County, atop a piano displaying his gown. Rehearsals are held in the University of Pittsburgh activities house under direction of club Officials.

PITT BOYS GET SHOW GOWNS

Paris gowns. "Girls" needing shaves. Society matrons. Masculine chortles. Wigs.

They are all to be found at Pitt these days. They all revolve around one thing—the annual cap and gown play, "Manhattan Preferred." All the men are students, all the women are men—it's all topsy-turvy.

Yesterday they did some Pandora stuff. The costume trunks came in. Mrs. William A. Thaw and Mrs. H. Allen Machesney opened them. Ordered by these two from the first sketches, the gowns, importations from Paris, were declared satisfactory.

They include 16 complete changes for the chorus. They include very short and very long dresses. They include some things best called "nothing at all."

In them, Director William F. Mariatt is sure, the boys will develop real feminine charm and will look just like girls.

When the show has been staged and has passed into history, Pitt co-eds will have a chance to bid for possession of the dresses. That is the reason, Mrs. Thaw says, for so many of the gowns being ultra-modern in design.

At the Nixon in two weeks, the all-male cast will parade in the garments. Not until then will Pittsburgh have a chance to see how girlish are some of the men at Pitt.

"Leading Lady" Edward C. Bonner, of 608 Industry street, is an example of expert casting, Mariatt claims, and John Harpster, red-haired "dowager," is another. The show is being sponsored by the Civic Club of Allegheny County.

50 Autos Destroyed In $100,000 Blaze

REYNOLDSVILLE, Pa., April 11.—Fire, of undetermined origin, early today, destroyed the public garage of Frank Buzzard, and 50 automobiles, causing loss estimated at $100,000. Twenty-four of the machines were owned by Buzzard.

CLERGY OFFER PEACE PLAN

Judge Swearingen handed down a decision Wednesday continuing the preliminary injunction granted to the Yellow Cab Company. This restrains the union relief committee from operating automobiles in "for hire" service without Public Service Commission certificates of public convenience.

NEW LINE CHARTERED

A charter was granted U. J. I. Peoples, George Wortman and Dr. P. C. Blessing Wednesday by Gov. John S. Fisher to organize the "Peoples Taxicab Company" for the purpose of organizing, financing and promoting taxicab companies in Pittsburgh. Wortman said that Peoples is the president, Dr. Blessing the vice president and himself the secretary and general manager of the company.

The money is up and 400 cars have been ordered, and they are ready to start operation, Wortman said. However, the Public Service Commission has not yet issued a certificate of public convenience, and it is problematical, according to interested persons, when the proposed company will get past the formative stage.

FREE 2 DRIVER ACCUSED

Two defendants accused of annoying Tony Tacci, 24, of McKees Rocks, a taxi driver, were discharged at a hearing in Central Police Court today when they denied the charge. They were Elmer Thompson, 42, of 1014 Goehring street, and Joseph Krietzer, 38, of 1114 Veskamp street, motormen for the Pittsburgh Railways Company. Another man accused with them, Clarence Krammert, failed to appear at the hearing and forfeited $30.

Partial Eclipse of Moon Due Tomorrow Night

The earth, passing between the moon and the sun, will cause a partial eclipse of the moon tomorrow night.

The earth's shadow on the moon will seemingly bite off about one-tenth of the moon's disk. While only one-tenth of the moon will be totally black when the eclipse is at its maximum at 12:48 Sunday morning, an additional portion of the moon will be hazy.

Astronomers at Allegheny Observatory will make no study of the eclipse, but at Harvard Observatory Dr. Willard J. Fisher will time carefully the appearance and disappearance of the haze, or penumbra.

Duration of the penumbra's visibility varies uncertainly, depending on the density of the earth's atmosphere and the height it extends above the earth. Dr. Fisher hopes by his observations to obtain data for computing the unknown weights of atmosphere in the upper regions that help to form the winds and storms.

The faint penumbra will be visible at 10:43 p. m., the shadow will appear at 12:21, and the eclipse will be completely over at 1:36.

SENATE ACTION IN POSTAL RENT QUIZ STIRRED

Further Revelations Loom Today as Senator Blaine Demands Quick Inquiry

By WILLIAM K. HUTCHINSON,
International News Service.

WASHINGTON, April 11.—Further revelations in connection with the government's $18,000,000-a-year rental for temporary postoffices were expected in the Senate today as Senator Blaine (Rep.), of Wisconsin, moved to demand immediate action on his proposed inquiry.

Blaine's revelations already involve a present and a former Republican cabinet officer. He charged there was evidence of "fraud and corruption" in many of the government's 6,000 outstanding leases, and blamed the postoffice department for "culpable negligence," in failing to cancel many of the leases.

PATRONAGE IN SOUTH

With Blaine's charges were heard threats of a new inquiry into postoffice patronage in the South, following reports that Ben Davis, Negro Republican leader, of Georgia, was in Washington to see Postmaster General Brown.

Some Georgia Democrats reported Davis came here to obtain reinstatement as Republican "boss" of that state. If there is indication Davis again will control patronage in Georgia, it was said, the Brookhart patronage committee will resume its investigations immediately.

At an earlier inquiry, the committee heatedly condemned Davis' handling of postmaster appointments.

MAY ACT TODAY

Brown was the center of even another inquiry. Senator Johnson, as chairman of the Senate Commerce Committee, called upon the postmaster general for a report on all government mail contracts.

It was understood Johnson asked for the report because of charges that profitable contracts were awarded certain steamship companies, which carried but a few sacks of mail at exorbitant cost.

The postoffice lease inquiry may be ordered this afternoon. The Senate already has ordered the lease at St. Paul, Minn., canceled, after charges the government had been defrauded.

Rake was sentenced for moonshining and commitment papers showed he had been in jail 10 months and four days awaiting arraignment. A year's sentence, to which he was sentenced when he appeared in court is but 10 months with good behavior allowance.

HANCOCK, Mich., April 11—(AP.)—How to reach an ice-locked island to count its people, and how to locate the people to count them once the island is reached?

This problem faced census enumerators when they tried to decide what to do about residents of Isle Royale, 40 miles off the mainland in Lake Superior.

MISS MAYER TO WED AT HOME

HOLLYWOOD, April 11 (Universal).—A home wedding with simplicity as its distinguishing keynote is what Irene Mayer is planning. The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Louis B. Mayer will be married to David O. Selznick, Paramount executive, on April 29 at her home in Santa Monica.

Only the family and a few close friends of the pair will witness the ceremony which will be performed by Rabbi Magnin.

Irene's matron of honor will be her sister, Edith Mayer Goetz, who was a bride of only a few weeks ago. Her bridesmaids will be Janet Gaynor, one of her best and closest friends, who returns from Honolulu to be in the wedding party; her sister-in-law, Marjorie Daw Selznick; her cousin, Mitzi Cummings, and Marjorie Strauss.

The groom will have as his best man his elder brother, Myron Selznick. The ushers, all well known figures in filmland, include Paul Bern, Oliver H. P. Garrett, William Goetz and B. P. Schulberg.

Immediately after the ceremony the bride and bridegroom will leave for a two months' honeymoon in Europe.

Texas Claims Body Of First Governor

It will be returned in Austin, Tex., on April 21, the anniversary of the state's independence.

Henderson went west and raised a company of volunteers for service in the Republic of Texas in 1836. He was instrumental in admission of the state to the Union, and was elected its first governor in 1846.

BELL COAL LAND BIDS LACKING

WELLSBURG, W. Va., April 11.—Twenty-odd thousand acres of coal land and two docks located in four states, property of the defunct Carnegie Coal Company and valued at $15,000,000, were offered for sale here today without attracting a bidder.

It was announced that a bid of $6,000,000 was received yesterday, which these same properties were offered for sale at Washington, Pa. It was a bondholder's bid.

Sale was adjourned until July 11 unless the bid of $6,000,000 was accepted or a higher one received.

The Carnegie Coal Company property once controlled by John A. Bell, banker convicted of wrecking the Carnegie Trust Company, was first offered at auction at Washington, Pa., several weeks ago. The only bid was one of $6,000,000 made by J. T. M. Stoneroad, chairman of the bondholders' protective committee, who renewed the bid when the property again was placed on the auction block. By order of the Federal Court the property will be offered for sale at Duluth, Minn., Monday, and at Superior, Wis., Tuesday.

20 FLIERS SEEK HEIGHT RECORD

SACRAMENTO, Cal., April 11.—(INS.)—Dwarfing the highest peaks amid low hanging mists, 20 pursuit planes under command of Capt. Hugh M. Elmendorf were to seek an altitude record here today.

When they take off, one record will be broken. It will be the first time in history that a combat formation of pursuit planes will look for a battle field higher than the five mile limit. Radio communication was to be maintained with the planes.

Daily experiments with the upper elements are scheduled during the rest of the maneuvers. It was announced by Brig. Gen. W. E. Gilmore, commander of the provisional wing of the "blue" army.

COURT HALTS BOND DEALS

NEW YORK, April 11.—(AP.)—An injunction temporarily restraining the Baneshares and Listed Securities Corporation, its officers and all employes including more than 200 salesmen, from further dealings in securities was issued by Supreme Court Justice Selah B. Strong in Brooklyn.

At the same time, Justice Strong enjoined all the defendants and the Bank of United States, the Chelsea Exchange Bank, the Sterling National Bank, Kohn and Company and Hirsch, Lilienthal and Company from disposing of or transferring any assets or property of the Baneshares corporation. In granting the motion for the injunction made by Deputy Attorney General Henry B. Staples of the State Bureau of Securities, Justice Strong fixed April 14 as the date for a hearing.

GIRL, 9, KILLED BY TANK BLAST

PHILADELPHIA, April 11.—(AP.)—A nine-year-old girl was killed and her five-year-old brother was injured slightly when a tank of compressed air on a sidewalk near Fourth and Vine streets exploded here.

The girl was Lillian Stuffu and the boy Emil Stuffu. Police said the children were walking by a junk shop when the tank on the pavement at the shop, exploded, pieces of it striking the girl on the head. The explosion caused some property damage in the vicinity. Joseph Spielmerg, 24, son of the junk shop owner, was arrested.

President Hoover's Kin At Convention

WASHINGTON, April 11.—(AP.)—Mrs. Theodore J. Hoover, wife of the President's only brother, and state regent of the California Daughters of the American Revolution, arrived in Washington to attend the Daughters convention next week.

Her husband, dean of Stanford University School of Engineering, has been in the capital attending the fiftieth annual convention of the American Society of Mechanical engineers.

HOOVER PHONES YRIGOYEN

WASHINGTON, April 11.—(AP.)—President Hoover sat at his desk yesterday and exchanged greetings with President Yrigoyen of Argentina in his palace at Buenos Aires by means of the recently inaugurated radio-telephone service between North and South America.

The 6,000 miles between the capitals was bridged with mutual wishes for the welfare of the other by their respective executives.

President Yrigoyen, because of a sore throat, was unable to talk over the telephone at the institution of the service last Thursday, at which time President Hoover spoke with the Presidents of Uruguay and Chile.

President Hoover recalled the long, tedious journey by boat and train which took him to Argentina for his last conversation with Senor Yrigoyen, and contrasted that with the ease with which this one was conducted through the thousands of intervening miles of space.

Pittsburgh Man Rejoins Steel Firm

ALLIANCE, O., April 11.—Within sight of the plant where he began his career 40 years ago, James P. Allen, former Pittsburgh plant head, will return as a new director and sales department counsel at the Machined Steel Castings Company. Allen was elected director of the Alliance firm at the quarterly meeting. He retired last year as president and general manager of the Union Steel Casting Company of Pittsburgh.

TUTTLE JOINS CUSTOMS QUIZ

NEW YORK, April 11.—(AP.)—After a conference with Treasury officials and others investigating conditions at the Port of New York, Charles H. Tuttle, United States attorney, announced that he had arranged to co-operate with Frank X. Ebele, United States commissioner of customs, in the latter's inquiry into the alleged taking of bribes by customs employes.

Mr. Tuttle also stated that he would re-open the grand jury investigation of narcotic smuggling and said he would place at Mr. Ebele's disposal information collected during and since the recent grand jury examinations which resulted in a presentment in March. If graft is shown, Mr. Tuttle added, the cases will come into his province.

Among the things to be taken up in the present investigation, Mr. Tuttle said, are the recent seizures of narcotics which came in on the Majestic and the Ile de France, and the case of Jacob Blum, who was arrested aboard the Berengeria as an alleged member of a huge narcotic ring.

Mr. Ebele, who yesterday revealed that 25 customs inspectors were under suspicion of accepting bribes and gratuities, said today that the low pay of customs men was "shocking" and that he would recommend increases in salary. He said he probably would return to Washington tomorrow and go further into the information gathered here before making a report to his superiors.

Two Dover Women Die of Injuries

DOVER, O., April 11.—Two Dover women are dead as a result of accidents. Mrs. Mary Hill, 72, was injured March 4 in an automobile accident near Steubenville. Mrs. Matteo Rini, 67, grocer's wife, stumbled and fell down stairs last Saturday night.

Greensburg Child Injured By Auto

GREENSBURG, Pa., April 11.—Struck by an auto driven by George Cunningham of Connellsville, Kenneth Manner, 9, of Greensburg, received head injuries and a possible fracture of the left arm. Witnesses said the boy ran in front of the auto.

ANZAC PRAISES ARMS PARLEY

LONDON, April 11.—(AP.)—J. E. Fenton, Australia's delegate to the naval conference, said last night the London naval conference has achieved a great deal in bringing together the Anglo-Saxon peoples of the world.

Mr. Fenton believed there never had been a better feeling between the United States and Great Britain than that existing today. He estimated the budget saving to the three powers whose programs are to be limited by a pact would amount to $1,000,000,000 before the end of the five-year limitation period.

STATE OFFICER IMPEACHED

JACKSON, Miss., April 11.—(AP.)—The Mississippi House of Representatives voted 97 to 35 early today to impeach Lester C. Franklin, chairman of the State Tax Commission.

Fourteen articles of impeachment were brought against Franklin in connection with allegations that he "tipped" Warren Brothers Paving Company, of Boston, of a contemplated $10,000,000 anti-trust suit against that firm by supplying their attorneys with reports of a bill of complaint prepared by the state.

A legislative committee recently investigated charges that Warren Brothers gave Carl Marshall, an attorney, $80,000 to settle the proposed suit. Marshall declined to answer questions as to whether state officials received any part of the $80,000. He was ordered to jail by the Legislature for contempt and subsequently pardoned by Gov. Bilbo. The legislators declined to recognize the pardon and demanded his arrest, but Marshall left the state.

2 MAIL ROUTES HERE DELAYED

WASHINGTON, April 11.—Pending final action in Congress on the Watres bill, Post Office Department officials let it be known today that the proposed air mail route between New York, Pittsburgh and St. Louis, on which hearings were held some months back, will be held in abeyance and a definite decision delayed.

The bill, sponsored by Representative Watres, of Pennsylvania, seeks to reorganize the present system of letting air mail contracts, and the Post Office Department, it was explained, has decided to defer action on all proposed new routes until it is determined whether the legislation will prevail.

Occupying the same position, therefore, is the air mail route proposed between Pittsburgh, Washington and Norfolk. Both projects were considered in extensive public hearings and both are certain to be authorized, it is asserted, once the pending legislation is disposed of.

MUD HAMPERS FIRE FIGHTERS

Fire starting in a shed in the rear of 2406 and 2408 Berthoud street today destroyed the shed and damaged the two homes. The loss was estimated by Battalion Chief Henry F. Schwarz at $1,000.

Firemen were hampered in fighting the flames when the hook-and-ladder truck was unable to plow through the mud in Berthoud street. The firemen were forced to carry ladders three-quarters of a mile to the scene of the blaze.

Residents said they had petitioned city officials to repair the street, but nothing had been done.

The homes damaged by the flames were those of Roford Mitchell, Negro, of 2406 Berthoud street, and Howard Cuff, Negro, of 2408 Berthoud street.

FIGHT RENEWAL OF CARGO CASE

WASHINGTON, April 11.—(INS.)—Southern coal operators today decided to intervene in opposition to the application of Pennsylvania and Ohio bituminous coal operators to re-open the lake cargo coal case. This action was taken following a two-day discussion here in which 20 coal executives operating mines in West Virginia, Virginia, Tennessee and Kentucky participated.

Four Southern railroads handling lake cargo coal—Chesapeake and Ohio, Louisville and Nashville, Norfolk and Western and the Virginian—have already asked the commission to dismiss the application of the Northern operators to re-open the case.

British Envoy's Home Well Built For Liquors

WASHINGTON, April 11.—(AP.)—Whether Sir Ronald Lindsay, the New British ambassador, decides to continue his predecessor's policy on the question of a wet or dry embassy, the new building nearing completion on Massachusetts avenue is well prepared to receive a good supply of wines and liquors.

When the architect drew the plans, which were approved by Sir Esme Howard before his retirement and in spite of his dry edict, a spacious wine cellar was included. The builder did the rest and visitors who inspected the embassy noticed it had a strong steel door with the last word in the locksmith's art for security.

ACCUSES SQUIRE OF EXTORTION

Justice of the Peace J. P. Gibb, of Sewickley, today faced a charge of extortion, preferred against him by David Keys, of Coraopolis, last night. The information was made before Justice of the Peace George Kayser, of Coraopolis, after Gibb had fined Keys in connection with the crusade against unlicensed dogs.

Similar charges also were lodged against Constables John Felbig, of Kilbuck Township, and Frank Covacs, of Aleppo Township. No date has been set for the hearing. According to 'Squire Kayser, constables from other sections recently entered Coraopolis and arrested owners of unlicensed dogs. The owners were summoned before Gibb and fined, Kayser said.

BUS LINE SUED FOR NEGRO BAN

Through Attorney J. Thomas Hoffman, Frank Hosley, a Negro, filed suit against Greyhound Lines, Inc., in Common Pleas Court, asking $25,000 damages. He avers that after he had bought a ticket to Atlanta the company refused, because of his color, to carry him on the latter stage of the journey.

According to Hosley, he received word that his brother was dying in Fort Valley, Ga., and bought a bus ticket at a cost of $21.75 for the ride from Pittsburgh to Atlanta. At Chattanooga the passengers, he avers, were told to change to another bus. He was told, however, that Negroes were not carried.

He appealed in vain, he declared, for a refund of at least part of the purchase price of the ticket.

Having no money, he states, he had to remain in Chattanooga for 12 days, and in the meanwhile his brother died.

Hungarian Premier Italian King's Guest

ROME, April 11.—(AP.)—Count Stephen Bethlen, premier of Hungary, arrived here today for a visit. He was met at the railway station by Under Secretary Giunta, acting for Premier Mussolini, and by other officials.

He had luncheon with King Victor Emanuel at the Quirinal Palace. Cardinal Pacelli, papal secretary of state, will receive him in audience Saturday afternoon.

The press stressed that the count's visit was concerned simply with trade relations of the two countries, and the outcome of reparations problems in Northeastern Europe.

DRY MEN RAID TWO CLUBS

The drinking bouts of patrons in two clubs ended abruptly when prohibition agents swooped down on them yesterday and made seizures of whisky.

The proprietor of a second-floor club at 4408 Liberty avenue, escaped by way of a roof as the agents were battering down two heavy doors leading into the place, they reported. Three men found drinking in the place were ordered out by the agents. Beer and whisky was confiscated, it was said.

In another club at 1821 East street, the dry men routed eight customers, after arresting William Schmidt, 59, and finding a small quantity of whisky, according to the agents' report.

A 100-gallon still, 59 barrels of mash and 135 gallons of moonshine found in a dwelling at 5627 Melvin street, resulted in the arrest of Rosie Long, 28, agents asserted. In the saloon of Ben Szemaneski, 37, at 1521 Penn avenue, a small quantity of whisky was found, agents said.

Bishops to Confer On Canonizations

VATICAN CITY, April 11.—(AP.)—Several consistories, the first April 23, will be held in Vatican City this spring to allow bishops' expression of opinion on proposed canonizations scheduled for June.

A semi-official note stresses that these consistories will be devoted exclusively to canonizations and not the creation of new cardinals.

Reds Train Women As Army Officers

MOSCOW, April 11.—(AP.)—The Soviet government decided today to train certain groups of women as officers in technical branches of the red army.

Those who show special aptitude for soldiery will be admitted to military academies for further instruction.

CHICAGO SEEKS FISCAL REFORM

CHICAGO, April 11.—(INS.)—Civic officials today were considering a financial relief program for Chicago which includes a bond issue to put the city on a cash basis, a state income tax and an increased tax rate.

Financial and legal experts have completed an eight weeks' study on a legislative plan to be offered the local governing bodies which will bring Chicago out of its present financial muddle.

More than 2,000 bills outstanding against Cook County were to be settled today with $1,000,000 borrowed from the Silas H. Strawn Rescue Committee.

SOUTH WINS IN SHOALS FIGHT

WASHINGTON, April 11.—(Universal.)—After a battle in the House Military Affairs Committee, Southern Democrats gained a strategic victory in their fight for the passage of a bill disposing of the Muscle Shoals problem at this session of Congress.

As a result the committee will meet next Tuesday in secret session to reach a showdown on whether a bill is to be speedily reported to the House or the proposition be allowed to die.

Charges that an effort was being made to filibuster the Muscle Shoals bill to death in committee were made by Representative Speaks, (Rep.), of Ohio, during a flareup in the committee.

Pointing out that the program of House leaders is to adjourn this session of Congress around June 1, Representative Hill, (Dem.), of Alabama, demanded that the committee speedily act on the Norris bill for government operation of Muscle Shoals.

This led Acting Chairman Ransley, (Rep.), of Pennsylvania, a foe of government operation, to charge that attempts were being made to "railroad" Muscle Shoals legislation through the committee.

Rallying to Hill's side, Representative Quin, (Dem.), of Mississippi; Garrett, (Dem.), of Texas, and Speaks pointed out that for 10 years the committee had been debating Muscle Shoals and delay now will smother the legislation.

Charles J. Brand, executive secretary of the National Fertilizer Association, presented statistics on the production and consumption of fertilizers in the United States.

R. C. A., BRITISH MERGER SEEN

NEW YORK, April 11.—(AP.)—The New York Times says it has learned that the Radio Corporation of America is about to acquire control of the Columbia Graphophone Company, Ltd., of England, as an important part of a comprehensive plan of world-wide reorganization.

The deal would give the corporation a complete international manufacturing and distributing organization in every branch of the home entertainment field with book assets at $180,000,000.

The Columbia Graphophone Company has important manufacturing activities in Connecticut, California, Europe, South America and Japan. Financial observers believe, however, that its chief value to the Radio corporation would be its practically world-wide distributing organizations.

Pittsburgh Man Held Over Crash

We Now Present

By DARRELL V. MARTIN,
Radio Editor.

THE new programs, one from the steamship Leviathan, will be introduced over Pittsburgh stations tonight.

Ben Bernie's Orchestra will open the Club Leviathan at 11 o'clock. The program will come to WCAE direct from the steamship.

The Spanish favorite, Countess Olga Albani, will be guest soloist for the Kodak program, which has its premiere at 10:30 through KDKA.

Honore de Balzac, French novelist who is noted for his "Droll Stories," was also noted in his day as a great lover. KDKA will broadcast at 8:45 the amazing story of his love for the beautiful Polish countess, Eva de Hanska. Famed for the writing of short stories, Balzac was not abrupt in love. He courted the countess for 17 years.

The capture of Fort Ticonderoga, which, because it was one of the first blows struck by the Colonists in their fight for freedom, is one of the most brilliant episodes in American history, will be recounted in a dramatic episode from KDKA at 8.

The studios will be littered with sound effects for this program. The intensity increases as the program moves along until finally the dramatic height is reached with the cry "Forward." With a great clatter and hubdub the united Colonists then move forward to attack. The climax comes with the surrender of the British fort. A fitting musical epilogue is the rejoicing in song which follows the victory.

A 10-minute talk on pennant possibilities of all the big league baseball teams by Alan J. Gould, Associated Press sports editor, is scheduled for WJZ at 7:30 tonight.

BLANKETY-BLANK!

The NBC has been offered a new service by the New York Telephone Company. The service consists of telephone numbers that don't answer. The reason: Amos and Andy used a real telephone number by accident in one of their sketches and the day after the broadcast a tired woman called up the telephone company and reported that she had received some 800 calls the night before and calls were still coming in at 3 a. m. As neither "Madame Queen" or "Kingfish" lived at her home, she asked that something be done about it.

Blank telephone numbers will be used by Amos and Andy and other NBC players after this.

"Capture of Ticonderoga"
Ethan Allen and his Green Mountain Boys will live again when KDKA broadcasts "The Capture of Fort Ticonderoga."
The part of Ethan Allen will be taken by Frederick S. Rodgers, general program director of the Westinghouse radio stations. He has directed a great deal of his attention to his lines wherein Col. Allen thunders "In the name of the Great Jehovah and the Continental Congress" in response to a question by the British commander.
An interesting event in the Freedom program is the singing of an old English tavern song in praise of Bacchus. Thirty-seven years later the music was to be used in the anthem "The Star Spangled Banner."

Balzac's Romance.
The amazing story of Balzac's 17-year courtship of the Polish countess, Eva de Hanska, will be dramatized.
When Honore de Balzac had reached the age of 30 his novels began to bring him fame and dozens of letters from women readers who wanted his advice, wanted to meet him and to tell him their troubles. Balzac tossed away most of these notes until finally a letter signed "The Unknown Lady" attracted his attention.
After a year, she wrote again and this time she revealed that she was a wealthy countess, the young wife of an elderly man. Then began a correspondence which lasted for 17 years, during which time she occupied all Balzac's romantic thoughts. Another year passed before they met and he found her very beautiful. After 18 years her husband died and Balzac waited to hear that she would marry him.
He waited seven years, writing novels which have become immortal. Finally, in 1850, when his health was broken, she consented to marry him and he died within five months.

"On the Mall."
Edwin Franko Goldman, famous band leader, is the composer of "On the Mall," which will be played as the concluding number.
"On the Mall" is a stirring march, deriving its title from the Mall in New York's Central Park, where Goldman has directed many concerts.
A vocal trio, Tom, Dick and Harry; a mixed chorus of 12 voices, and a 30-piece orchestra, under the direction of Josef Koestner contribute to the program.

Denmark Rejects Capital Punishment

COPENHAGEN, April 11.—(AP.)—The Danish Parliament has adopted a new penal code which abolishes capital punishment.

The death penalty provided heretofore was decapitation. But it has not been invoked in 38 years.

Opera Future Safe, Opinion of Gadski

NEW YORK, April 11.—(AP.)—Johanna Gadski believes in the future of opera, notwithstanding the views of Amelita Galli-Curci. She has found that not only do the larger cities want it, but the smaller ones show great appreciation at the first opportunity.

WAGONS CRUISE OREGON TRAIL

ST. LOUIS, April 11 —(AP)— Frontier days were lived again here when a covered wagon train, rumbling out of the past, re-enacted the departure of the first expedition over the Oregon Trail 100 years ago.

Just as the party of frontiersmen set out from St. Louis for the West on April 10 1830, so did the cavalcade yesterday. Eighty-one men made up the reconstructed expedition. They rode in 10 covered wagons, two ancient buggies, and on horses and mules. The wagon most representative of frontier days was once owned by Gen. Ulysses S. Grant. Others were of more modern vintage.

Indians wearing war paint and feathers, men in fur caps and leather coats and pants, women in long flowing dresses and hoop skirts made the scene realistic as the expedition departed from a spot near the Mississippi River front and traveled five miles through St. Louis streets.

While the wagon train was real enough, the surroundings were in direct contrast to those of 100 years ago. Then only a handful of relatives and friends bid goodbye to the hardy pioneers as they started the long trek. Today thousands were present and it took many policemen to keep back the crowds. Throngs lined the streets. One hundred years ago there were only a few cattle, horses, oxen and wagons at the scene. A few cattle had been brought to the spot, but in place of wagons and horses there were automobiles, street cars and buses, and a dirigible soared overhead. Then there were no cameras or radio microphones.

At the crack of a blacksnake whip at 3 p. m., the 81 men jumped into their wagons, and as a group of women ran from one wagon to another, bidding the men goodbye, the expedition was off for the West. It carried a message from Gov. H. S. Caulfield, of Missouri, addressed to Gov. A. W. Norblad at Salem, Oregon.

INDUSTRIES JOIN RATE FIGHT

WASHINGTON Pa., April 11 — Representatives of industrial firms in the Washington district will join with those of Pittsburgh in protesting a proposed advance in freight rates to be published soon and effective May 20.

A comparison of the present rates with those that are proposed shows an increase in freight rates on steel between Washington and other points as follows:

Pittsburgh, 19 per cent; Canonsburg, 8 per cent; Carnegie, 6 per cent; Homestead, 35 per cent, and McKeesport, 31 per cent.

The rates apply to all finished steel products, including pipe used in quantities in Washington and vicinity for water and gas lines.

Nemacolin Youth Injured In Crash

MUSICIANS WIN FIGHT FOR JOBS

SAN FRANCISCO, April 11 (AP.)—Union musicians here have won a round in their fight to hold their jobs despite the advent of the audible motion pictures.

The State District Court of Appeals reversed a trial court judgment which had dismissed the San Francisco musicians' union suit for a restraining order against the Allied Amusements Industries of California and others. The orders sought would have forbidden under a prior contract the discharge of musicians from theaters in which "talkies" devices had been installed.

An agreement between the Allied Amusements and the union on September 30, 1928, provided that "minimum sized orchestras and an organist should be retained in any of the Allied Amusements 61 theaters should sound equipment be installed. The agreement was to run two years.

In the Superior Court trial the Allied Amusements contended that the agreement was intended to fix wages and conditions of employment, and was not in itself a contract for employment.

The Allied Amusements now is expected to appeal to the State Supreme Court.

Many jewel-studded decorations and trinkets were also taken, including 100 ducats struck off by Maria Theresa, daughter of the Emperor Charles VI and presented to famous Austrian generals.

MILES' DEATH HELD NATURAL

WASHINGTON, April 11 (INS).—Basil Miles, diplomat and man of adventure, died of natural causes and no evidence has been brought forward warranting the exhumation of his body, the Department of Justice reported in announcing the close of its investigation.

This is the final chapter in recent mobilization of reports to the effect that he had been given a dose of poison when he died here two years ago. These reports led to an investigation by the Department of Justice and the district attorney's office.

The widow of Miles was married to Col. H. H. Rogers some time ago.

SEES CREATION IN PROGRESS

NEW YORK, April 11.—(AP.)—In a lecture on advances in knowledge of the universe, Prof. Robert A. Millikan, of the California Institute of Technology, took issue last night with the theory of Sir James Jeans and others that the universe is disintegrating.

Dr. Millikan, basing his opinion upon 10 outstanding scientific discoveries, took the view that a parallel process of uninterrupted creation is probably at work in inter-stellar space, producing heavy elements out of lighter ones.

He spoke before the Science Forum in the engineering society building under the auspices of the American Institute of the City of New York, the Museum of the Peaceful Arts, and the New York Electrical Society.

The first clear indication of a building-up process in the universe, Dr. Millikan said, was the seventh great development—that of the positive ray analysis method of ascertaining that all elements were exact multiples of the weight of hydrogen and, in fact, were at least once definitely built up from hydrogen, which raises insistently the question as to whether the same process is not even now going on somewhere.

Another sign-post, he said, was Aston's set of measurements, called the Aston curve, from which Dr. Millikan obtained corroboration not only of the Einstein theory but also definite proof that, with the exception of a few of the heavier elements, all element atoms are in a state of greatest stability, and predicted the existence of a source emitting rays of greater energy than those already known.

BRAZIL ASKS BIG COFFEE LOAN

NEW YORK, April 11.—(AP.)—A huge coffee loan, negotiated in London and New York through a syndicate of international bankers by the state of Sao Paulo, Brazil, is expected to be floated soon. Advices from Sao Paulo said the loan would amount to about $100,000,000.

The loan is designed to stabilize the coffee situation, which, owing to over-production in Brazil and consequent depressed prices, has caused deflation in retail coffee prices.

Speyer & Co., New York bankers, made the announcement here, saying:

"The state of Sao Paulo is abandoning its former policy of restricting entries of coffee into the port of Santos in order to maintain the price, and will liquidate gradually over a maximum period of 10 years the accumulated stock of coffee and place future crops on the market currently. In order to consummate this plan, the state is negotiating for a large international coffee realization loan with J. Henry Schroeder and Company, London."

The announcement added that a substantial amount of the loan is to be offered in the United States with the co-operation of American bankers.

Honduras Passes New Tax on Land

TEGUCIGALPA, Honduras, April 11.—(AP.)—Congress has passed a law creating a new tax called "vialidad" that applies to government lands held by corporations and individuals under decrees that have not been signed by proper officials. Foreign companies alone hold more than 200 acres of such lands. The tax is $1 monthly for every two acres.

Congress has closed its ordinary sessions, but is expected to meet in an extraordinary session at the beginning of May.

Ad Convention Asks Address by Hoover

WASHINGTON, April 11.—(AP.)—President Hoover was invited to address the twenty-sixth annual convention of the Advertising Federation of America to be held in Washington May 18 to 21.

C. C. Younggreen, of Milwaukee, president of the Federation, and Gilbert T. Hodges, of New York, extended the invitation, which the President took under advisement.

Waynesburg Gets First Circus In 50 Years

WAYNESBURG, Pa., April 11. After almost half a century Waynesburg is to have a circus on May 15.

It will be the first time since the ancient "horse and wagon show" toured the country that a circus has appeared in Greene County.

CREW OF LOST SHIP RESCUED

HALIFAX, N. S., April 11.—(AP.)—The crew of the ... ing 100-ton schooner Benjamin Smith was rescued at sea yesterday by the Spanish trawler Tramontana, a radio message from the latter to C. H. Harvey, agent for Nova Scotia of the Marine and Fisheries Department, said.

The hulk of the abandoned vessel, partly submerged, was described as very dangerous to navigation. The position given was 43.25 North Latitude 60.25 West Longitude, or several hundred miles southeast of Nova Scotia.

YANCEY GROUP PLANS FLIGHTS

NEW YORK, April 11.—(AP.)—Capt. Lewis Yancy, navigator, William Alexander, pilot, and Zeh Bouck, radio operator, of the airplane The Pilot, which last week flew from New York to Bermuda, returned last night on the liner Araguaya, and announced new flight plans. Three Army airplanes circled overhead to welcome them.

They said that they believed their flight had been a success in proving safe flight possible between New York and Bermuda. The only thing necessary for the establishment of regular service, Bouck said, is the establishment of a radio beacon in Bermuda.

Asserting they had had enough gasoline to complete their journey on the first day, April 1, Alexander added:

"We came down because of nightfall and within 91 miles of Bermuda. Yancey was so accurate in his navigation that next morning, after a night's bouncing on our pontoons, we only had to figure the drift during the night. When we did hit Bermuda, we did so on the nose."

The plane, which was brought back on the Araguaya, is to be towed to City Island, where it is to be made ready for a flight to Central and South America, which Alexander and Bouck expect to start in the next two weeks.

Yancey said he is planning a non-stop flight to Russia.

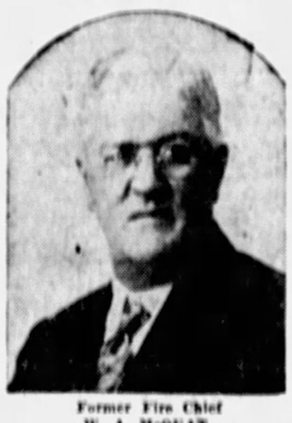
MONROE'S FORMULA NO. 7 OVERCAME HIS RHEUMATISM



Former Fire Chief W. A. McOUAT.

Out in all sorts of weather, fighting the flames day and night, no wonder Former Fire-Chief McOuat contracted an awful case of rheumatism and neuritis. Thousands and thousands of men and women are suffering today who have been careless and heedless of the consequences to their health but they need not remain sick for MONROE'S FORMULA NO. 7 is here to regain their health. Furthermore, so great is our confidence and so strong do we want your confidence to be that we ask you to read carefully the famous "pink slip" with every bottle and see just what this marvelous medicine contains.

Mr. McOuat was formerly fire chief of Portsmouth, Ohio, and wrote us all about his terrible pains and how he had to lay off from his work and was almost out of the picture. He wrote also, "Within a week after I started to take MONROE'S FORMULA NO. 7 entirely overcame a severe case of neuritis and rheumatism in my feet and ankles. The pains were entirely banished and to date I have not had a minute's trouble. I highly and freely recommend this medicine to any who may be bothered with similar trouble."

For rheumatism, neuritis, indigestion, constipation, kidney and bladder troubles and general run-down condition there isn't a medicine on earth like MONROE'S FORMULA NO. 7. Go to DOW'S DRUG STORE at Diamond and Smithfield Sts., Pittsburgh and talk this over with the MONROE'S FORMULA NO. 7 Man who is there daily from 9 a. m. to 6 p. m. and every Saturday from 9 a. m. to 9 p. m. STUDENTS FIRM IN STRIKE

HARROGATE, Tenn., April 11.—The student strike at Lincoln Memorial University continues despite an announcement of no compromise by school authorities.

"I do not intend to compromise and turn this institution over to people who are in rebellion," said Acting President J. H. S. Morrison.

A group of strikers removed a United States flag from a university building as a gesture of protest. At mass meetings they pledged to remain out until their demands for an investigation of the school and for reinstatement of discharged faculty members are recognized.

Dr. Alfred De Jonge, one of those for whom the strike was called, said he resigned in February and did not want to return. He said he sympathized with the students.

Clay McCarroll, student leader, was notified that he must inform school authorities as to whether he intends to continue his activities.

"But I don't intend to use suspension or expulsion as a means of breaking it up," Acting President Morrison said. I hope the boys and girls taking part will get tired and come back. A good bunch are still loyal and we are holding classes."

Student leaders contend that the majority of the 400 or more college pupils were committed to the strike.

New Link Planned In River Highway

CHARLEROI, Pa., April 11.—An early letting by the highway department of Route No. 736, between New Eagle and Elrama boroughs, will add another link in the all-river highway from Brownsville to Pittsburgh, State Assemblyman W. C. McCallister of Monongahela, announced. The route to be improved is approximately seven miles in length.

Man, Sister Jailed As Counterfeiters

FAIRMONT, W. Va., April 11.—(AP)—Virgil Wilmouth of Weston and his sister, Clarissa, were held for United States Court at Wheeling by a United States commissioner here on charges of passing and possessing counterfeit money. The man was unable to furnish $10,000 bond and the sister $5,000. They were in the Marion County jail. Counterfeit Federal Reserve notes of $20 denomination were alleged to have been passed by the couple in Harrison and Lewis counties.

Has Things All His Own Way Now

You will find nothing of a dejected, hopeless look in Wilfrid Lite's face now, nor any trace of bad breath or ruddy skin since he started how to keep down the excessive acids which come when his stomach can't digest the starchy and sweet foods he eats. "I am taking Acidine," says Mr. Litelf, whose address is 42 West 81st St., New York, N. Y., with a show of satisfaction at conquest gives him, "and don't ever have the bad taste in my mouth, to say nothing of the indigestion."

Try Acidine yourself if you have a stomach which lets your food turn sour and fill you with gas. Acidine will quickly the sour mixes so it can pass out. It sweetens the stomach and you'll enjoy every bite of food you eat. Get Acidine at any drug store.

WIFE CHARGES HEALTH FRAUD

Mrs. Mary Geise, 26, of Aspinwall, testified in her divorce suit today against John Geise, 27, a Pitt University professor, that he had concealed the fact that he was epileptic from her before their marriage.

Don't fool yourself!

Since halitosis never announces itself to the victim, you simply cannot know when you have it.

Why she didn't want to kiss him

Halitosis (unpleasant breath) has broken up many a love affair and friendship.

Don't fool yourself that you never have it. Because you simply cannot be sure of that. Halitosis never announces itself to the victim. But it does to others—and offends them.

Therefore, before meeting others, rinse the mouth with full strength Listerine. If halitosis is present, it destroys it. If it isn't (and you cannot tell) your mouth receives the benefit of a refreshing and invigorating treatment.

Listerine overcomes halitosis because it is an active antiseptic and germicide which kills germs of all kinds in 15 seconds. Therefore, it checks food fermentation and infection—both a cause of odors. Then, being a powerful deodorant, it gets rid of the odors themselves.

Keep a bottle of Listerine handy in home and office. Use it often. It pays. Lambert Pharmacal Company, St. Louis, Mo., U. S. A.

PASTOR IN RAID DENIES GUILT

ST. PAUL, Minn., April 11.—(AP).—The Rev. William F. Diehl, pastor of the St. Lucas Evangelical Church, Faribault, Minn., arrested Wednesday night in a liquor raid, was released late yesterday in custody of his attorney, after he had appeared before a Federal Grand Jury, which was reported to have returned a no-bill in his case.

The grand jury is believed to have heard the Rev. Mr. Diehl's explanation, made earlier in the day, that in his arrest at the hotel he was the "innocent victim of an attempt to help one of my congregation sell some furniture."

He said he had talked with the hotel proprietors three weeks ago to induce them to purchase the furniture from one of the members of his congregation.

He said he was at the hotel at the time of the raid to close the furniture deal and saw in it "a chance to help a member of my congregation make a little money."

Referring to a traveling bag in which the agents found a bottle, the Rev. Mr. Diehl said "they opened it and found a package inside, of which I had no knowledge. I did not place it there. They opened the package and in it found a bottle of liquor. I did not buy the liquor, or put it in my bag. I did not see anyone else do it. I am not a drinking man."

FORMER HOUSE MEMBER DIES

WELCH, W. Va., April 11.—(AP.)—James French Strother, 62, former congressman and former McDowell County jurist, died at his home here yesterday after an illness of two years. He had been in a coma for the last month.

Elected to Congress from the Fifth West Virginia District in 1924, Strother retired after four years of service because of ill health. Previous to that time he was for almost a score of years judge of the McDowell County Criminal Court.

The Coolidges Were Just Like Other Folks

"I attended to the furnishing of it myself and when it was ready Mrs. Coolidge and I walked over to it."

THAT first little home they had after they were married meant so much to them. The former president, in his vivid autobiography speaks lovingly of it . . . .

"After our return from a trip to Montreal we stayed a short time at the Norwood Hotel but soon started housekeeping. We rented a very comfortable house that needed but one maid to help Mrs. Coolidge do the work. Of course, my expenses increased and I had to plan very carefully for a time to live within my income.

"I know very well what it means to awake in the night and realize that the rent is coming due and wondering where the money is coming from with which to pay it. The only way I know of escape from that constant tragedy is to keep running expenses low enough so that something may be saved to meet the day when earnings may be small. . . . . .

"The days passed quietly with us until the next autumn when we moved into the house in Massasoit Street that was to be our home for so long. I attended to the furnishing of it myself and when it was ready Mrs. Coolidge and I walked over to it.

"In about two weeks our first boy came on the evening of September 7th. The fragrance of the clematis which covered the bay window filled the room like a benediction where the mother lay with her baby. We called him John in honor of my father. It was all very wonderful to us."

PRISONER FACES SLAYING QUIZ

LOS ANGELES, April 11.—(AP.)—Morris Marks, arrested in New York yesterday, was believed by Los Angeles police to be Morrie Moll, alias "The Phantom Gunman."

Upon receipt of telegraphic advices that the man was in custody, authorities requested that he be held under heavy guard for extradition here to face charges of robbery and for questioning in connection with the murder last September 26 of David Antink, real estate auditor.

The robbery charged against Moll is the holdup of Antink in 1923, while he was a drug store cashier. Four men obtained $33,000 from him. Antink fought his assailants, wounding one of them, Granville Blair, who was captured and sent to prison. Antink was shot but recovered. Elmer Dowdy, another of the quartet, is serving a penitentiary term for his part in the holdup. The third gunman, Harry A. Frank, was arrested in Ohio and sent to prison there on another charge.

Moll was arrested last year in St. Paul, Minn. Antink was taken there and identified him as the fourth robber. While extradition proceedings were under way, Moll was released on $10,000 bail and jumped his bond. Three months later Antink was slain near his Hollywood home by three men.

Police claim Moll engineered the slaying if he did not actually participate in it.

Criminal records show that Moll was tried and acquitted of murder in St. Louis in 1925 and in Chicago in 1920. In Chicago he was tried with William Burke, who is sought in connection with the St. Valentine's Day gang slaying in Chicago last year, on a charge of murdering a telephone company cashier.

SLEUTH SLAYS SALOON BANDIT

DETROIT, April 11.—(AP.)—One of the two men who attempted to hold up a saloon here last night was shot and killed by Detective Fred Pratt, who went into the place after observing the holdup through a window.

The man killed was identified as George A. Gilbert, 32. His companion escaped.

Pratt said he saw the two men in the saloon, Gilbert pointing his pistol at the bartender, Thomas Erwin. He went in and grappled with Gilbert, he said, shooting him in the abdomen.

Gilbert ran out after he was wounded, heading for a parked automobile. The other man ran in the opposite direction. Pratt fired twice at Gilbert as he ran, one of the bullets taking effect. He died almost immediately.

The saloon is at Fifth street and Grand River avenue.

Death Car Driver Begins 6-Month Term

John Flint today began serving a term of six months in the workhouse following his conviction in Criminal Court on a charge of involuntary manslaughter. He had been tried before Judge Joseph M. Swearingen for the death of Helen R. Fife, 16-year-old schoolgirl of near Bridgeville, who was killed last November when the automobile in which she was riding, driven by Merle Couch, was struck by Flint's car on the William Flinn Highway near Bridgeville.

FORD ACCUSED ON AIR PATENTS

WILMINGTON, Del., April 11.—(AP).—Bills charging infringement of ten patents having to do with improvements for aircraft were filed in Federal Court here by the Curtiss Assets Corporation and the Curtiss Aeroplane and Motor Corporation, Inc., of Garden City, Long Island, against the Ford Motor Company.

The bill of complaint filed by the Curtiss Assets Corporation involves the infringement of eight patents, seven for improvements for airplanes and the eighth for improvements in the "method of getting a hydroaeroplane off the water," which, the plaintiff alleges, the Ford company has been manufacturing and using. The other seven, it is alleged, are manufactured and sold by the defendant company.

In the bill of complaints filed by the Curtiss Aeroplane and Motor Corporation, Inc., it is charged that the Ford company infringed two patents having to do with improvements in aircraft.

The plaintiff companies ask that the Ford company answer the bills and also that a preliminary injunction be issued until the case is heard and that a permanent injunction be granted restraining the Ford company from continuing the manufacture, sale and use of the improvement alleged to be infringed upon.

WHITE HOUSE OFFICES READY

WASHINGTON, April 11.—(AP.)—President Hoover expects to be back in the executive offices of the White House on Monday morning.

The renovated office building, damaged by fire Christmas Eve to the extent of more than $100,000, was virtually ready today to receive the President and his secretaries.

Since the fire, the chief executive has maintained his offices in the State, War and Navy Building. His private office is that formerly occupied by Gen. Pershing.

The arrangement of the executive offices has not been changed. A new ventilating system to maintain even temperatures and humidity, summer and winter, was installed during the repair work.

Woman Arrested For Street Holdup

WHEELING, W. Va., April 11.—(AP.)—Charged with seizing W. J. Craig, throwing him to a street and rifling his pockets of $65, Mrs. Clara Steptoe, 35, described as a Negro of Amazonian type, was held in default of $2,000 bond on a charge of robbery.

Wife of Navy's Crack Flier Freed

PROVIDENCE, R. I., April 11.—(AP.)—Mrs. Mona G. Brow, of Edgewood, wife of Lieut. Harold J. Brow, noted aviator, was granted a divorce in Superior Court on the ground of extreme cruelty. She was awarded custody of her minor daughter and $150 per month for support of the child.

Lieut. Brow, now stationed at San Diego, Cal., won fame in 1923 when he flew a Navy plane 244.15 miles an hour shattering the world record. He piloted the first plane from which a torpedo was launched successfully.

The Brows were married in 1923.

Railroad Worker Falls From Freight

UNITY IN CHILD AID URGED

WASHINGTON, April 11.—(AP.)—A unification of the local forces interested in child health was advocated last night by Secretary Wilbur in addressing the White House Conference on Child Health and Protection, of which he is chairman.

There are two general methods of working for the care of the child, he said.

"One visualizes a great national organization reaching out, spreading its tentacles into every part of the country and telling people what to do," he explained. "The other visualizes the local forces coming together in a united effort and doing a job in accordance with local possibilities.

"I say quite frankly that I belong to what may be called the county seat group—the local crowd—not the national crowd. I have a feeling that we will never develop a real democracy unless we develop it with a local significance and interest."

Sutersville Boy Drowned At Play

MORE JUVENILE HOMES ASKED

PHILADELPHIA, April 11.—(AP.) — Members of the third judicial conference here voted to ask the Legislature to remedy the congestion of institutions for delinquent juveniles here.

The decision came after vigorous denunciation of the overcrowding at Byberry, Glen Mills and Spring City. The decision was led by Judge Charles L. Brown, of the Municipal Court.

A commission was appointed to prepare recommendations for immediate improvements to be presented at the next session of the Legislature.

Chief Justice Robert Von Moschzisker presided at the meeting.

"The juvenile courts of Pennsylvania are suffering because there are no institutions to which judges can send the young boys and girls who are found guilty of delinquency," Judge Brown declared.

"There is a waiting list of about 800 for the Spring City institution. About 225 boys ought to have been sent to Glen Mills, and the judges were forced to send them home. We tried to get some in at Byberry, but there, too, they are overcrowded."

Judge Brown also assailed the condition of insane asylums, prisons and other penal institutions throughout the state. They are all congested, he declared.

The proposal for juryless trials was rejected after a prolonged discussion, which ended with Judge Gordon's plea that no man "has a right to hold the fate of a fellow man in the hollow of his hand."

POISON GINGER INQUIRY OPENS

CINCINATTI, April 11.—(AP.)—Members of the Cincinnati federal grand jury have been recalled for a second session to consider evidence pointing to liquor law violations in the sale of liquid extract of ginger, it was announced here. The jury was discharged Tuesday after returning 62 indictments.

Sawyer A. Smith, United States district attorney at Covington, Ky., delivered to Haveth E. Mau, district attorney here, evidence involving a number of southern Ohio dealers. Smith said he was unable to prosecute three dealers in Kentucky because the evidence concerned acts committed on the Ohio side of the Ohio River only. The Federal grand jury at Cincinnati indicted 35 persons on similar charges several days ago.

The jury will reassemble here next Tuesday to consider the evidence turned over to Mau by Smith.

SIDE WALKS of PITTSBURGH

by WILLIAM PFARR

WE HAVE a reliable report on the recent Southern trip of Mrs. William Thaw, Jr., who is among Pittsburgh's socially prominent. Mrs. Thaw stopped overnight at a hotel en route. In the next room a group of men were discussing the market and shooting the good old-fashioned game of craps.

The walls were thin and Mrs. Thaw's sleep was disturbed. Furthermore, her pomeranian was in a barking mood. Each time the pomeranian barked, one of the adjoining gentlemen returned the bark. It was a great game and it continued through the night.

"I didn't mind much," Mrs. Thaw confided to a friend later. "I was young once myself, you know—although I didn't play craps."

We never realized how complicated was the business of selecting a state flower for Pennsylvania, or any other state, until we read the piece written for Editor Starrett's Pittsburgh Record by O. E. Jennings, head of Pitt's department of botany. Naively we thought all one had to do was line up a dozen or two flowers, look them over carefully and select this one or that one. But you try that sometime and see how far you get. Probably you won't get as far as the State Legislature, which is the very minimum in distances.

In the first place, Pennsylvania has no state flower, and in this respect it is laggard, for most states have. Iowa, for instance, has the wild rose and North Carolina boasts the goldenrod, although the goldenrod invites hay fever. (It occurs to us that it might not be a bad idea to select a state fever. Pennsylvania: high; Illinois, low; Kansas, agu.)

Prof. Jennings tells that Pennsylvanians have been discussing the merits of various flowers for several years. Then, too, the school children were asked to indicate a preference, but the best they could do was disagree. The women's clubs took up the matter and they were not in agreement. Bills were given to the Legislature, but either they were disregarded or unsuitable.

FINALLY flower lovers and botanists took the bit in their teeth. Two committees were appointed. Everybody agreed that a state flower should be a native of that particular state, that it should not be poisonous (this obviously eliminates poison ivy), that preferably it should not be the flower of any other state.

And now things seem to have reached a head. Most botanists appear agreed on the tulip tree. Prof. Jennings will not be surprised if the Legislature adopts the tulip tree, but Prof. Jennings has more confidence in the Legislature than we do. Before the various legislators adopt the tulip tree they will want to know how many admirers of the tulip tree are in their respective voting districts, whether a vote for the goldenrod wouldn't make them more popular back home. We are awaiting impatiently the reaction of the legislator who insists on voting for the wild phlox because the wild phlox grows in his district and he's not going to do anything that'll retard the popularity of the wild phlox.

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., April 11.

WHEN the papers get through raving about Mrs. McCormick being elected on, "Don't enter the World Court," maybe somebody will accidentally give her election the real credit. It was the woman herself. She could have won on, "Don't enter the world series," just as easy. But how we will pay for her election. Every woman that can fill out an application blank will start running for something. It will take 10 years to prove to women that it takes more than a kimono and an ambition to make a statesman.

P. S.—Yours for a return of old Jeffersonian Democracy, when men chewed tobacco and women could bake real biscuits.

Yours,

WILL.

Neil's Jealousy Leads to Argument With Ardeth

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

Ardeth Carroll is being wooed by Neil Burke, who rooms with her Aunt Stella. Almost every night when she returns home from work she finds him waiting in the hall for her, and he often causes her to be late for dinner. Aunt Stella gets angered and scolds Ardeth for holding back the meals. Ardeth feels depressed. Ardeth goes for a machine ride with Neil. Passing through a park Ardeth gazes at a young man whom she knows to see. Neil shows signs of jealousy.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

CHAPTER III.

A MOMENT only, while the riders filed by in the sunshine. A breath of time, when the man on horseback looked deep into the eyes of the girl in the automobile. Yet in that moment the world had changed for three people.

When the traffic signal was given to go ahead, Neil jammed in the gears viciously. It jolted Ardeth back to reality.

The girl's expression was dazed. Here—all unexpected—he had come riding toward her through the morning sunlight . . . After all this time she had seen him . . . And how oddly he had looked at her, as though he, too, had known her—had recognized the moment.

Awed joy tingled through her, kindling the flame which glowed in her eyes and sparkled in her hair.

The girl's face crimsoned. "I don't know what you mean—"

"Oh, yes, you do!" he answered roughly. "Think I didn't see your face when he went by! Look here—have you been seeing him? Have you gone out with him? Have you?"

Her heart thrilled at the thought, but she answered with offended dignity. "Of course, I haven't—though you've no right to ask! I never spoke to the man. I wouldn't have recognized him if you hadn't made such a fuss about it!"

"No, you wouldn't!" he jeered. "That's a hot one—when you saved that newspaper picture of him for three years—"

Ardeth Angered
Tells Neil That She Hates Him

Her face flamed. All pretense of dignity was swept away as she turned on him.

"How do you know that? Oh, that miserable little sneak, Bet! She told! You've been talking me over with her! Oh, I hate you, Neil Burke!"

"I don't care how sore you get at me if you leave him alone! I'd like to punch his nose! Looking at you—as if he was going to eat you up—"

Her heart gave a joyous and guilty leap. He had been interested, then! Even Neil had noticed—

And you—trying to catch his eye—and then wanting me to believe you haven't seen him."

"I haven't!" she spoke severely to drown the pounding of her heart. "I was just—just surprised because I knew a girl in that group, Jeanette Parker. She comes into the store all the time and I wait on her. That blonde girl that was beside—beside—him—that was Cecile Parker, Jeanette's sister. I've seen her picture in the Sunday society section heaps of times—"

But Neil was tortured with jealousy and he was not to be won over. He drove in glum silence and Ardeth became busy with her own thoughts.

Football Hero
Remembers Spectacular Play in Game

One Saturday afternoon three years ago, she had driven down to Palo Alto with Neil, to see a football game between the colleges.

A spectacular touchdown by Kent Gleason, Stanford senior, had been the outstanding event of the day.

Ardeth had been carried away by the novelty and the excitement of it all. Jim Carroll's own daughter, she had delighted in the speed and dash. She had gone mad with the rooting section when it spelt out "Ken" Gleanson's name. She had glowed with excited pride and had ended by making Neil violently jealous.

But it had gone deeper than hysteria with Ardeth. Something about the young collegiate there had been which had called to her ardent imagination. She had watched him, her heart swelling with strange pride. Even now she remembered how he flung off his helmet and sailed into the game, brown hair standing wildly about his head. The action had been somehow endearing.

The next day, she had hunted for a report of the game in the sporting section. There it was, under shrieking headlines. A picture of Ken Gleason, too. He was grinning and his handsome laughing eyes plunged into her own . . . She had cut out the picture and kept it hidden in her handkerchief box. She had dreamed of him in secret.

And now—to have him come riding toward her through the sunshine . . . And the way he had looked at her . . . perhaps he had seen her that day long ago . . .

He was older, of course. Twenty-four, perhaps. But there was the same careless charm about him, the same easy grin.

"Mooning about him this very minute! Go on, tell me you're not! Tell me I'm crazy!" Neil's black eyes were blazing. His mouth was tortured.

Neil Hurt
Ardeth Good Naturedly Ends Argument

The wildness of him struck a little spark of fear from the girl, but she looked back with cool insolence.

"I'm not mooning about him! But I fail to see how it concerns you! You don't own me or my thoughts! And you have no right"—

"For God's sake, don't keep saying that!" he got out between his teeth. "Driving me crazy, you are! You know I love you! You're my girl—you know you are!"

Her eyes blazed in her crimson face. "Stop the car! I'm going to get out! I didn't come out to quarrel"— Then something of the black misery in his eyes reached her. The natural sweetness of her nature reasserted itself.

"Oh, let's not quarrel, Neil!" She placed a small hand over his own where it gripped the wheel. "It's such a beautiful day. Look at the ocean—isn't it blue!"

They followed a road south of the city. A road which swooped and dipped like the seagulls above them. A glorious day—white-crested combers rolling in on an ocean of purple blue.

Thinks of Gleason
Objects When Friend Kisses Her

They left the car at the edge of the road and walked into the sand dunes. In a little sun-warmed trough between two mounds of sand they rested. Ardeth pulled off the tight brown hat and the wind blew her hair in shining threads over her forehead.

Neil watched her with deep eyes. Suddenly he leaned forward; drew her hair back with a rough forefinger.

"Ardeth—you love me, don't you?" His voice was hoarse with feeling. "Say you do, Ardeth—I'm just crazy over you!"

Her eyes flinched away from his. Went out over the sea.

"Oh, Neil . . . don't be so—earnest! I—I think heaps of you—you know that!" She tried to make her tone light.

Now she knew why she did not want Neil to kiss her.

Instead of Neil's dark head, her fancy painted one of shining brown . . . Instead of Neil's black eyes gazing ardently down into her own—eyes of blue—fighting blue . . . Ken Gleason's eyes. The thought of Ken Gleason pushing in between them . . . It had always been Ken Gleason who had spoiled Neil's kisses . . .

The announcement of Dean Kammerer's election was made by executives of the Pope Book Foundation, Inc., of New York, under whose sponsorship the school is conducted.

For several weeks it was rumored here that Dean Kammerer soon would leave Trinity and the Pittsburgh diocese. It was expected that the announcement would follow a meeting of the vestry on Monday, but it was withheld at Dean Kammerer's request.

Dean Kammerer is a native of Norfolk, Va. He attended Connecticut preparatory schools and Harvard, from which he was graduated in 1908. He was ordained to the priesthood in 1916. He came here to Trinity in 1923, succeeding the Rev. E. S. Travers.

'KIDNAPED' BOY TAKEN HOME

Five-year-old Robert Gindel, of 1316 Howard street, was home today with his daddy and grandparents after having been forcibly taken from the kindergarten of the East Street Public School yesterday.

The boy was taken to the home of his grandparents where his father, Joseph Gindel, is staying, at 9 o'clock last night, about nine hours after he had been led from the school by a woman who said he was wanted at the home of his relatives in West View.

Robert balked at going with the woman because he did not know her. The woman then seized the child, police say.

Shortly before Robert was returned to his father, the boy's mother telephoned Gindel she had Robert. Gindel, who has been separated from his wife for several years, was awarded the custody of their two children.

Spear heads four inches in length were also found. Practically all of the boys attending Clifton Public School are now interested in the relics, found near the school.

FIND ARROWS, HUNT TOWN

Discovery of a large quantity of Indian relics in newly ploughed fields in Upper St. Clair Township has raised the question whether there has been unearthed the site of a village of the aborigines, a favorite hunting resort or an ancient battleground.

Boys who have made collections of flint arrowheads, spear heads, stones, knives and tomahawks have asked Prof. A. F. Baker, supervising principal of the township schools, to solve the antiquarian riddle.

Three boys of Clifton school, Donald Boyce, Aldo Mazonni and William Barkand, have made collections of the relics, numbering nearly 100 fine specimens. As a result every boy in the township has become an enthusiastic amateur collector, and the fields and streams are searched in the hope of turning up other Indian tools and implements.

Flint arrowheads were found in great numbers in all the Chartiers valley region and tributary streams early in the last century, but during the last 100 years the relics have become rare. Prof. Baker believes that the site of an Indian village has been found or that the land has not been cultivated in recent years.

Gibson, vice president of the Westinghouse Electric Supply Company.

OVERFLOW MEETINGS HELD

Western State Educators Open Two-Day Meet Here; Six Conferences Held

With 6,500 teachers in attendance, pedagogy is being discussed from many viewpoints at the Western Pennsylvania Educational Conference, which began a two-day meeting today.

Public school children of Pittsburgh were given a holiday, that their teachers might attend the conference.

Some of the halls designated for the sessions were not large enough to accommodate the crowds seeking admission, and it was necessary to find other auditoriums.

The conference, ushered in with a dinner at the Faculty Club last night, is sponsored by the Pittsburgh public schools, the Pittsburgh Teachers' Institute, the University of Pittsburgh, and the Pennsylvania State Educational Association.

SIX CONFERENCES HELD

Six conferences were held this morning, as follows:

Police Censors Approve 'Strange Interlude'

There is nothing indecent or immoral in the "Strange Interlude" the current play in the Nixon Theater, City Detectives John Crouse and William O'Bryan opined after censoring the presentation on orders of Public Safety Director James M. Clark.

Clark's action followed the complaint of Dr. Theodore Diller, of 724 South Negley avenue, a nerve specialist with offices in the Westinghouse Building. Asking suppression of the play, the physician denounced it as "indecent and immoral."

"We saw nothing indecent or immoral in it, neither did a number of patrons whom we approached on the subject," Detective O'Bryan said after last night's performance.

Czecho-Slovakia Lauded By Woman for Sobriety

The people of Czech-Slovakia, where Pilsener and Budweiser are made, are more temperate than the American people, Miss Erna Grassmuck, of the State Teachers' College at Indiana, told a group of school children at the Conference on Elementary Education.

She was giving a demonstration of the teaching of geography, and the lesson dealt with Czecho-Slovakia.

Miss Grassmuck purchased a box of hops and told the children that beer was made from hops and that the brewing of beer was one of Czechos-Slovkia's important industries.

"It is unlawful to brew or drink beer in the United States", she said, "but I have been in Czecho-Slovakia, children, and there is less drunkenness there than in the United States."

BROOKLINE RESIDENTS SEEK 60-FOOT BOULEVARD

1,620 PETITION EXTENSION OF ROAD

A 60-foot roadway beginning at West Liberty avenue and linking Brookline boulevard at Pioneer avenue with paving laid between trolley tracks on the boulevard today is sought by 1,620 property owners.

The plan, already proposed and passed by the City Planning Commission, is being backed by the Brookline Boulevard Improvement Association. This body is composed of business men and property owners. The request will be presented shortly to City Council.

The addition to Brookline boulevard is unpaved and only used for trolley tracks. The plan calls for grading and paving this stretch from West Liberty avenue at Brookline Junction to Pioneer avenue.

Here the new thoroughfare would join with the present boulevard, and would continue through to East Brookline. The boulevard roadway at present is located on either side of Pittsburgh Railways Company tracks. The latter are unpaved.

Approval of the plan by Council would provide for paving the entire width of the boulevard, making a 60-foot roadway. Ten-foot sidewalks on both sides would make the entire width 80 feet.

CITY HALL JOINS CRAZE OVER YO-YO

Director Clark Latest Convert to Fad; Sees It Factor for Safety

Following the introduction of the new nation-wide fad, Pittsburgh's City Hall has gone Yo-Yo. Yesterday a California representative of the Yo-Yo makers dropped in on James M. Clark, Director of Public Safety, and the director became so fascinated with the little toy that has captured young and old from Coast to Coast, that he dropped the weighty direction of his important office long enough to see what it was all about.

With the Yo-Yo in his hands for about two minutes, he was converted to the new fad.

"There's a safety element about this Yo-Yo," he said. "It will keep the youngsters off the streets. Personally, I'm Yo-Yo, but I hope it isn't going to interfere with the business of this office," he added.

The Yo-Yo wave of popularity is beginning to hit Pittsburgh with a wallop. No matter where you go—the campus, the office buildings, the street corners, the street cars—you'll find Yo-Yoes.

STARTED IN HAWAII

Yo-Yo, by the way, originated in Hawaii, moved over to California, and then began to sweep East. It's just a little gaily painted novelty wooden double disc on a string. Wind the string in the grooove, give the disc a toss, and back it comes rolling along the string right into your hand again. That is, it comes back if you get the knack of making it do it. That's the trick!

Appreciating the popularity of the Yo-Yo, the Sun-Telegraph and the Warner Brothers' Theaters are introducing the fad to Pittsburgh. The theater management has secured the services of several expert Yo-Yoers and is demonstrating this unique little toy to the audiences in its theaters. That it may more quickly become popularized, the Warner Brothers' theaters have arranged to give away thousands of Yo-Yoes to Pittsburgh's boys and girls.

THEATER GIFTS

All boys and girls, 16 years of age and under, will be presented with a genuine Yo-Yo if they are patrons at today's matinee, from 4 to 6 o'clock, at the following Warner Brothers Theaters: Regent, Liberty, Plaza, Arsenal, Rowland, Schenley, Manor and Belmar.

There also will be a special Yo-Yo matinee at the Enright Theater tomorrow afternoon from 1 until 6 o'clock, at which Yo-Yoes will be given away.

But to get a Yo-Yo free, the children who attend these matinees must have the special coupon appearing in the daily Sun-Telegraph. Clip your coupon today and get your Yo-Yo right away.

There will be additional special Yo-Yo matinees next week and a little later there will be a tournament announced in which the best Yo-Yoers will be given handsome prizes.

The Camera Question Box

(The Sun-Telegraph's "Camera Question Box" each day will ask a question of public interest to Pittsburghers and will photograph those interviewed.)

Today's question: Four years spent in college is wasted, was the conclusion reached at a debate between Duquesne University and Harvard. Do you agree with that conclusion?

Miss Silvius.

JACQUELINE SILVIUS, Knoxville, business student: I do. Unless you're entering a profession, I think it's wasted. It depends on what they want to do, too. Collegiatism hurts the education of many of our students.

Miss Biven.

HARRIET BIVEN, New Castle, student: Certainly not. A college man or woman gets a polish and self-confidence that isn't procured in any other way. I think that certainly counts in life. About half of life, in fact, is self-confidence.

Miss Kann.

BESSIE ANNA KANN, Pitt Law School student: I only spent three. But I don't think it's wasted at all. I'm only sorry I didn't spend four years.

Miss Williams.

MISS SALLY WILLIAMS, Dormont, employment manager: I think it is wasted on a woman, but not on a man studying for a profession. But I think that if a man is going into business, it's likely not to do him any good. In fact, I know of a lot of business men who would rather not employ college men.

J. M. Baltzer.

J. M. Baltzer, Duff's-Iron City College, superintendent, accounting department: Well, if I'm to believe the words of Katherine Blackford that 75 per cent of all men over the age of 35 are engaged in the wrong vocation, among whom are highly trained men, including college graduates, then I would say "yes."

Miss Fields.

BUELLA FIELDS, Whitesburg, Ky., student: For some people I do think it depends on what you're going to do in life. If you're going to be a doctor, you'll need four years and more. On the whole, I think it does good.

JAPAN ADMIRAL VISITS HERE

KILLING STORY FOUND FALSE

Homicide detectives today were informed by Fairmont, W. Va., authorities that the story of James Franko, 32, that he had killed two men in that town was false.

Franko had walked into Central Police Station last night and told how he had stabbed two men while they were crossing a bridge in Fairmont and had hurled their bodies into a river. He said he wished to surrender because his conscience bothered him.

This morning in Police Court, Franko denied killing the men. He said he had made up the story in the hope of being sentenced to prison because he feared he was going to be deported and sent back to an insane asylum in Italy back ton an insanesylum in Italy inmate. Franko was held for further investigation.

New Delay in Bell Coal Land Sale

WASHINGTON, Pa., April 11.—Representatives of the bondholders protective committee again were high bidders for the Washington County coal holdings of John A. Bell, bankrupt former Carnegie banker, offering $6,000,000 at an adjourned public auction conducted in the court house here yesterday.

The bid was the same as that made at the first offering of the properties on March 27 and it was announced almost immediately that the sale had been adjourned until July 10.

In March it was stated that the properties might be offered in parcels instead of as a whole, and for that reason the sale was being adjourned. No reason was given for the adjournment yesterday.

MAN, GIRL HURT IN 'HILL' FIRE

Two persons nurse burns today, many residents of the Hill district are without parts of their wardrobes, police are looking for the owner of two gallons of gin and 15 "empties," and a tailor shop, lunch room, and a rooming house are empty as a result of fire last night at 1207 and 1209 Wylie avenue.

According to George Nelson, Negro, owner of a tailoring and hat-cleaning shop at 1209 Wylie, the fire resulted when a wire to a hat fan short-circuited, the spark igniting fumes of a cleaning fluid. He was cleaning a hat, he said, when the fluid ignited. His daughter, Alice Nelson, 17, telephoned for firemen.

Both were driven to the street, Nelsoon with bad burns on his arms and hands, Alice with slight burns on her legs.

At 1207 Wylie avenue, next door, James Chick, Negro, operates a lunch room, with a rooming house on the second and third floors. On the third floor was found the liquor and empty bottles, according to police.

OBSERVE FEAST OF PASSOVER

The Feast of the Passover, most joyous festival in the Jewish calendar, will be observed, beginning at sunset tomorrow by the 50,000 people of that faith in Pittsburgh, as well as by their co-religionists the world over.

Following brief services in the synagogues, every family will go home for the Seder, a meal rich in symbolism, in which the courses are interspersed with hymns and prayers taken from the Haggadah. Some of the hymns, based on legends and folklore of the Middle Ages, seem quaint to modern ears.

For the benefit of persons without homes of their own a community Seder will be held in the Young Men's and Women's Hebrew Association on Bellefield avenue, with Rabbi Herman Hallperin of the Tree of Life Congregation presiding as father of the family.

Dr. Hallperin will link the Passover observance Sunday morning with the anniversary of Thomas Jefferson's birthday. Jefferson was born April 13, 1743. With "The Passover Idea in American History" as his subject, Dr. Hallperin will call attention to the fact that the Passover commemorates the attainment of religious freedom and that Jefferson, whose natal day falls during the period of celebration, was an outstanding champion of the principle of freedom of worship.

Discussing the festival, Dr. Hallperin remarked that it was one occasion on which all Jews, regardless of how lax they might be in the fulfillment of religious obligations at other times, felt it incumbent to attend services.

Observance of the Passover will continue for seven days, during which no leavened bread may be eaten.

PATRICIA PITT'S SPRIGHTLY COMMENT ON PITTSBURGH'S SOCIETY HAPPENINGS

Buds Model At Sale of Exchange

WITH spring here with its paradoxical accompaniment of hazy languor and of quickened interest in everything fresh and new, it's not surprising that women are interested in new things for Easter.

Society women yesterday found time during the day and will again today to visit the Woman's Exchange sale being held in the home of Mrs. A. Rex Flinn, Aylesboro avenue. Lovely negligees in the dainty pastel colors of spring and in the soft goassamer-weight material so popular now are for sale, and frocks for the very young miss and all sorts of other exquisite needlework are for sale, baked goods, interesting lamps and "little things" to give new bright touches to your home this spring.

Debs Models

A GROUP of buds and other members of the younger set are modelling negligees. This morning Anne Stewart and Mary Childs modelled pajamas and negligees and this afternoon Emily Frew, Mary Franklin Robinson and Peggy Milligan are to be models.

Yesterday morning Virginia Wright and Laura Evans modelled, and in the afternoon, Clodagh McCune, Mary Franklin Robinson and Peggy Milligan.

Yesterday afternoon Clodagh was modelling an exquisite springtime negligee of dotted net in a chartreuse shade made with a brief train. Ruffles of the same material mark the hem-line and ruffles decorate the cape collar.

Mary Robinson was wearing a smart pajama ensemble with a finger-tip jacket of purple satin and with trousers of white with an exotic floral design in purples and orchids. Lustrous green satin was used in making the smart negligee by Peggy Milligan.

Spring Frocks

CHATTING with Mrs. James H. Childs between sales was Mrs. William J. Holland, who wore a garet crepe dress and a felt hat of the same shade. Mrs. Childs was in black crepe with cream lace at the wrists and neck. Shopping at the sale was Mrs. Arthur P. Woolfolk, who chose a smart brown tweed three-piece suit with a blouse of deep eggshell crepe and a brown felt hat. Marjorie Kimball I noticed wearing a printed gown of dark blue and green and a coat of fleet blue homespun boasting a smart cape. Her hat was of blue straw.

Mrs. Harry Darlington was selling negligees. And she wore a printed dress with a rose belt and rose crepe collars and cuffs. Another member of the Exchange I noticed selling was Mrs. William S. Moorhead in blue crepe with a gray felt hat.

Ruffles Vogue

A SPRING-LIKE gown of green print was worn by Mrs. William Larimer Jones, Jr. Narrow ruffles of the same material formed smart cape sleeves. A blouse of greenish gray crepe and a gray tweed skirt were worn by Mrs. John P. Penney, and dark blue crepe by Mrs. J. Dorwin Donnelly.

In charge of the sale is Mrs. Darlington, assisted by Mrs. George Greer Coolidge, Mrs. Carroll P. Davis and Mrs. James H. Childs. Mrs. Penney is chairman of paintings, assisted by Mrs. Horace Forbes Baker and Mrs. Donald Bakewell. Mrs. William B. Trainer and Mrs. Donnelly are in charge of baked goods.

Yesterday Mrs. Childs entertained the members of all the committees at a luncheon in her home on Albermarle place.

THE music and art committee of the Twentieth Century Club under Mrs. Jacob Simpson Payton's chairmanship brought a successful year to a happy close yesterday. And for the first time the committee deviated from its custom of holding afternoon affairs, having chosen a luncheon musicale for its closing event. Covers were laid for 160 in the University Club, the hospitality of which Twentieth Century members have been enjoying all winter while their own home is in the process of remodeling.

Several individual parties added an especial note of gaiety yesterday. Mrs. Taylor Allderdice entertained 10 guests at one table. Mrs. Joseph W. Marsh was hostess to seven and Mrs. Frank Pierson was hostess at another table.

At the honor table with the chairman sat Mrs. William Thaw, Jr., Mrs. Charles P. Henninger, Mrs. H. Allen Machesney, Miss May Beegle, Mrs. Elizabeth Burt Mellor, Mrs. Howard Noble, Harvey Gaul, Mrs. Frederic Ickes Merrick, Mrs. Edwin Ruud, Mrs. Charles Dahlinger, Mrs. Walter F. Schleiter and the newspaper guests.

The program, a charming one, was presented by three members of the club, Mrs. Thomas K. Cree, soprano, Mrs. William F. Knox, violin, and Mrs. C. Frederick Newman, contralto, with Earl Mitchell at the piano. Mrs. Cree opened with four songs for soprano, Mrs. Knox following with two movements from Godard's "Concerto Romantique." Later she gave a group that included a Schumann, Cadman and a Kreisler composition with Von Kunits' "Lullaby" as an encore. Mrs. Newman's voice was never lovelier than it was yesterday in a solo group of four and in beautifully-sung duets with Mrs. Cree, which completed the recital.

"Prints," say some; "Plains," say others. But that doesn't matter. Here are plenty of both kinds of fabrics. And, for that great majority who cannot decide between the two, here are ensembles which use both printed and plain fabrics.

Join the crowds that will come to Boggs & Buhl Saturday to select their first silk ensembles for only $15.75. An extra effort has been made to have a selection of ensembles that will be unsurpassed in Pittsburgh. And, as usual, Boggs & Buhl are foremost to present the leading styles.

Black Coats With Galyak

$59.50

If in doubt, choose a black coat with galyak trimming. These are the foremost coats of the season. They lend a chic that is typically Parisian and achieve a slenderness that all women desire.

The coat sketched shows an important collar, banded with galyak, and ruffled. It is a new model of black and vio creje.

The $59.50 coats are by no means limited to black. It is a group of outstanding successes in black and colors. Fur trimmed and untrimmed. Of course, there are models for every woman.

SMARTNESS ACHIEVED BY THE STRAIGHT LINE

Paris Bureau, Pittsburgh Sun Telegraph.

PARIS, April 11.—The straight line often offers the shortest distance between smartness and the mode. Emphasis is frequently placed on the beauty of the sheer unbroken line, with perhaps a slight flare at the hem. This silhouette is, of course, inspired by period fashions, the present mode drawing with graceful impartiality on both the ancient Greek and the Empire eras, to achieve the very becoming long limbed effect, so in keeping with the finely formed and svelte type of figure, obtaining today. There are, of course, some models that not only flare, but use crinoline foundations to obtain an exaggerated flare.

SEQUINS lend their glitter to some delightful frocks, to the delight of those who like to glitter sartorially. A sequined dress should be the choice only of those whose wardrobe is plentifully endowed with evening frocks, however intriguing and alluring it may be for glitter has a way of becoming decidedly monotonous while it is always on the conspicuous side. Worth created a sequined evening frock which he poetically named "The Princess From Far Away" and, as its lines are so lovely, we decided to send you a sketch of it. Worth has used large crescent shaped sequins in tomato red for this creation. Wider sequins form a scalloped border on the edges of the bolero and the long, graceful skirt. A black velvet ribbon makes the belt and two roses are placed at one side. The decolletage is cut in a low V at the back.

THE other sketch reveals Worth in his practical mood. It is a tan leather coat of suede, very jaunty and smart. The wide belt with a large gilt buckle, is of the same suede and is placed high at the natural waistline. Such a coat is, of course, ideal when motoring.

4 ARE HURT AS AUTOS HIT

Four persons were injured when two autos collided on the Butler pike, near Allison Park yesterday. Three women passengers in the car of Carl Schlegel, of 137 Cedar avenue, Oil City, were injured along with Schlegel, the driver. The other car was driven by C. R. Nimlich, 327 Water street, Pittsburgh, according to a report to county detectives. Mrs. Schlegel with cuts on the head and body was most seriously injured. The other women in the Schlegel car, Mrs. Malanie Brummond and Mrs. Ellen Brummond, also of Oil City, were cut and bruised. They were attended by Dr. C. A. Carmen, of Allison Park.

Run Down by Auto, Man Hurt Fatally

Knocked down by an automobile in the Narrows Run road near Coraopolis, Frank Richards, 53, of Carnot, R. D. 3, sustained injuries which caused his death early today in the Valley Hospital, Sewickley. Chief F. E. Hissam and Patrolman Thomas Drexler, of Coraopolis Heights, arrested the alleged driver of the car, Willis Logan, of 876 Fourth avenue, Coraopolis. He will be turned over to the coroner today.

Boxer Claims Injury To Tooth, Sues Hotel

Cuddy DeMarco, a pugilist, asks $5,000 of Webster Hall for alleged injury to a tooth, in a suit filed in Common Pleas Court. He says while eating a baked apple at the hotel February 8 he bit into a hard metallic object, probably a screw. An abscess formed, he avers, and prevented him from participating in a bout scheduled for February 14, for which, he asserts, he was to have received at least $1,250.

HOSPITAL PLANS HERRICK WING

NEUILLY, France, April 11.—(AP.)—A new wing to the American Hospital as a memorial to the late Ambassador Myron T. Herrick, of Cleveland, has been recommended by A. K. Macomber, president of the board.

The hospital was opened in 1910 with 10 rooms and a ward for 10 patients.

During the war the institution organized the American Ambulance Hospital which later was turned over to the American Army.

In 1926 the present hospital, costing $1,000,000, was opened with 120 beds. It has been crowded and the need is great for more rooms at moderate prices for the many Americans here on relatively small salaries.

Are you going to move this spring? If you read the Classified Rental Ads and use the telephone before you start looking for a place you will save hours of fruitless searching and many disappointments.

Way to Get At a Cold Is Through the Bowels

As soon as you catch cold, the pores close; perspiration is checked. Gases and waste can't escape through the skin. That's why your doctor's first advice in case of colds is a mild laxative like cascara. Medical authorities agree it actually strengthens bowel muscles. You get cascara in its most pleasant form in candy Cascarets.

Remember this when you catch cold: whenever breath is bad; tongue coated; or you're headachy, bilious, constipated.

Why resort to harsher things when Cascarets activate the bowels so quickly, so harmlessly and pleasantly—and cost only a dime?

Colleen Moore's Feature Film, "So Big," Now Two-Reeler

By DOROTHY HERZOG

HOLLYWOOD, April 10.

ABOUT six years ago, Colleen Moore startled flick goers by appearing in a screen version of Edna Ferber's story, "So Big." Colleen played a character role, ranging in years from 20 to 50. And what I mean is she played it.

Colleen Moore

Lola Lane

So Big . . . with Helen Jerome Eddy, W. B. Mack, Lola Lane in the role Colleen originally created. From what I picked up on the Fox Movietone lot, a measly complete version of plot is packed into the two-reel version. In other words this two reeler will be to a feature film what a chocolate egg malted milk is to a luncheon.

George Irving will play the role of the general with a chap named John Litel, the man in the footage.

I WAS that gasp-y to hear tell that the Fox Company paid Ernest Hemingway $10,000 for the screen rights to his short story title, "Men Without Women."

A COSTLY MADAME

IT SOUNDS so preposterous one can hardly believe. At all events startled sleuths mutter that Cecil De Mille's new outloud, "Madame Satan," is costing a daily production overhead of $25,000. I don't know whether or not this includes the spectacular bathroom set and scenes . . .

YOU have to know, when writing screen dialogue of a rough nature, that the word "fool" cannot be used. Reason: The state of Virginia censors such an ejaculation as unfitting for indigenous (I may be wrong) ears.

CEDRIC AND LOLA

SPEED SHOTS: Cedric Gibbons lunching with Lola Lane at the Embassy. And Mr. Gibbons being mistaken for John Gilbert.

With Ina Claire in New York investigating play projects, it is logical for paragraph worn reports to flair that she and Gilbert have separated again. Critically opinion capitalizes an emphatic no.

Mrs. Sadie Murray, the belle of Beverly Hills, has promised this column a statement apropos of anything she decides to statement upon in a few days. Mrs. Murray denies flowers that she intends organizing a bridge union for old-fashioned auction players. Marie Prevost admits she feels darn chippie these days. With the middle of the month safe from bill blues, aren't we all?

MORE LIQUOR BANS

AND to add to the melancholy of nations, Mr. Will Hays has issued in his "Don't Code" to producers, be careful instruction that:

The use of liquor in American life (insofar as motion pictures are concerned) shall be restricted to the actual requirements of characterization of plot.

Which leads to the cynical query:

When is characterization and when is plot in the movies?

WILLIAM (PATHE) BOYD has a new sports touring car. Among the trimmings is a radio so artfully concealed under the hood and attached to the dashboard.

MUSIC

Fillion & Helfenbein

Y. M. & W. H. A.

PROGRAM

I. Violin and Piano Sonata [illegible]
Con Style [illegible]
Larghetto espressivo Allegro
Adagio Gavotte Allegro
II. Piano Tambeau de Couperin Ravel
Rigaudon Menuetto Toccata

Allegretto Blues Perpetuum Mobile
IV. Violin Poema Chausson
V. Piano Prelude Chorale and Fugue Franck
VI. Violin La Fontaine d'Arethuse Szymanowski
Nocturne Bach
La Vida Breve De Falla

Ferdinand Fillion and Oscar Helfenbein gave a joint recital in the auditorium of the Y. M. & W. H. A. last night, presenting a very fine program of unfamiliar piano and violin music. It was music such as the less enterprising public performers never include on their programs, thereby giving the impression such works are unworthy. We can now be grateful to these players for the refreshing examples of Ravel, for revamping the Willan sonata, and the richly woven Chausson "Poeme."

J. Fred Lissfelt

Fillion's approach to his music is more that of a conscientious musician than of the fiery virtuoso. Therefore his Willan had dignity and a breadth of tone that still held him in check when the more playful Ravel would have him otherwise. In the Chousson he had his best opportunity.

Helfenbein's playing is now well-known through his frequent appearances. As second to the violin in the ensemble works he never is submerged by the other voice and always lends a warm background for the violin. As soloist his Ravel suite was most successful, the Cesar Franck a little immature. It was strong, but wanted a sonority and repose that makes us recognize Franck.

J. FRED LISSFELT.

SPROUL'S RADIO SALE MONDAY

Evangelist John W. Sproul indicted by the grand jury yesterday on charges of passing worthless checks, today faces possible loss of his radio broadcasting station WMBJ through a sheriff's sale.

The sheriff has scheduled the station, located on the Frankstown road, Penn township, for sale at auction Monday morning unless the evangelist can raise $7,843.73 to satisfy a lien filed by Attorney Kenneth R. Cunningham for legal services.

Sproul was indicted on charges of passing three bad checks, each for $1,000 on F. J. Vogel, invalid former railroad conductor, injured in an accident.

Vogel avers he loaned Sproul $5,000 to build a "Glory Barn" in Parnassus a year ago. After repaying $2,000, Vogel asserts, Sproul gave him three checks for $1,000 each which were worthless. Vogel says he put them through his bank 10 times.

THINGS I NEVER KNEW TILL NOW

THAT Pershing wasn't the one who said: "Lafayette, we are here." It was spoken by Col. Charles E. Stanton.

That there isn't a trolley car in Aiken, S. C.

That Jack Oakie's real tag isn't Kesterson, after all. His name, according to a mob of readers, is Lewis J. Offield.

That a New York law of 1926 provides that you can get married by merely signing a contract before a judge.

That if you suck a lemon between drinks you can drink anyone under the table.

MORE ARGUMENT

THAT Sergt. Edward Younger was the American soldier who selected the "Unknown Soldier," by going into a chapel in a French town where four unidentified dead were placed. Younger went in alone and made his choice by placing white roses on the coffin.

That it costs more to phone to Chicago from New York than it does to phone from Chicago to N. Y.

That the highest price ever paid for a coin was $7,900 for a privately minted $5 gold piece made in California in '49.

CHICKIE

Chickie Happily Senses Her Power Over Barry

CHAPTER LVII.

THE moments passed with hot, leaned feet. Jennie knew what she had done. Oh, she was sure of it. She could feel her mother's eyes—feel her own blood going in a red burn up to her temples.

Then Jennie spoke, "You're angry, Chickie? Why, you love sweet lavender—"

Chickie burst out laughing shrill, high. "Oh you funny little thing Jennie, darling! Angry—well—" And she pulled up the pad and pressed it against her face, almost mad with relief. Know? Why, Jennie hadn't the remotest idea!

She went over and ran her hand along the plump neck, took out the amber comb and tucked up Jennie's stray locks. She pressed her soft cheek against her mother's, whispering: "Mother, you love me, don't you? Ever so much?"

"Why, you foolish girl—" But the ready tears were in Jennie's eyes.

As soon as Chickie was alone she gathered all his letters, tied them, packed them in a box, writing in big letters on the covers:

"Jennie or Jonathan: Burn this, as is please!

"By order of your darling,

"CHICKIE"

It occurred to her this was an odd thing to do, but she couldn't bring herself to part with it—not now.

She called to Jennie that she was going for a walk.

She was trembling. So foolish, all this—she imagined things—let her imagination run crazy with her, Barry said that. She was always doing it.

Tells Barry of Scare

Suddenly she remembered what he said the first night he came home: "Brave—we've got to be. Otherwise the thing will get us. It will be a wall of reproaches and resentments we'll build between us—"

She was doing that, had been doing it; fastening on little things—fearing them—exaggerating them. She was a coward; not big; not free. Oh — she would wear him out with these petty irritations.

Her cheeks grew hot. She leaned on a low fence and stared at the changing sky. She longed for him—longed for the comfort of his voice, his arms.

It would be soon; it would have to be. Then all this hysterical tension would soften.

Well—she would bear it as he did. Hard for him, too. She would not be the one to whimper. No!

She went home refreshed, strengthened.

She didn't intend to tell him of the episode. But she did. Unfortunately it came at a time when he was least in the mood to hear it. They were parked at the beach, watching the searchlights playing on the waves.

He said: "You looked white, frail."

"I was scared white, and you would know." She told him that Jennie had come upon his letters; that she had been in a panic till she was certain Jennie hadn't read them.

Chickie Hurt

He sat mute, his hands on the wheel. After a long while he slumped back in the seat. He said: "I wish to God it had never been."

The flat of his hand swept against her face would not have crushed her so. Terrible sounds roared in her ears; louder than the gray boom of the sea. Time stopped, weighed in terror.

Then his arm about her. He drew her. He rubbed her hands. After a long while: "Chickie—I didn't mean it that way. You know that—don't hold it against me."

She couldn't speak. He kissed her; began to plead. It was just that the everlasting concealment got him; just her fright and that she seemed unhappy. Oh—it was that things went all wrong at the office and he got a letter from his mother saying she wasn't well. It was everything hitting at once.

"Don't turn against me for a little thing like that, Chickie. Oh, smile! Don't look as though I'd killed you."

"But you said it. Oh, you'd want to wipe it all out?"

"No—"

"It makes me think you no longer want me—you're tired of me—of everything—"

"You don't think that! You can't. We'll forget all this some day. Don't spoil the whole evening." And he kept kissing her, murmuring to her, saying again and again: "You're beautiful, Chickie. I love you. You know it."

She forgot she was happy.

But she would never let a scene like that come between them again. Oh no!

But the weeks passed. Nothing was changed.

There were days and days that went singing in a spontaneous happiness. Noontimes when they brought their lunch and hurried to the ferry, sitting on a pier, eating, laughing. Nights when they danced or took long rides about the city.

Go to Concert

Hours that drew them in ties of piercing sweetness. Once they went to a concert. John McCormack was the singer. He sang "Forgotten." Barry's hand sought hers. The music flowed into their hearts, made them one. When the yearning in that voice of living passion was but an echo in their ears, they remained stilled. In a moment of emotion like this, it seemed to Chickie that she no longer had any life of her own—none except through him. She wanted it so.

But there were other times when she lost this sense of absorbing nearness. Often, lying under a tree he would begin to argue, growing excited over some book, some pet idea. But she wanted only to dream, to let her fingers loiter over his forehead, to stoop down and kiss him. What matter if the world was wrong?

One Sunday—the first spring day they had driven down along the turnpike, he was in this mood. After lunch he stretched himself out, resting against her arm.

"Chickie, the trees are climbing higher."

"Yes—and green"——

"What an easy thing to be a tree or a bird or anything but us!"

"Why?"

Power Over Barry

"Well—a tree is a tree—no dualism there. Whoever or whatever it was that planted them and us in this grand blunder must have liked trees and birds and other critters best. Spring comes soft and easy for a tree. Now, who would think of blaming this apple tree for putting forth new leaves and blossoms and flirting so with life? I ask you, frail, isn't a tree luckier than a man?"

"Don't be silly!"

"What do you mean, silly? That's deep stuff I'm giving you. Listen—suppose the tree had a brain or a soul perched up on its top branch and every time the roots gave a quiver or a branch swayed or a new little leaf thrust itself forth—suppose when that happened the fool brain or soul yelled out, 'Quit it now—stop throbbing down there. Don't move! Wait till next year!' Hell of a fine tree you'd have, wouldn't you? That is what we do—all of us—I wonder if it's right as we think?

"Wouldn't it be better, Chickie, if we let the poor old body stretch itself now and then—not try to force it so—"

She said, absently: "Men follow the trees a great deal in that, don't they?"

"But I mean this—wouldn't it be better if the whole world would take a saner view—" And he went on, becoming so involved that she laughed and couldn't follow. She stooped down and kissed him.

He regarded her with amused, dubious eyes. Then he pulled her down.

"Look here, frail, you're a mental laggard! Stretch your brain a little! Do you realize that every time I wish to pour forth wisdom you stop me?"

"Ain't it sweet the day I do it?"

"Too sweet."

But she laughed and closed his eyes with her fingers, feeling anew her power over him.

THERE, LITTLE GIRL, DON'T CRY! :-:

DRAWN BY Nell Brinkley

"There, little girl, don't cry;
They have broken your heart, I know."

THE precious Swiss box, high on a shelf, pushed lovingly and anxiously, right to the back against the wall! It is made of tortoise-shell, heavy with the delicate and wonderful works inside. It has a carved, oval, golden lid in the center of the top and a tiny golden slide at the side. Held in the careful hand, while the company holds its breath, the slide is pushed with a taper pink nail. The golden lid, engraved with a fabulous bird, flicks open, and, standing poised upright, lifted magically to the level of the top.

If it should be dropped and cracked!

But what about the heart in the breast of the beauty-loving girl herself?

Some hearts break easily; or crack; and heal before the tears are dry.

In December Suzette and Cupid are having a terrible time, swamped, drowned, flooded out, over the heart they have had dropped and broken at their feet. The world is all utterly black. But by June Suzette is making sweet eyes at a new love; Cupid has mended a heart so that "you'd never know if you weren't told, my dear," has tied it in pink ribbon, and is all decked in crinkley smiles. The flowers are out; and the heart WASN'T Humpty-Dumpty; it could be mended.

But there are hearts that once broken are for long after a cold, cracked stone in the breast. Young, ardent ones, sensitive to beauty, believing in beauty and truth, meeting their first cold jostle from the world, unable to recover quickly, sometimes permanently marred, unable to lavish the same warmth again for years, or never.

What can you say to the girl who has really dropped her heart, a precious thing, kept on a high shelf until taken lovingly down for one special guest, with a golden bird with an innocent song within—and broken it?

No new guest could mend the little Swiss box if IT were broken!

Madge's Questions Lead to a Startling Climax

MRS. TICER'S eyes opened wide as my mother-in-law made the comment that she thought her boarder who had just left might prove a most interesting subject of conversation.

"You don't mean," she gasped, "that he had anything to do with that burglary at your house! Well, come to think of it, I don't know that I would put anything past him. He was so smooth butter would have dripped off him, and I don't like that kind, as I told you. But I can see you're all set to ask questions, so fire away. You'll get more satisfaction out of it that way than if I were to start in and try to tell you everything I knew about him. I'd probably forget the most important things."

"I'll be glad to ask the questions," I told her, "but when I get through I shall want you to tell me anything I've omitted."

"Don't worry," she said with a wide smile at me. "When you get through there won't be anything left to tell. Trust an old schoolma'am for that."

"Was your lodger a stranger to this vicinity, or had you ever known him before?"

"No to both questions," she replied promptly.

"How long had he been here with you?"

"Just a week."

"Did he give any reason for being out here or for wanting to live out in this section at this season of the year?"

"I thought that was queer, too," Mrs. Ticer commented. "But he said that he was a tractor salesman, trying to interest the farmers around here in a new style of tractor, and that, while this wasn't as central or convenient as a village could be, he couldn't stand living in a village — he wanted to have space. Then he said, too, he'd heard of my cooking from some folks in Bridgehampton, and — you know there's no fool like an old fool—I sort of believed him and took him in."

Mrs. Ticer considered for a moment, then she looked steadily at me.

"He impressed me as a man who could make any lie appear like the truth, and wouldn't hesitate to use one whenever he wanted to. But what are you getting at—oh, my Heavenly Father, you don't think Jerry—or—Sam——"

"No! No!" I shouted, for I guessed that she would be deaf to an ordinary tone: "You know I never thought of such a thing. Please don't imagine anything like that of me."

"I don't mean anything you're thinking about it," she said surprisingly. "But I mustn't say anything I don't know. Tell me just what happened up at the house last night."

"Suppose you tell me first what your boarder told you," I suggested. "Then I can see how much he really knew about it."

"Why——" Mrs. Ticer looked around her sitting room as if for aid. "He said there'd been a burglary up at the farm use, said there were two men and they only had a chance to ransack one room—that of a girl who is away at school—when an old gentleman pointed a revolver at them. He said they evidently didn't want to hurt the old man, for one of them fired and knocked the pistol out of his hand without hurting him. Then the other man ran into the little boy's room and grabbed him up and held him until they'd made everybody promise not to call the police for an hour. Then they beat it. That's all he told about the robbery, but——"

"Quite enough to prove to me he was one of the men concerned," my mother-in-law struck in. "That's exactly what happened, and nobody who hadn't been there could have told it so exactly."

"Then," Mrs. Ticer cried wildly, "Oh, Mrs. Graham, my boy Jerry was to blame—oh!"

I caught her as she slumped against me in what was as near a swoon as Mrs. Ticer's sturdy body had ever experienced.

Acid Tests

THERE is nothing like one down-payment on a smart motor-car to fill the average man or woman with a painful superiority complex.

No girl grows really enthusiastic about the Spring moonlight, unless there is something in it besides poetic solitude.

It may be true that modest, serious, intelligent girls are vastly in the minority, these days; but there are more than enough of them to go 'round among the men who have the common sense to pick that kind for a wife.

A bachelor may be capable of any amount of love—but, usually, of only a little at a time for each woman.

The one thing, without which no partnership, no organization and, above ALL, no marriage can keep on running, is cooperation.

There are only two women in a man's life who ever really stir his imagination — his "Might-have-been" and his "Going-to-be."

Nothing so confirms a cynic in his contemptuous opinion of woman's mental inferiority as the spectacle of a presumably sane, intelligent girl calmly going back to corsets and cultivating the new waistline.

A woman can hang her illusions around a man who makes her suffer, and even around one who makes her angry — but never around one who makes her want to laugh.

A long engagement is an endurance test, in which the man waits for the girl to give up hope, and the girl waits for the man to give up struggling.

Correct Manners

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

A Gentlemen's Letter Paper

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

1. Do you think my stationary and the manner in which I use it is in the best of taste for a gentleman?

2. What is meant by "folding the paper once into the envelope?"

3. May both sides of the paper be written upon? If so should it be turned so that what was the bottom becomes the top, as I have done, or so that what was the left becomes the right?

QUESTION BOX.

I THINK that your letter paper is in good taste, but not in the "best" taste. For any kind, to be in the "best" of taste should be a double sheet. The double sheet gives, I think, the impression of social correspondence, while the single sheet (and again I must add that "I think"), distinctly gives the impression of a business letter.

To my taste the ideal letter paper for a gentleman is a double sheet, of white or just-off-white paper, heavy paper, of as fine a texture as can be afforded, and of generous size. And it is best if it folds only once into a large envelope. All of this certainly registers "masculine!" Ideally, too, he would have his address engraved on the top of the first page, in a block type, or something equally simple. Your letter paper is of a good shade, of a good texture.

2. You fold you paper twice—that is, there are two creases in it. Folding once means that only one crease is made. When the paper is folded only once, the envelope is squarer; when the paper is folded twice, the envelope is, naturally, longer.

3. If you use the single sheet of paper, it does seem to make a better impression if you write on only one side. But there is no rule about this. If you use the double sheet you may write on all four pages.

If you write on both sides of the sheet, it is better to have the top of the back page in the relative position as the top of the first page, else it gives an "upside down" impression.

Household Hints

If cream soups must stand, bind them with one tablespoon butter, melted, then stir in one tablespoon flour. When well mixed add to the soup, stirring until the boiling point is reached. Unless the soup is bound it will separate on standing.

Putting off the evil moment of mending a garment that has suffered a bad tear too often has sad consequences. You are only courting an attack of "laundryitis" for which you heartily blame the carelessness of the laundry. Mending the garment before sending it to the laundry is the only way of avoiding a much longer, and often more jagged tear in the garment.

How to Keep Well

By DR. COPELAND

Feeding the Year-Old Baby

NOTHING is more important in the life of the growing child than the right food—food that is properly prepared. Let us consider the young child of about one year of age. Now is the time to lay the foundation of health for its later years.

After the tenth month, when weaning is the usual thing, a child must have the purest and best of milk, at least a quart a day. But besides this it will need proper amounts of bone and muscle-building foods of other sorts. And not only the right food is necessary, but it must be properly prepared.

Next to the milk, the first good food to think of for the growing child is cereal. Any whole-grain cereal is good, but it must be cooked thoroughly. The mouth and stomach of a little 1-year-old child are tender and delicate. On this account it is wise to strain a cereal that is at all coarse. Cereals should be steamed in a double boiler for two or three hours to be suitable for a young child. Short-time cooking is not enough.

Variety in foods is a good thing. Monotony of food is really harmful. Children get tired of the same cereals. Have a different cereal every day or two. Served with whole milk, this affords the best kind of bone and muscle building material and the essential minerals.

A child may have, for one feeding, whole wheat crackers, zwieback, rusks or dry bread with milk. Broths and cream soups are excellent. Cup custard is good. A cup of chicken, lamb or beef broth with rice or tapioca makes an agreeable change in the diet. Mashed carrots, quickly cooked cabbage, mashed asparagus or green peas are good for a baby of this age.

In the second year the child begins to learn to chew food. Give it a buttered crust of bread or a good-sized chicken bone to bite on. Chewing develops the jaws and strengthens the incoming teeth. It is good for the child to develop the food-chewing habit.

Four or five meals given at regular intervals during the day should be planned. Rest and quiet are essential.

A normal and healthy baby will find its own amusement. It plays with its toes. It reaches for everything the hands can find. In this way the youngster gets a certain amount of exercise.

One of the rules for babies is that of giving them plenty of fruit juices and strained vegetables. In these are found the valuable minerals and vitamins that promote growth and energy and help so much in the development of the teeth and bones of the body. A child may have from one to three or four tablespoonfuls of juice an hour before the second feeding in the morning.

This splendid milk diet, added to the cereals, fruits and vegetables, should build up your baby into a healthy and happy normal child. Every hour spent in its care and feeding means progress toward health, vitality and resistance to disease.

THE BEAUTY BOX

By HELEN FOLLETT

GOOD appetite, proper food, regular hours for eating, all have a beneficial effect upon the skin, which is a barometer telling whether the digestive organs are enjoying fair weather or not. Digestive disturbances can produce pallor, they can make the skin sallow, they can coarsen the texture of the skin. Dark circles under the eyes are often indicative of a sluggish intestinal tract.

THE fingernail should not be flat; it should arch up slightly from the finger base. Thin nails that bend easily are not robust or healthy, neither are those that are brittle. Both conditions can be bettered by anointments every night with lanolin. White spots on the nails are caused by injuries to the matrix, causing air bubbles to form in the new cells; therefore no steel instruments should be used at the nail base.

IT isn't vanity that makes a sensible woman desire to look her best but self-respect. No need to tell that to anybody these days. A good appearance helps a woman to hold down her job, , matter what it may be—doing up bundles in a shop or serving as talking partner in the Firm of Matrimony. When a woman doesn't care how she looks, she doesn't care about anything.

THE old-time formula for the dry shampoo is orris root. A better one can be had by mixing orris with an equal amount of kaolin, which is Fuller's earth, cleansed and sterilized. Kaolin absorbs oil. Apply from a large salt shaker. Remove from the hair by brushing. To do a quick, thorough job, place absorbent cotton over the bristles of the brush.

Tomorrow's Horoscope

Saturday, April 12

THE planetary configurations operating on this day point to some sudden changes with disappointments and delays, albeit attended by some very optimistic financial auguries. With your perseverence and sound judgment the situation may be turned to excellent advantage, with favorable promise of reaching some high ambition, especially as relates to money or investment. But precaution, patience and stability in old rather than new ventures must be exercised.

Those whose birthday it is may have a year in which some of the ambitions may be fulfilled, despite tenacious obstacles, hazardous changes and devastating occurrences. With persistency, sound judgment and firm control of circumstances all may be turned to good account, but rather in old lines than in new ventures.

A child born on this day may be ambitious and clever, in spite of a tendency to restlessness, changeability and moments of dejection and melancholia. It has a fair chance for success if it be trained in perseverance, courage and stability.

"Salads in the Spring" Is a Good Slogan

The tonic qualities of salads make them particularly valuable in the Spring, says Dr. Copeland. All sorts of fruit or vegetables may be used.

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.,
Former Health Commissioner of New York City
United States Senator From New York

MAN should learn that nature affords the best tonics in the world. They are the air, the sunbeams, the winds, the fruits of the orchard and the plants of the field.

This is the salad season not the lobster or other heavy kind of salads, but the lighter variety. Most of them are composed of really essential foods, like fresh and cooked vegetables and fruits. In the spring of the year, your system requires a change in the diet. You need all the fresh fruits and vegetables you can eat.

For those who are actually sick, or run down and out of sorts, the doctor will probably prescribe some sort of a tonic. But the best tonic made, besides three sensible meals a day, are great breaths of fresh air and hours out in the sunshine.

SALADS BENEFICIAL

We are going to talk of the value of salads just now. There seem to be many persons who have never cultivated a taste for salads, especially the men. They are making a great mistake, for there is nothing better than these fruits and vegetables which Mother Nature has provided for the human family.

Few things are more wholesome or appetizing than a well-made salad of fresh vegetables. I passed a city shop window the other day which contained an appealing array of green things. It was hard not to stop and enjoy the sight, and incidentally to resist the impulse to buy them all. There were the leafy vegetables—lettuce, endive, romaine, watercress, chicory, savoy cabbage, all of which are used to make the foundations of almost every salad. The leaves and stalks of young plants contain valuable food substances which we need in the system.

VALUABLE IN VITAMINS

Also in this window were radishes, carrots, artichokes, tomatoes, cucumbers, onions, and other fresh vegetables, any of which combined with the leafy vegetables would make the best kind of a tonic salad.

A salad made up of uncooked vegetables is particularly valuable in mineral salts and vitamins. From them one derives the benefit of all the food elements so necessary to growth, some of which are lost in cooked vegetables. Greens are excellent in cases of chronic constipation. They help also to maintain the alkali reserve of the body.

It is important to remember that all fresh vegetables should be thoroughly washed before being made into salad. Wash them and put them on ice until needed.

FOUNDATION OF MEAL

Among the cooked vegetables which are very good for salads, to be served cold with leafy vegetables, are spinach, broccoli, cauliflower, turnip and beet tops, Swiss chard and dandelion tops. Chopped cold boiled egg may be added. Any of these may be served with a French or mayonnaise dressing. Such a salad is very nutritious, and makes the foundation of a good meal.

For an inexpensive salad one may use left-over vegetables—spinach, green peas, parsnips, carrots, string beans, asparagus or parsnips with the leafy vegetables.

We should eat more of the fruit salads. The fruits in the markets are most attractive now. Grapefruit were never better. Then, too, there are oranges, grapes, pineapple, apples, grapefruit, strawberries and bananas, all especially fine for tonic salads. Such salads are nourishing if served with cream dressings.

SALAD DRESSINGS

One may find a very nutritious salad in a cottage cheese and lettuce or romaine salad. Cottage cheese is easily digested. This may be served with any sort of dressing desired—Russian dressing is especially good with it. Prunes or dates stuffed with cottage cheese make a splendid salad.

Salad dressing making is quite an art. However, anyone may find many excellent recipes for making a variety of dressings in cook books and periodicals. Use nothing but the best vegetable oils, the best condiments and the best vinegar, or even better, lemon juice. The markets supply excellent prepared salad dressings.

Judge Skeptical Of Gin as Fur Restorer

CHICAGO, April 11.—(AP)—The value of gin as a fur restorative was argued before Judge John L. Lupe.

"It revives the fibre, makes the fur glisten, and keeps away moths." Jacob Cohen mentioned, in explaining why he had a gallon of the substance in his fur store.

The court was interested in Cohen's contribution to industrial chemistry—but not impressed.

"One hundred dollars and costs," Judge Lupe decided.

THREE pounds of beef brisket is the first requirement. Wipe the meat with a damp cloth and tie it into a compact shape with strips of cloth. Place the meat in a deep kettle with boiling water. Add a bunch of soup greens as well as several cloves and peppercorns. When the meat is partly cooked, season with salt.

LET the meat simmer until it is tender, then remove it from the liquid. The strips of cloth are taken off, and the meat placed in a shallow baking dish. Beat 1 egg and spread it over the beef. Sprinkle the top with bread crumbs and brown it under a flame or in a hot oven.

For the onion sauce, brown ½ cup sliced onions in 2 tablespoons fat. Remove the onions and make a brown sauce of the fat, 2 tablespoons flour and 1½ cups stock. Add 1 tablespoon minced parsley and your dish is ready to serve!

CHEESE substitutes ably for the meat dishes which must perforce become scarce during the Lenten season. And, too, cheese may be combined with fish or added to a baked fish dish as its final complement—either way it's delicious.

There is, for instance, salmon en casserole—a dish for a king. To prepare it you will require 2 cups of cooked rice, a tablespoon of chopped onion, 2 tablespoons of chopped parsley, 2 tablespoons of melted butter, salt and pepper, 3 hard-boiled eggs, a can of salmon, a cup of thin cream sauce, 1½ cups grated American cheese, ½ cup bread crumbs.

DAILY ROUGHAGE IS AN ESSENTIAL IN ANY DIET

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN Is Effective Relief for Constipation. Also Adds Iron to the Blood

Do you suffer from constipation? Are you one of those who have tried one "vest pocket cure" after another and still have no sense of permanent relief? If so, this is big news to you! Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is natural, effective relief for both temporary and recurring constipation. It is the original—and today is included in the diets of millions of people who formerly suffered from constipation.

When roughage is missing from food, constipation is the consequence. The soft foods we eat today seldom include enough roughage. The simple necessity, then, is to see to it that sufficient roughage is included in our food.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is the bulk that your system requires.

In addition, it is rich in iron. Scientific research proves that nearly all this iron is absorbed by the system, building red blood and bringing the glorious color of health to the complexion.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is positively guaranteed. Your money will be returned if you are not satisfied. Be sure to include it in reducing diets as a preventive for both constipation and anemia.

There are so many ways you can eat Kellogg's ALL-BRAN and enjoy it. In any form, it is appetizing. It is delicious with milk or cream. Sprinkle it over cereals and soups and notice the added flavor. Many people soak it in fruit juices. Excellent in cooked foods. Your grocer has Kellogg's ALL-BRAN in the red-and-green package. It is served in hotels, restaurants and dining-cars. Ask for it! butter, season well. Place half of it in a casserole, cover with slices of hard-cooked egg. Remove bones from salmon, flake it and spread over the egg. Cover the salmon with half the cream sauce, to which a cup of grated cheese has been added while hot.

FINISH the dish with the remainder of the rice, sliced egg and sauce. Sprinkle the remaining grated cheese and the bread crumbs over the top. Bake in a moderate oven, 350 degrees, for 30 minues, or until the crumbs begin to brown.

Crabmeat au gratin is another feast for the epicure. Pick over a large can of crabmeat and remove all bones and membranes. Melt 3 tablespoons butter in a saucepan, remove from heat and stir in 3 tablespoons flour, ½ teaspoon salt, ⅛ teaspoon pepper and ¼ teaspoon paprika. Gradually add 1½ cups of thin cream, return to the heat and cook until thickened, stirring constantly.

Put the crabmeat in a baking dish, add the sauce, cover with 1-3 cup bread crumbs and sprinkle a teaspoon parmesan cheese over the top. Put in the oven until the cheese is melted and nicely browned.

IT'S high time we talked about vitamins again, when those mystic little food elements had the spotlight of publicity, we took excellent care to see that the menu abounded with vitamins. Now that the spotlight has shifted a bit to such fascinating things as new planets and such, it may be that we are forgetting their vital importance.

The system cannot thrive, cannot resist disease, unless it receives its quota of vitamins.

One of the most pleasing and richest sources of Vitamin C is oranges and lemons. Green vegetables are rich in it too. See that plenty of these foods find their way into your daily menu.

HAVE a fruit cheese salad for dinner some night—Peel an orange, a grapefruit, and remove the pulp in the sections free from membrane. Place alternate sections of orange and grapefruit on a bed of crisp lettuce leaves. In the center place balls made from cream cheese which has been blended with crushed pineapple. And serve with any desired dressing.

A spring salad is another delicious thing; it may be slightly optimistic to serve it while the days are so brisk, but under any other name it would taste just as good. Pare 2 oranges, cut in very thin slices, and cut the slices in quarters. Marinate with French dressing, to which you have added a few grains of mustard, and serve on beds of watercress.

HERE is a good recipe for macaroon pudding. Add a cup of macaroon crumbs to a cup of thin cream, and heat in a double boiler. Add a pinch of salt to the yolk of 3 eggs and beat until light. Add to the cream and macaroon mixture and remove from the heat. Add ¼ teaspoon of almond flavoring and 2 tablespoons of syrup flavoring.

Fold in the whites of the eggs, which have been beaten stiff. Turn into a buttered baking dish, place in a pan of hot water and bake in a moderately slow oven—325 degrees—until firm. Serve cold with sweetened whipped cream.

FOR an afternoon tea, when you want something very nice, very attractive and very edible to serve your fastidious guests, I incline toward marshmallow crackers. And if there is a more economical or a more welcome dainty, commend me to it.

All you do is spread saltines very lightly with butter, put a marshmallow on each and brown under the grill.

Be sure not to have the heat too intense, for the marshmallows must be brought gradually to the sun-tan hue that is so inviting.

MAPLESCOTCH PIE—Sift ½ cup corn starch, ½ teaspoon salt, and 4 tablespoons sugar together. Blend with ¼ cup milk. Scald 1 cup milk and add the corn starch mixture, and cook until it begins to thicken, stirring constantly. Cook 10 minutes longer, stirring occasionally. Beat the yolks of 2 eggs slightly and pour a small amount of the syrup mixture over them and stir. Return to the double boiler and cook until thickened. Remove from the fire and add 1 teaspoon vanilla. Cool. Pour into a baked pie shell and top with meringue. Bake in a moderate oven 20 minutes or until lightly browned.

CHOCOLATE PINWHEELS—Cream ½ cup of butter and ½ cup of sugar, then drop in 1 unbeaten egg yolk and beat the mixture well. Add 3 tablespoons milk, 1½ cups flour, sifted with ½ teaspoon baking powder and ⅛ teaspoon salt. To half of this mixture add 1 square of melted chocolate. Roll the white dough into a thin rectangular sheet and then roll the chocolate dough into a sheet of the same size. Place the chocolate dough over the white and then roll over and over into a roll of about 2 inches in diameter. Set in the ice box for several hours, to become firm, cut into thin slices and lay cut side down upon a buttered baking sheet. Bake in a moderate oven.

ENGLISH TAFFY PEACHES—Whip 1 pint of cream. Put English taffy through the food chopper until you have 1 cup of the ground candy. Fold the taffy into the whipped cream. Heap a tablespoon of the cream mixture in the desert dish and surround with fine slices of fresh peaches. Top the cream with a green cherry.

FRIED FISH, RUSSIAN STYLE—Cut halibut into filets, sprinkle with salt and pepper, pour 1-3 cup cooking sherry over the fish, and cover for 30 minutes. Drain, dip each filet in cream, then in flour and fry in deep fat. Make a sauce of 2 tablespoons melted butter, to which 3 tablespoons flour has been added and cooked until smooth, add 1 cup brown stock and 1-3 cup heavy cream. Add 2 egg yolks, salt, pepper or cayenne. Do not cook after the

When the mixture begins to thicken in the double boiler, add ¼ cup sherry. Beat with a wire whisk and set aside to keep warm, but not to boil.

Make a sandwich of bread spread with butter and lobster and sprinkled with salt and pepper. Toast on both sides. Place on a plate with the asparagus and pour the sauce over it.

Combine the spinach with the sauce, and a few minutes before serving stir in 2 eggs well beaten. Keep in a warm place until thoroughly blended with the creamed spinach.

Just one of the ten million*

*A prominent surgeon estimates that over ten million people in the United States are suffering from ailments of this nature.

—suffering from troubles caused or aggravated by harsh toilet tissue

Habits of personal cleanliness have very little to do with the origin of rectal trouble.

For even the most immaculate run the risk of serious illness every time a harsh or chemically impure toilet tissue is used.

Yet despite this serious danger, in thousands of homes you will find toilet tissues utterly unfit for bathroom use.

ScotTissue, Sani-Tissue and Waldorf are famous bathroom tissues specially processed to satisfy the three requirements doctors say toilet tissue must have to be safe: absorbency—softness—chemical purity. Each sheet is made up of millions of "thirsty fibres."

These specially treated fibres, soft and clothlike, are extremely absorbent. Without this absorbent quality, thorough hygiene is impossible.

Scott Tissues are made from fresh, clean materials. No harmful dyes. No waste material. They are sanitary. Fully sterilized—and absolutely safe to use. It doesn't pay to be careless in this bathroom essential. Always insist on ScotTissue—Sani-Tissue or Waldorf.

'BROKE,' PLEADS RALPH CAPONE

CHICAGO, April 11 (INS)—The federal jury before which Ralph Capone, brother of Scarface Al Capone, is being tried for failing to pay an income tax today considered Capone's plea that he is without funds.

Capone's lawyer yesterday proposed that his client would borrow $1,000 give it to the government and call his income tax bill even.

The jury was told that the only assets of the gang leader's brother was a half interest in two racing horses. The statement further pointed out that he was insolvent and that he had lost considerable money by picking wrong horses to win races.

MILL STRIKERS' PARLEY SET

APOLLO, Pa., April 11—Business men here are preparing to appoint representatives to meet with officials of the Apollo Steel Company and of the 500 striking employes in an effort to bring an end to the week-old strike which is affecting the community.

A mass meeting is to be held tonight in the Municipal Building at which a committee of merchants will be appointed. It is planned to have the committee meet with A. M. Oppenheimer, president of the company, and the strikers' committee to iron out the difficulties which have caused a shutdown at the local mill.

The strike started last Saturday when 200 employes of Department No. 2 refused to accept the temporary cut of 10 per cent. Monday, 300 workers of other departments went out in sympathy, and that afternoon the plant was closed by the officials.

Take Vitalex to Retain or Regain Health and Beauty

According to Doctors, VITALEX, which the Johnson Laboratories have given to the world, is "marvelous."

This New Day Tonic and Food Supplement for the first time incorporates Yeast, Cod Liver Oil and Vegetable Vitamins with time tried Herbal Juices.

Vitalex is given to the world by the laboratories founded by Dr. Abner Johnson & Company, who are known for their old famous and reliable and helpful medical preparations.

Alone in Field

Despite any conflicting claims, there never before was, nor now is in existence, according to Johnson Laboratory records, ANY TONIC MADE ANYWHERE which contains Yeast, Cod Liver Oil and Vegetable Vitamins blended with herbal juices but VITALEX! Philadelphia chemists and laboratory officials also confirm these statements.

Vitalex Now Here

These marvelous Vitamin forces which now occupy foremost attention of editors of women's magazines, nutritive and dietetic experts are positively palatably blended with the herbal juices of VITALEX.

Or No Cost!

An Epochal Discovery!

The discovery of Vitamins was indeed an Epochal Event. All old methods of treating deficiency and physical disease had to be modified, revised and brought up to date. How could these Vitamins be combined and properly blended in a herbal tonic for widest distribution for lay use? That was the big problem. Many laboratory specialists said it was impossible. It seemed that nature was jealous of combining these mysterious elements, one with the other. Yet science persisted, and after many tests and experiments, triumphed at last. VITALEX is the result of these Experiments! VITALEX is the result of this triumph! Make the VITALEX test. Benefit by the experiences and triumphs of science.

Do You Suffer? What Causes Your Pain? Make Vitalex Test!

Now for the first time in VITALEX you have a preparation in which Science has actually blended powerful Vitamins B, C and D with Time Tried, Tested and Proven Herbal Juices.

Take Notice How You Feel!

First, take notice just how you feel and look and what your ailments are. Then Take a Tablespoonful of VITALEX before each meal for seven days. See for yourself! Overcome that tired feeling, headache, dizziness, constipation, indigestion, nausea, stomach disorder, pains in the back and limbs, rheumatism of the joints and muscles, biliousness, nervousness. Notice how well you sleep at night. Notice how your appetite improves. Notice how you ENJOY life instead of just ENDURING it. See the color come back into your cheeks, the sparkle to your eyes. Notice when firm flesh develops and how much better your look and feel.

Put Vitalex to the Test!

This offer is made only after a thorough test which shows that VITAMINS (such as contained in VITALEX) improve the health and appearance and increase the vitality of weak, nervous, anemic, delicate or run-down men and women. You have everything to gain and nothing to lose. We guarantee that VITALEX will help you or it will cost you nothing. Put VITALEX to the test and WATCH RESULTS YOURSELF!

Stomach Trouble

Do you have indigestion? Gas? Bloating? Does undigested food form a mass in your stomach, causing dyspepsia, intense pain and distress? Does your heart palpitate from gas? Do you have sour stomach? Cramps? Spit up bile?

Constipated? Liver?

If your liver and gall don't do their work, and the digestive juices do not flow freely, you will have attacks of biliousness, sick headaches, constipation, dizzy spells, yellow, sallow, muddy complexion. You will have a heavy feeling around the waist. You will lose sleep and become nervous.

Rheumatic Pains?

Rheumatism relief comes from getting the poisons from the system. The herbal juices for years have been known as true alternatives. The awful pain, sore joints, swelling and soreness vanish when health comes. When poisons go by herbal action Vitamins B, C and D give new strength.

Are You Nervous?

Nervousness comes from a body out of tune. Clean out the poisons, become normal. Live a full life. Vitalex points the way.

Poor Complexion

and many other "minor" ailments will vanish like snow before the sun if you clean the colon, create digestive action, and have a sufficient bile flow, and get your liver on the job!

Don't take strong purgatives that leave you in bad condition.

Prominent Pittsburgh Doctors Endorse VITALEX

Dr. R. H. Clement Gladly Recommends Vitalex Very Highly

I have tried your preparation VITALEX and find that it is an excellent product as a laxative and stimulant. Stomach trouble is one of the most common ailments and if taken care of properly can be very easily checked; however, if neglected a complication of diseases may set in such as an overworked liver with its symptoms of biliousness followed by headache, coated tongue, nausea, vomiting, dizziness, specks before the eyes, pain in the back, possible palpitation of the heart, possible involving of the kidneys, etc. Another common stomach ailment is what is known to the medical profession as acidosis, meaning increased acidity or gas on the stomach; in other words, fermentation instead of digestion, decay instead of nutrition. Fermentation produces poisons which the blood absorbs and ultimately affects the nerves; this latter develops into such possible complications as rheumatism, neuritis, neuralgia, hardening of the arteries, high blood pressure, nerve exhaustion, ulcers of the stomach — and may even develop cancerous conditions.

Dr. Johnson's

VITALEX

CONTAINS VITAMINS

The New Day Tonic and Food Supplement

DR. JOHNSON'S personal prescription now contains Vitamins B, C and D—the tested and proved ingredients (herbal juices) are blended with Vitamins, those life-giving and life-sustaining elements so eagerly sought by Dietitians and Nutritive Experts.

Make the "7-Day Wonder-Test!"

Those who feel the need of suffering from aggravated tonical benefits; those who constipation, body pains, would test the merits of stomach distress, sluggish VITALEX, those who need liver—are invited to make vitamins-run-down people, this test and let results answer weakened bodies, people for each individual.

Dr. H. J. Perkins Tells Why Vitalex Easily Overcomes Ailments

I have tried your Vitalex and I find that it is an excellent product, as it contains the ingredients that go to make up a strictly first-class tonic, one that is indicated in a variety of ills that human flesh is heir to, such as an overworked liver; biliousness followed by headache; coated tongue; nausea; pain in the back; palpitation of the heart; a variety of kidney complaints; acidosis, meaning an increased acidity or gas on the stomach. You may avoid or overcome neuritis or inflammation of the kidneys, and cistitis or inflammation of the bladder if Vitalex is used persistently.

The ingredients of Vitalex are some of the oldest and best known to the Medical Profession and have never been improved on or replaced by other ingredients, consequently they have stood the test of time and are the best known remedies for the complaints above mentioned. Therefore, I do not hesitate to recommend them, for they are worthy of the highest recommendation. So I feel that I am spreading sunshine when I am recommending Vitalex to the public.

KILLING BLAMED ON INSANE PAIR

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., April 11.—(AP.)—Two escaped inmates from the San Antonio State Hospital for the Insane were charged with murder after the mutilated body of J. W. Bradshaw, bridegroom of a month, was recovered from the Guadalupe River, 40 miles northwest of here.

Although Homer Edwards and Ernest Young were formally charged with the slaying, their insanity status will preclude prosecution for murder.

The body was found after Bradshaw's bride reported to county officers she was forced to wait in an automobile near the river Wednesday night while Edwards and Young took her husband away and a short time later returned to the car and said "we have given him the beating of his life."

Officers hurried to the scene, on a farm near Waring. They found Bradshaw's clothes rolled up in a small clump of bushes. A short distance away they located the body, mutilated and weighted down with rocks, in the clear water of the stream. The bridegroom had been shot in the head.

Edwards and Young were arrested here and taken to the Kendall County jail at Boerne. Both were adjudged insane after they had been convicted of robbery and theft.

Mrs. Bradshaw, sister of Young's wife, told officers she and her husband were kidnaped and were driven to the farm near Waring. Her alleged kidnapers were arrested yesterday and charged with kidnaping before Bradshaw's body had been recovered.

GUARD AGAINST RELIGIOUS WAR

JERUSALEM, April 11.—(Jewish Telegraphic Agency)—(AP.)—British troops from Egypt have arrived here to maintain order and take all precautions Sunday which is the second day of Passover, the day when the Moslem Nebi Musa festival processions start, as well as the day scheduled for Christian Easter processions. The entire police force, including members of the band, also has been ordered mobilized.

To avoid any possible collision between Arabs and Jews or Arabs and Christians during the processions and while the Jews are on their way to pray at the wailing wall, the government has issued certain regulations for those going to the famous wailing wall on Sunday.

ROBBER ADMITS 14 HOLDUPS

BALTIMORE, April 11.—(AP.)—Irvin Limper, confessed robber who twice conducted a series of holdups within an hour, entered a plea of guilty to 14 charges of banditry when he was arraigned in criminal court for trial. Sentence was withheld until April 21 to give the court time to make an investigation into the mentality and background of the man.

Limper was arrested as he was escaping from his third foray at pistol point on the till of a Baltimore street restaurant, and gradually admitted the other holdups in a series which started on January 21.

KIDNAP VICTIM ACCUSES GUIDE

TEPIC, Nayarit, Mexico, April 11.—(AP.)—Following his release from more than a month of captivity at the hands of bandits who held him for ransom, J. E. Bristow, American mining man, in a complete report to Mexican military authorities, accused the guide accompanying him at the time of his capture of having delivered him over to the bandits.

T. C. Fields, who had been hired as interpreter and guide, had laid a kidnaping plot in concert with the Delgado bandits, he said, declaring the actions of Fields after the prospecting party had entered the bandit country on March 7, were suspicious, and he believed Fields had tried to collect the ransom for himself.

Bristow's report was made to Col. Figueron, chief of staff to Gen. Pablo Rodriguez, military commander of the district, through an interpreter.

Fields, of French and Mexican parentage, has lived in this country for 28 years.

Bristow and his son, Obie, will return to the United States before the first of next week.

BANKER KILLER DIES IN CHAIR

Hurt was killed September 28, 1928, in the Citronelle State Bank.

Jarvis and Robert Collins and William Hansen, the other members of a bandit gang, fled, but were captured a short time later. Hansen was fatally wounded and told authorities Jarvis had shot him for "bungling the job." Jarvis denied slaying Hansen, claiming the shooting was accidental.

Collins is serving a life sentence at Kilby Prison. He pleaded guilty.

Diplomat's Widow Dies At Age of 70

SAEGERTOWN, Pa., April 11.—(AP.)—Mrs. Harriet Stone Fleming, 70, widow of Edwin Fleming, who was prominent as an editor and diplomat, died here yesterday. Funeral services will be held Monday at Buffalo, N. Y., where Fleming once served as editor of the Buffalo Courier.

'Poor Crops' Win Aid for Farm Rum Seller

BISMARCK, N. D., April 11.—(AP.)—Federal officers in whose custody Charles Corliss must serve a three-day sentence will probably have no difficulty with their prisoner. They will be taking him back to his farm home in Sargent County, 200 miles away, at the government's expense.

Corliss was sentenced after pleading guilty to charges of bootlegging. The federal prosecutor told the court Corliss had had six successive poor crops and last year received nothing from his fields because of hail. With no money and seven children, Corliss said he sold liquor to provide for his family throughout the winter.

The court found out the man had only 90 cents in his pockets and that his home was 200 miles away.

"Three days," was the verdict, "or until the prisoner reaches his home."

CAPONE GUARD TAKEN BACK

CHICAGO, April 11.—(AP.)—Machine Gun Jack McGurn, Al Capone's faithful attendant, came back from Florida under police protection, with a load of spirits—bad spirits.

The gunner was sullen—so were Detective Sergts. William Drury and John Howe, who brought him back to Chicago to face a charge of jumping bail on a gun-toting case.

"Them coppers in Miami," the gangster growled, "wouldn't even let me get a clean shirt or a shave. And a lotta apes on the train kept gawkin' at me like I ate babies or sumthin'."

Both McGurn and his guardians angrily denied charges that the gangster entertained the detectives at a banquet before they left.

"A ham sandwich and a cup of coffee at a Greek restaurant—that was the banquet," McGurn snarled.

COLONIAL WAR MARKER SET

BARBOURSVILLE, W. Va., April 11.—(AP.)—A granite marker, erected to the memory of soldiers of the French and Indian War, on the site of the old Savage land grant near here, was dedicated yesterday by members of the West Virginia unit of the National Society of Colonial Dames as the final event of their annual meeting. Mrs. Charles Wellington Watts and Mrs. S. G. Biggs, president and past president, respectively, of the Cabell County association, unveiled the marker and made brief addresses.

Before the unveiling ceremony members of the society met at Huntington for a luncheon, at which Dr. G. W. Diehl, president of Morris Harvey College; Mrs. Frank Woodman, Charleston, newly-elected president of the state organization; Mrs. Watts and Mrs. Biggs were speakers. The West Virginia unit opened its annual meeting at Charleston Wednesday.

BURLEIGH BEATS CUBS 13 IN LAST 16

THERE was no more disappointed man in baseball than Joe McCarthy, manager of the Cubs, when the Braves succeeded in closing the deal whereby they obtained Pitcher Burleigh Grimes from the Pirates. The Bruin boss had been the only other active bidder for the spitballer's services, and though given to understand at the start that Grimes would not be allowed to go to a pennant rival he persisted in his efforts in the hope that the Pittsburgh management would change its mind and consent to give ear to Chicago's proposals.

Joe McCarthy

McCarthy had a double reason for trying so hard to get Grimes. The acquisition of Burleigh would have meant not only the addition of another first-string pitcher to the staff of the Bruins, but at the same time it would have removed a thorn from the side of that club. In other words, McCarthy had in mind not only the number of games that Grimes might win for the Cubs but also the number of defeats they might escape if they had the spitball ace on their own roster instead of pitching against them several times during the course of a season.

AND the latter measures up as quite an item when you look back over the record of Grimes' slab activities in opposition to the Chicago team. No hurler in either of the big circuits has been more of a jinx to any particular club than Burleigh has been to the Windy City outfit. As a Giant and a Pirate in the last three seasons he has beaten the Bruins no fewer than 13 times in a total of 16 games pitched against them.

While Grimes was a Giant in 1927 his record against Chicago was three games won and one lost, and in each of his two seasons on the Pittsburgh roster after coming back to the Buccaneers for his second ocal engagement he defeated the Cubs five times and lost to them nly once, or a total of 10 victories and only two defeats in 1928 and 929.

AS his only defeat at Chicago's hands last year was suffered in his final appearance of the season against that club, and while he as serving in a relief role, it will be seen that Grimes won 10 of the irst 11 games he pitched against the Cubs fter he rejoined the Corsairs. Six of these 0 wins came in succession—the final game n 1928 and the first five in 1929.

Eddie Farrell

Between his only loss to them as a Giant n 1927, and his one defeat in competition ith them as a Pirate last year, Grimes ade the remarkable record of 13 victories ut of 14 straight games pitched against the ruins.

GRIMES' effectiveness against the Chicago club was particularly costly to them in the first year of his second engagement with the Pirates, 1928, when he beat them five out of six, as they lost second place by only two games that year and the pennant by only four games. Little wonder that McCarthy was so eager to add him to the slab corps of the Cubs. Joe at least has the consolation of knowing that while Burleigh will still be operating against his team any games that he may win will go to the credit of the lowly Braves and not into the victory column of a pennant rival. The stories that another deal may be made later in which Grimes will be transferred from the Braves to the Cubs or the Giants, or to some other club, are only wild rumors. Here's venturing a guess that he will stay right with the Braves.

HE expected meeting of John McGraw and Eddie Roush took place while the Giants were in Evansville, but the anticipated adstment of the differences existing between the two on the subject contract terms did not follow. It is said that manager and player erely exchanged greetings and went their respective ways.

No doubt there was more than that to it, but that McGraw has ven up hope of bringing the holdout into the fold for the opening the season, at least, is indicated by his action in trading Infielder ldie Farrell and Outfielder George Fisher to the Cardinals for Outlder Walter Roettger.

GRAW'S first move in obtaining Dewitt Lebourveau from Toledo looked like only an attempt to protect himself with an insurance olicy pending Roush's return, as Lebourveau has been tried by major eague clubs, including the Giants, half a dozen times and has just often shown that apart from being a fair hitter he doesn't belong.

Col. Jacob Ruppert

Inparting with Farrell for the second time since he came up, however, in addition to Fisher, a 28-year-old recruit who was with Buffalo last year, McGraw evidently is preparing to play a waiting game with Roush and force the latter to come in at the club's terms or remain out. At that it's still a good bet that Roush will be back eventually. Roettger never was considered good enough to be a regular for the Cards. He hit only .253 in 79 games last year and won't look much like Roush in the Giant lineup.

EVERYBODY realizes that Babe Ruth gets his record baseball salary of $80,000 per year not because he is so much better than other players on the field, but because he draws it at the gate. At the same time, it strikes the average fan that Col. Jacob Ruppert, owner of the Yankees, is going to extremes in his efforts to get back as quickly as possibly the amount of Ruth's salary. Yankee contracts for spring exhibition games are made with the understanding that Ruth is to play. If he doesn't play, the Yanks do not get the guarantee agreed upon. To save this guarantee, the crippled Ruth is being sent up to plate for one time at bat in each exhibition game, and then to hobble to first base if he makes a hit, when it is clear that he ought to be kept out of action on account of the condition of his sore leg. It isn't fair either to Ruth, who may suffer further injuries, or to the fans who are paying to see him.

VAYLAND DEAN, who died yesterday, was one of the numerous pitchers who have looked like real stars while pitching in the inors, but who failed to live up to expectations after advancing to e big show. Dean pitched for three clubs in the National League ut could not stick, though it now develops that ill health may have layed a part in his failure.

Dean had such a big year with Louisville in 1923, winning 21 ames against eight defeats and finishing second only to Tom Sheehan r the American Association slab leadership, that the Giants paid 50,000 for him. In 1924, however, he won only 6 games against 12 deats, and in 1925 he won 10 and lost 7, whereupon the Giants traded im to the Phillies with Jack Bentley for Jimmy Ring. For the Phils n 1926 he won 8 and lost 16, and after he had lost one game in 1927, e was sold on June 18 to the Cubs. He took part in two games for he Bruins and dropped out of the majors at the end of the season. n his four years in the big leagues he won 24 games and lost 36.

WATER MARKS TO BE PUT TO TEST

By JESS CARVER

The vulnerability of the entire list of records will be tested by swimmers from half a hundred high schools beginning this evening as the sixteenth annual interscholastic swimming meet of the University of Pittsburgh gets under way in the Trees Gym pool.

In connection with the scholastic carnival, the university aquatic championships will be decided, with the possibility that one or two Pitt records may tumble into the discard.

A year ago, two school marks were shattered and one equalled. The entry list at that time was under the one that will furnish the competitors tonight and tomorrow afternoon, when the meet will be concluded.

TWO FINALS CARDED

Tonight's program will consist of two university and one scholastic final, with trial heats in all events. Ten races and the scholastic fancy diving are on the card.

Included among the high schools with team entries are Central High, of Washington, D. C.; Dale High, of Johnstown; McKinley, of Canton; Academy and Central of Erie and practically all schools in the city and tri-state district.

The Tipoff

Now that the basketball coaches have defined stalling and suggested ways and means of eliminating the game, all they have to do is convince each other that it is no tougher to be licked by 20 points than by one.

Pie Traynor talked before the Rotary Club yesterday and answered all questions satisfactorily until some one piped up and inquired how to go about getting a season pass.

George Nease, the really brilliant Carnegie Tech backfield, has been re-elected captain of the Tartan court squad for the 1930-31 season. Nease not only was the main and practically only scoring threat of the past season's fistic team, but he was an inspiring leader. He plays either a forward or a guard.

The veteran Joe McGraw, known formally as Joseph M., is in charge of the pursuit race meeting at Wheeling, serving in the capacity of pursuing judge. McGraw is one of the best known and best liked horsemen in the country, and is familiar with both the rosaries and sulky activities.

It was a mistake, no less, that Jockey Coltrin retained his mount on Ella Bank in the second race of the opening day's card at Wheeling. Coltrin had the black filly out in front as the bugs roared down the stretch, but 10 yards from the wire the saddle girth slipped and Coltrin came within an ace of being thrown to the track, where he might have been trampled to death.

Having taken care of the 1927 quarterback job at Pitt, Dr. Tommy Holleran has a candidate in the field for the 1950 season. The former Panther leader, now practicing dentistry in Greenville, Pa., announces the arrival of Burton DeArmond Holleran, born Sunday morning. "He ought to make a good third baseman," Dr. Tommy's note reads, "he has big hands."

Husky Crew Meets California Today

SEATTLE, Wash., April 11.—(AP.)—The eyes of the rowing world were turned today toward Lake Washington, picturesque body of water at the Northern edge of Seattle, where the famous crews of the Universities of California and Washington were to battle for Pacific Coast supremacy for the twenty-second time.

Nearly 100,000 persons, the greatest crowd ever to witness an athletic event in the Pacific Northwest, was expected to watch one of the most colorful and dramatic spectacles in the West.

PUTNEY-ON-THAMES, England, April 11.—(AP.)—Oxford and Cambridge will begin their second century of rowing tomorrow when their eight oared crews meet for the eighty-second time for their classic 4½ mile duel on the Thames from Putney to Mortlake.

The first race between the light Blue and the Dark Blue took place in 1829. Since then they have rowed 81 races, each gaining 40 victories. The 1877 race was a dead heat.

Nick Altrock Says:

WASHINGTON, April 11.—You got to give Burleigh Grimes credit for carrying out a threat. Burleigh said if he didn't get $20,000 a year from the Pirates he would quit big league baseball. So they traded him to the Braves, where he can keep his word. The Braves and the Red Sox are the Europa and the Bremen of baseball with the engines in reverse.

Nick Altrock

Well, it is good to be back North again, even if the weather is a little cool. That is where college baseball has it on the big leagues. The college teams can wear raccoon coats.

Yesterday the Philadelphia Symphony Orchestra had to cancel Mendelssohn's Spring Song on account of the cold.

TOMORROW—THE WOMAN WITH A MANE.

JIM ROBERTSON TO SHADY SIDE

James A. (Jimmy) Robertson, one of the best all-round athletes ever produced by Carnegie Tech, has been selected to coach the Shady Side Academy football team, according to an announcement this morning by Capt. W. A. Palmer, director of athletics. Robertson won the appointment over a large field of applicants, and will succeed another Carnegie man, Howard Harpster, who is to take over the reins at Geneva College next fall.

Jimmy Robertson

One of the few college men in this district who have earned letters in four different sports while in college, Jimmy grabbed his greatest fame on the gridiron. Four years he was a member of the Tartan squad, starting in 1920, and reaching the peak of his career in 1923 when he captained the Plaid team that scored the first victory in history over Pitt. And the touchdown that gave Carnegie her greatest triumph up to that time was a personally conducted tour over the last chalk-mark by the young leader.

Although Robertson may be best remembered at Tech for that feat, less than a decade ago he enjoyed a national reputation as the flashiest ball-carrying quarterback of his day. Working from Wally Steffen's famous spread formation, there was not a foe that could prevent Jimmy from getting away at least once or twice in every game.

Weighing only 150 pounds when he was an active player, Jimmy was built for speed, and he utilized it also in baseball, basketball and track, in each of which sports he earned the varsity insignia.

He is a local boy, a graduate of Allegheny High School, where his remarkable athletic career started, and is at present identified with a local insurance firm. He will confine his coaching at Shady Side to football, as Harpster did, and, of course, will continue to teach the Carnegie Tech style of play to the academy boys.

Six games have been carded for the Shady Side gridders for next fall, five of which will be played at home. The card follows:

September 26—Taylor Allderdice at Shady Side; October 3—Perry at Shady Side; October 10—Pittsburgh Catholic at Shady Side; October 17 — Oakmont at Shady Side; October 25—Nichols School at Buffalo; November 1 — University School of Cleveland at Shady Side; November 7—Open.

National A. A. U. Meet Here Moved To August

NEW YORK, April 11.—(AP.)—The National Amateur Athletic Union track and field championships probably will be held in Pittsburgh in August instead of in July, according to Dan Ferris, secretary-treasurer. The scheduling of an international meet with a British team late in August made it advisable to have the title meet at a later date so there will be no letdown for the athletes. The Pacific Coast associations have objected to the change, but finally have accepted the change, Ferris said.

BUCS DECLINE MOBILE CAMP

NEW ORLEANS, April 11.—(AP.)—There is no question but that the Pirates will return to Paso Robles, Cal., next spring to train. While the team was in Mobile, Ala., yesterday, business men of the town invited the Pittsburghers to come to their city next year. Sam Dreyfuss, vice president of the club, thanked the Mobile folks for their invitation, but said it had been decided to return to the Almond City.

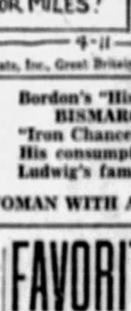
Two good crowd-pleasers among the boxers of this section come together in the 10-round main bout in the Moose Temple tonight. They are Young Saylor, of Charleroi, and Mickey Solomen, of New Castle, near-middleweights.

In his last two starts in the Moose ring, Solomen knocked out Buck McTiernan and Jackie Wilson. He turned the tables on Buck after the latter had knocked him out in an earlier fight, and he got up off the floor after being spilled for a nine count in the second round to take Wilson, a few weeks ago.



Mickey Solomen

Saylor similarly has done his best fighting in the Moose ring. First he outboxed Tommy Malco, only to be gypped out of the decision. Then he defeated Gene Moretti after the latter had won from Solomen at McKeesport, and he followed this up by winning the decision over Malco in a return bout.

Both are good, earnest performers and Promoter Flynn ought to play to one of his best houses

Georgia Loop Prexy And Bride Jailed

ALBANY, Ga., April 11.—(INS.)—W. M. McGoldrick, president of the Georgia Independent Baseball League, and his bride of a day were held in jail today pending the arrival of authorities from Baumont, Tex., for whom local police detained the couple on a felony charge.

McGoldrick and Miss Beatrice Blankenship were taken into custody at a local hotel, where they had been living. They were married a short time after their arrest. Declaring that he did not know why he was wanted in Texas, McGoldrick said he would waive extradition.

ENS TO PUT PIE IN CLEANUP POSITION

By CHARLES J. DOYLE,
Staff Correspondent.

NEW ORLEANS, La., April 11.—The Pirates reached New Orleans shortly before noon today after a ride of four hours from Mobile. Glad to realize they were at the last stop of their long barnstorming tour, the Pittsburghers also rejoiced over an announcement indicating that Capt. Pie Traynor would be at his post when the Freebooters open the season Tuesday at Cincinnati. The optimistic news was contained in a telephone message to Dr. William L. Marks, Pirate Physician, who talked with Dr. Stanley Smith, who has been treating Traynor's ailing eye. The Pittsburgh specialist stated that in all probability Pie would be ready to play Tuesday. The captain of the club will report to his team Monday in Cincinnati.

ENS ELATED

Manager Ens was especially elated over the late report on the spirited Traynor. What with Lloyd Waner counted out for the inaugural and the doubt surrounding Traynor, Ens was lying awake nights trying to figure out a batting order.

"If Pie is able to start we ought to be all set for any emergency," said the Pittsburgh skipper after getting the information on the team captain and Jewel meant it when he said that. While the boss of the outfit would like to have Brother Lloyd in his position right from the start, he feels that either Brickell or Flagstead will be able to hold the fort in center—but who, he says, can take the place of Traynor, not only as a third baseman but as an inspiration for the whole team? Ens makes no secret of his regard for Traynor so far as team-value and inspiration are concerned.

There is no active inflammation in Traynor's eye, the report from Pittsburgh says. The only danger now, according to the physicians, lies in the chance of Pie taking cold in the weakened optic, but he doubtless will be very careful of himself until the eye is normal again.

CHANGE LINEUP

Now that Ens is reasonably sure of Traynor in the opening game he is ready to switch his batting order. Pie will go into the cleanup notch while Adam Comorosky will drop from the fourth spot to sixth.

Shortstop Dick Bartell is ready to swing into action this afternoon when the Pirates take on New Orleans in the first contest of a three-game series. Richard the Lionhearted was injured in Tucson about 10 days ago, but his lame ankle has mended and he will thus proceed to get in shape for the opener.

Skipper Ens will begin cutting down the pitching routines beginning today. He will use Swetonic and Stoner in the first clash with the Pelicans.

VINCENT ELDRED,
Highland Country Club

Four or five years ago when a team of Western New York professionals came down to play the Tri-State clan in a team match at the Pittsburgh Field Club—and constant cold beat the locals in the midst of a downpour—it was little thought then that Vince Eldred, co-star with George Christ, of the New York team, would be listed among the prominent local instructors and players. But he is . . . last year the Highland Country Club signed him to replace Jack Oke, who was pro there for a number of years. Eldred was a splendid amateur for years before he turned professional. He was born in Glenna Collett's home town—or her former home town—Providence, R. I., and has been a good golfer since 1915. His club affiliations have seen Eldred four years at the Bradenton, Fla., Country Club, a year at St. Augustine, Fla., four years at the Bartlett Country Club, Olean, N. Y., and his present connection with Highland. He won the West Penn open title handily, and placed fourth in the Pennsylvania open, and sixth in the Miami open. He has qualified three times for the National open. During the past winter he was playing excellent golf in the South, and copped quite a bit of dough in the money tournaments. A modest, unassuming chap, Eldred is popular everywhere he goes.—VERN SWARTSFAGER.

O'HARA CLUB COPS RING TITLE

AMATEURS WIN BOXING, MAT CROWNS

The two-day Greater Pittsburgh amateur boxing and wrestling tournament, conducted at the Palisades, McKeesport, came to a close last night when championships were awarded in eight boxing divisions and four wrestling classes.

Although they captured only two championships, the Duke O'Hara Club, of McKeesport, with the greatest entry list, grabbed off the boxing point trophy with a total of 25. The West Newton A. C. finished second with 14, while the Harry Swartz A. C., of McKeesport, and the Homestead Library tied for third with 10 points apiece. The McKeesport Y. M. C. A. wrestling team took first honors in the mat division of the tournament, finishing with 17 points. West Virginia University finished second with eight, while the East Liberty Y grapplers and the Baraca Club, of Baraca, W. Va., tied for third with five points apiece.

The Duke O'Hara Club, of McKeesport, Homestead Library and the West Newton A. C., each grabbed off two championships. The new boxing titleholders are as follows:

115-pound class—Paul Monar, Homestead Library.
115-pound class—Tony Matranga, West Newton A. C.
125-pound class—Steve Senich, Homestead Library.
135-pound class—Jack Burke, Swartz A. C.
145-pound class—Sharkey Lesko, Duke O'Hara Club.
160-pound class—Tod Murphy, Duke O'Hara Club.
175-pound class—Floyd Clemens, North Braddock A. C.
Heavyweight—Pete Landini, West Newton A. C.

MAT TITLES AWARDED

125-pounds—Ernest Thornton, East Liberty Y.
145 pounds—Joe Sapp, McKeesport Y.
160 pounds—Andrew Sapp, McKeesport Y.

Only three knockouts, all of them of a technical nature, occurred during last night's 15 boxing bouts, while four of the 10 wrestling matches ended with falls. Andy Chickomiss, of the Duke O'Hara Club; Paul Monar, of the Homestead Library, and Joe Hugh, Negro welter of the Duquesne A. C., registered kayo triumphs, but only one of them, Monar, survived the final round.

MURPHY VICTOR

One of the best bouts of the evening was the 160-pound final encounter between Tod Murphy, Duke O'Hara ace, and Jack Brown, of the Swartz A. C. For three rounds they slammed away at each other, asking no quarter and giving none, Murphy getting the nod of the judges at the finish of the bout. Near the end of the third round, Brown got over a hard right that staggered Murphy, but the latter managed to hold on until the final bell.

Pete Landini, robust West Newton heavyweight, turned in a surprise triumph over Eddie Sago, of the Duke O'Hara Club, in the only heavyweight bout. Sago represented the local district in the National tournament conducted this week at Boston, but was cleanly outpointed last night.

Joe and Andy Sapp, both of McKeesport Y, won wrestling championships in their class. Another brother, John, was thrown by Andy in the final of the 160-pound division.

I. K. S. Floor Teams Have Fine Record

Irene Kaufmann Settlement, which bears the title of maker of champions, again has showed that for 1930 it still deserves the name. With the close of basketball, the Settlement teams practically made a clean sweep.

The midget team captured the A. A. U. midget championship. The boys' team captured the A. A. U. boys' championship. The junior team is still in the running for the metropolitan championship. A playoff is to take place on the Fifth avenue floor against Mt. Washington Triangles. The reserve team captured the light first class A. A. U. championship.

The Settlement varsity captured the Central Pittsburgh League gonfalon. The team won 28 and lost only three games.

ENS FAVORS ENGLE OVER CLARKE

By Staff Correspondent.

NEW ORLEANS, La., April 11.—Manager Ens has decided to bench Stewie Clarke in the first clash with the New Orleans club today. The re-appearance of Dick Bartell at the shortfield pushes Charley Engle away from that post, but Ens thinks Engle is more valuable to the club than Clarke, the way the roads are. On top of a fine start, Clarke has slumped in the past week, his general play causing the big chief to switch to Engle. The Memphis shortstop will be stationed at the hot corner

Chilly Sauce

In making the change, Ens gave out a statement on his catchers which is quite significant. He said that Rolly Hemsley would start to catch daily this afternoon, and that statement is held as the equivalent of nominating Rolly as the opening day receiver. Hemsley will bat in seventh place ahead of Engle. But provided Pie Traynor starts on Tuesday, the young catcher will be back in the eighth notch.

The Pirates are glad they are through with the Mobile ball tossers. Of course, the field is as fair for one team as for another, yet there is such a thing as getting accustomed to the minor league conditions. But big leaguers have no desire to so adapt themselves. Errors abounded in the two games played with Jimmy Hamilton's Bears.

The boy who scored the winning run against the Pirates yesterday is a Mt. St. Mary star who spent a short time with the Bucos. Johnny Chapman was deep in both successes achieved over the big leaguers by Mobile. Chapman is the Bears' second-baseman. He came through with five hits in the two battles.

And who should be stationed at first base for the Mobile team but Rob Russell, once a home run hero who heard the jeauits of Forbes Field fans? Rob doesn't seem to be much at home around first base, but he's a southpaw and that's a pretty good edge at that spot.

DeMarco Quits Boxing to Sell Autos

Cuddy DeMarco, local lightweight boxer, has decided definitely to retire from the ring.

He made this announcement today, stating that he has accepted an offer to sell automobiles for a local concern.

During his career, Cuddy fought the best men in the featherweight, lightweight and welterweight classes, including champions and champions-in-the-making, and for a time was one of the cleverest men of his weight in the sport.

Orsatti Lost to Cards For Several Weeks

ST. LOUIS, April 11.—(AP.)—Ernest Orsatti, St. Louis Cardinal right-fielder, suffered a fracture of the fibula when he was injured sliding into third base in a game with Rochester, at Bradenton, Fla., Dr. Robert F. Hyland revealed today upon return home of the Cardinals from spring training. Dr. Hyland said the ankle would be put in a plaster cast and that Orsatti would not be available for duty for several weeks.

UMPIRES TO MEET

PARKS, BROWN NOMINATED

By VERN SWARTSFAGER.

Sam Parks, Sr., of the Highland Country Club, and father of that illustrious young Pitt student from whom much is expected in the forthcoming National intercollegiates here in June, and Charles K. Brown, of the South Hills Country Club, will be the new members serving on the Western Pennsylvania Golf Association executive committee when the new regime takes office in the near future, according to the ticket of the nominating committee.

Parks will succeed the late Roy Adams, of Highland, while Brown will be elected to serve a three-year term. Each is a popular golfer throughout the district, and will be welcomed as a progressive member of the executive committee. Hard workers, Parks and Brown will be invaluable to the governing body; they have both given the W. P. G. A. great assistance in operating tournaments in the past.

L. W. Young, of Allegheny, whose term expired last year, has been selected to fill the unexpired term of Harmar D. Denny, Jr., of Fox Chapel, who becomes vice president.

As announced officially by George A. Ormiston, of Oakmont, secretary of the W. P. G. A., and exclusively in the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph a week ago, the annual meeting of the district governing body will be held in the K. A. C., Monday, April 28.

Cards to Make High Bid for Grimes

ST. LOUIS, April 11.—(AP.)—President Sam Breadon wants Burleigh Grimes as a member of the St. Louis Cardinals pitching staff and said so in no uncertain terms.

"I don't know whether I can get Grimes, but I'm going after him. I believe we can give the Braves more playing talent for Grimes than any other National League team. I won't say what we will offer, but we certainly will bid high for the veteran pitcher."

Hornsby to Report Again Tomorrow

KANSAS CITY, Mo., April 11.—(AP.)—Rogers Hornsby has advised the Cubs he will report again for duty tomorrow. The soreness in his heel and right ankle have disappeared and the Rajah, who has been loafing about his farm near St. Louis, is eager to get back into harness.

SOLDIERS BUY POLO PONIES

A heavily-built horse is okeh for dragging a piece of artillery across a field fetlock-deep in mud, but the horse best suited to chasing a ball across dry turf is of an entirely different model.

This is the conclusion reached by members of the Polo Club of the One Hundred and Seventh Field Artillery after the soldiers had taken a 5-2 setback at the hands of the Shady Side Academy riders at the Hunt Armory last Saturday night.

Because polo never has played a part in the deciding of wars, the government supplies the local artillerymen - poloists only with horses long on durability but short on speed. In their match with Shady Side the soldiers became dizzy watching their Academy rivals ride around them in circles, and they decided that they either would have to obtain speedier mounts or give up polo.

Today certain of the soldiers' pocketbooks are somewhat slender, but the One Hundred and Seventh Field Artillery has ponies built for speed—and polo still lives. Four fast mounts were purchased from a stock farm in Rainsboro, O., on Tuesday, at a cost approximately $300 each, and about eight more are to be obtained within the next fortnight.

The new polo ponies are the soldiers' personal property. They will be put to the test tomorrow evening when the artillerymen "choose sides" and play at the Hunt Armory. Sunday afternoon the battling will be transferred to Mellon Field, Fifth avenue and Beechwood boulevard, Point Breeze.

Capt. Steimer, head of the Polo Club, and Capt. Higby, manager, are leaders in the "ride 'em" movement.

TRAYNOR LIKELY TO START

showing against the Mobile Bears yesterday. The big-leaguers went into the ninth inning with a two-run lead, but everything went haywire in the final game and the Buccos lost, 6 to 5.

Heinie Meine worked the entire game for the Freebooters, he being the first pitcher to work nine frames. Meine didn't have much more success against the minor leaguers than his brother first-stringers have been enjoying recently. And to add to his woes, the Pirate defenses had another big breakdown.

Lloyd Waner lost the game after entering it in the eighth as a pinch-hitter. The fans wanted to see the little star and he batted for Clarke. Lloyd went to centerfield and proceeded to boot a single for an error that gave the Bears the winning run in the last round.

Mike Getto Gets Offer in Movies

JEANNETTE, Pa., April 11.—Michael Getto, son of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Getto, Sr., of Penn avenue, a member of the coaching staff of the University of Kansas, graduate of the Jeannette High School and star player on the football team during his high school years, has received an offer from the Warner Brothers' Picture Corporation. Mike was given an all-America berth while playing with the Pittsburgh Panthers in 1928, and participated in the East-West game on the Pacific Coast at the end of the 1928 season.

DERR TO MANAGE NORTH BESSEMER CLUB

WEST PENN PILOT REAL LEADER

By TOM BIRKS

President Coons of the North Bessemer baseball club announced late yesterday that Gordon Derr, popular Turtle Creek infielder and veteran of many hard seasons in the locals, would pilot the team in the West Penn League this season.

Since the bevvie of pilots in the West Penn League would be the fastest sandlot circuit in the district with the passing of the County League the old Railroad [illegible] did in deciding on naming a successor to Pete Eckert.

GOOD MANAGER

Many prominent baseball men were considered for the job and the selection of Derr should meet the approval of the followers of the North Bessemer club. Gordon Derr has played on some great ball clubs during the past seven years, and started in the old Triple Link League under Jack Hardy.

Derr was with Universal three years ago, and two years ago played the infield with North Bessemer. He can play second base or shortstop, is a good leader, knows the game and should give North Bessemer a winning combination.

Manager Derr and President Coons have lost little time in lining up a team that is going to give Verona Universal, Homestead Dormont, Homestead Aces, White Oaker and Wilmerding a tough battle.

Bob Alcorn and Hobby Linhart will be the base of the pitching staff. Linhart probably will play with Universal in one league and with North Bessemer in the West Penn. Linhart has been classed as one of the leading pitchers on the sandlots since his wonderful performance against the Cuban Giants of the American Negro League last will be remembered. Plenty of catchers are in the fold. Bob Bolam, Linhart, formerly of Verona Community, and Solder a hard-working North Bessemer boy are set to don the mask. Lincoln is great according to many players but had little chance to do his stuff with Hellfrick as Veronas first string man.

FINE MATERIAL

Bryson who can play the initial sack or shortstop will be with the club. Johnson will cover third base, and Jimmy Nesbit at the keystone sack are practicing for the opener.

Bill Frack, a North Bessemer boy now at Westminster College, but who will be home soon, will be out fighting for the first base job on his return.

In the outfield Shorty Caldwell, Tom Boyd and Winters, another Turtle Creek boy, will be leading contendeas for outfield berths. And the usual long list of local boys and newcomers are in line for a crack at the regular jobs.

Derr has had plenty of experience, knows practically what all the sandlotters can do, and should have a real club for the Railroad [illegible] North Bessemer will give all the crack pennant contenders a real battle.

WAYLAND DEAN DIES

HUNTINGTON, W. Va., April 11.—(AP.)—Wayland Dean, 50, former baseball player, died at the home of his parents here yesterday. He had been ill about a year of tuberculosis. He formerly played the [illegible] of the American Association, Baltimore of the Florida League, the Philadelphia Nationals, New York Giants and Chicago Cubs. He was sold to the Phillies by Louisville in 1894 for $10,000.

Please address all communications on the Grimes trade to the Overflow Department. This bureau already is overcrowded. . . . The sentiment of the fans undoubtedly is all in favor of Grimes at this time.

For that matter, when did the fans ever think any club was right in a controversy with a star player? . . . But there are two sides to every story, and the Pirates have their angle.

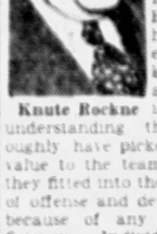
And don't forget that it took a lot of nerve to buck public opinion in sending the best pitcher in the league to a tail-ender for what on the surface consisted of merely the sin of holding out for what he thinks he is worth. . . . As printed above, however, please address further communications on the subject to the Overflow Department. . . . The deal has been made and only the future can tell whether it was a good one or a bad one for the Pittsburgh club and, incidentally, the local fans. . . . Nothing can be accomplished in the matter by publishing scathing denunciations, which were to be expected from the fans, who pay the freight. . . . The Cleveland Public Hall Annex was so quiet after the American Bowling Congress tournament ended there the other day, 'tis said, that you couldn't hear a pin drop. . . . That's quite reversing the usual order. . . .

In town for a visit after fighting five bouts in the East, with New York as his headquarters, Tommy Crawley, local mixer, looks bigger and better than ever before in his career, yet he says he is fighting at 130 pounds now, whereas formerly, when he was thin and peaked, he scaled all of 135. . . . He attributes his present well-being to careful handling by his new manager, Lou Brown, of New York. . . . Tommy says he wishes he had gone to New York four or five years ago. . . . Since he went there he has won and lost with Leonard Zazzerino in Jersey City, and dropped a close decision to Joey Costa there, while he has boxed close battles with Armando Shackels and Maurice Holtzer at Holyoke, Mass., and is in line for an open-air return bout with Zazzerino in Jersey City for a big purse. . . . Tommy has gone on to Steubenville to visit with his mother during the Easter holidays, and then will return to New York. . . . Back in 1915, Ty Cobb led the American League with 96 stolen bases. . . . Last year, Charley Gehringer, of the Tigers, topped the same circuit with 27. . . . At the rate of 27 a season, Gehringer would have to keep leading the league for 33 years to equal Cobb's lifetime record of 892 stolen bases in the American League. . . . That gives you some idea of how the lively ball and cheap home runs have kicked off one of the finest features of the national pastime—skillful base-running. . . . Other figures show us that in 1912, when base-stealing was a real and appreciated art, there were 1,810 stolen bases in the American League. . . . Last year, there were only 648, or a little more than one-third as many as in the big year cited. —HARRY KECK.

ROCKNE NAMES HYATT TEAM CAPTAIN

By KNUTE ROCKNE,
Member All American Board of Basketball

A survey of basketball last season would show that the game is becoming more national than ever before and that any sectional supremacy that may have existed is fast disappearing. They are playing good basketball everywhere.



Knute Rockne

In selecting the All-America Honor Roll for Basketball I have been guided entirely by basketball coaches and their opinions. These men, understanding the game thoroughly, have picked men for their value to the team, from the way they fitted into the general scheme of offense and defense more than because of any individual proficiency. Individual proficiency when properly harnessed may be a great asset, but if allowed to run rampant it may boomerang against a team's best interests.

The following players were picked from the thousands of men playing college basketball as the outstanding men in their sections and as men who were to a large degree responsible for their teams' showing.

Reick Bowling Loop Banquet Success

Wynn B. Morris was toastmaster, and George Farthing, W. Hall, J. Hipson, E. Burnup, Paul Kurtz and Tom Birks, of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph, spoke.

Dancing, cards, bowling and a swimming party found plenty of entertainment for the guests. Two matches were played. The Reick plant defeated the Thirtieth Street Plant for the championship, the scores being 2384 to 1896. The Reick girls' team defeated the Liberty Avenue Plant, 506 to 439.

Mandell Ordered To Fight King Tut Or Lose Title

CHICAGO, April 11.—(AP.)—The Illinois State Athletic Commission yesterday ordered Sammy Mandell to defend his lightweight title against King Tut, Minneapolis challenger, within a "reasonable time" or run the risk of losing recognition by the National Boxing Association as champion of his class.

The commission's demand was made to the champion after it received Tut's challenge and a forfeit of $2,500 today. A registered letter was sent to Mandell and if he does not bind the match within 30 days, the Illinois ring body will request that the N. B. A. oust him as its recognized champion.

Ruth Hits Ball From Mountain Top

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., April 11.—(AP.)—At last Babe Ruth really has knocked a baseball clear out of sight, but he didn't get a home run when he did it. The Babe drove one off the top of Lookout Mountain here yesterday and no one saw how far it went. In the game against the Chattanooga Southern Association team, the best the Babe could do on his lame leg was get one triple, which Karlon ran out for him.

with the game since his retirement, and thinks he has a good line on what all of the present-day heavies are capable of doing.

"If Dempsey comes back to the ring, I believe he will have a good chance to regain the title," the former champion is quoted. "I don't say he will, mind you, but he will have a great chance. About the only fellow who might lick him right now is Jack Sharkey.

Jack Johnson

"WHAT this boy Max Schmeling can do I don't know exactly. In action he appears to have everything in a mechanical way, but I've heard that his chin is none too strong. Where Dempsey has it on all these other fellows is the fact that he can hit a body blow that is a knockout punch. It's a fair blow, too. There's no question what Dempsey can do with either of those fists of his. He hits an opponent under the heart and knocks the heart right out of him. And not only the heart, but the liver and the lights, especially the lights. They go right out and leave you in the dark when that boy hits you."

STANFORD, U. S. C. MEET

LOS ANGELES, April 11.—(AP.)—The Stanford University track and field team, somewhat of a mystery at present, will arrive here today to work out on the Occidental College track where tomorrow they meet the University of Southern California outdoormen in a dual meet. The winner will enter as favorite in the 1930 I. C. A. A. competition at Boston.

Dukes' Handball Tourney Continues

With the quarter finals scheduled for today and the semi-final and final rounds Monday and Tuesday, the first annual intramural singles handball tournament at Duquesne University is drawing to a close.

Franklyn Deet, who closely seconds Burns, will meet W. E. Iwanicki to begin the play. Doubles matches are booked for Wednesday. Today's singles matches:

Franklyn Deet vs. W. E. Iwanicki, 1:00 p. m.
Jack Burns vs. John Pulnar, 1:15 p. m.

Now as far as I know, Anton Nihleen never wrote a book, preached a sermon, or made a mouse-trap, but a good many New York Millionaires have beaten a path to the door of his little shop at 30 West 47th Street, because they think he is the greatest shoe maker in the world.

We went to Nihleen because it is our policy to Reproduce the best Styles made by the best bootmakers in the World.

We bought and Reproduced the finest shoes produced by the famous bootmakers of London who hold Royal Warrants of Appointment to His Majesty the King and His Royal Highness the Prince of Wales, but our factory superintendent said that he had never seen a finer pair of shoes than this new Wingtip Brogue by Nihleen.

We paid $50 for the Original, and if you can afford the luxury of owning a $50 pair of hand made shoes, I think they are worth the price. But there are a million of us who can't afford to pay the millionaire's price, who would like to know where they can get an exact Style Reproduction of Nihleen's millionaire's model for $6.60.

Now if you are a millionaire who is wearing one of Nihleen's shoes, or one of the millions who would like to have a Reproduction of this expensive hand made model, you can see Nihleen's ($50) Original and the ($6.60) Regal Reproduction side by side in every Regal Store today.

The distinctive features of Nihleen's new model are a narrow receding custom toe, with broad comfortable tread, swagger swing extension sole, and a new high heel.

One or two high-priced American manufacturers have recently been experimenting with these features, but we didn't want to copy an experiment. We wanted to Reproduce a Real Style Authority. That's why we followed the path of the New York Millionaires.

We took Nihleen's original Last that he whittled out by hand and our last makers used it as a model and turned out thousands with electric lathes.

The Upper Leather in the Original is Gallun's Bark Tanned Calfskin and in the Regal Reproduction we are using this same identical tannage.

The Pattern of the Original was cut and perforated by hand. We made a die for this Design and with one click of a machine reproduced the pattern exactly.

Last, Leather, Pattern, Design and every Style Detail is exactly the same from the size of the perforations on the Wingtip to the steel slug wedge in the new high heel.

But there is a difference. Nihleen has one shop and his shoes are sewn by hand. Our shoes are made in our own factory and sold in 88 Regal Stores from New York to San Francisco.

Our Volume makes this Value possible. We make about 1,000 pairs to Nihleen's 1 pair—and every pair looks like Nihleen's Original.

J. A. FOWNES BEATEN IN NORTH-SOUTH PLAY

SEMI-FINALS CARDED TODAY AT PINEHURST

PINEHURST, N. C., April 11.—(AP.)—Favorites came through handily yesterday to win their matches in the second round of the North and South amateur golf tournament. Some of them, however, were forced to shoot a brand of super golf to reach the semi-finals.

George Voigt, for instance, negotiated the tricky No. 3 course in a 67 to take a decision from Phillips Finlay, of Redlands Cal., 4 and 3. The defending champion shot par or better on every hole.

C. Ross Somerville, of London, Ont., hammered out a par 71 to defeat J. B. Ryerson, Cooperstown, N. Y., 2 and 1.

Eugene Homans, Englewood, N. J., was shooting par golf, but was forced to stage a brilliant comeback to defeat J. A. Fownes, of Oakmont, by 1 up.

The fourth match saw James T. Hunter, North Adams, Mass., defeating W. E. Donahue, Newark, N. J., 4 and 2.

Voigt started his brilliant work on the first hole with an easy par four. He went into the lead on the second hole and from that time was in front. He landed a birdie 4 on the hard sixth, repeated with a birdie 2 on the short seventh and again made a birdie on the eighth.

Finlay was two down at the turn and was unable to stem the tide as Voigt continued his dizzy pace. Another birdie on the eleventh helped Voigt's card and the match was over on the fourteenth, which they halved.

Finlay's card shows he, too, was shooting spectacular golf, making a 73 on the 18 holes.

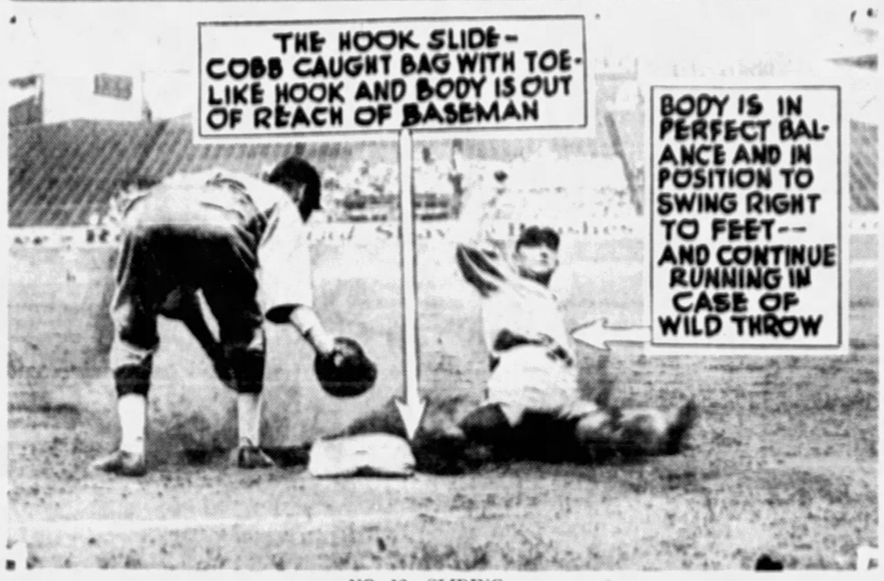
Baseball Lessons

:— By —: Babe Ruth



NO. 12—SLIDING

When it comes to sliding, the best man I ever saw in baseball was Ty Cobb. And the best sliding lesson I know would be to watch Ty going into a base or, if you can't see him personally, study a picture of his slide.

Mac dug up the picture that's used here—and it shows just how clever Ty was in hooking the bag and avoiding the baseman at the same time. The picture is a perfect example of the hook slide as it is used by an expert.

Two things in particular are great about Cobb's slide. If you'll look at the picture carefully, you'll see that he has caught the bag with his toe, and, using the toe as a sort of hook, has slid his body clear out of reach of the baseman. All the baseman has a chance to tag is one toe, and not very much of that. That's what we call the hook slide.

The other thing about the slide is balance. If you look at Cobb you'll see that he is in perfect balance. In case the ball gets past the baseman on a wild throw or anything like that he's in a position to swing right to his feet and continue running.

"Aw! I can do that," he said.

"Yes?" I told him. "Suppose you try it."

He took a long run and came into the bag all right, but when he tried to make the hook he tumbled all over himself. He tried three or four times without success.

But he overlooked one thing. In order to make a hook slide you have to start swinging the body while in the air. You can't hit the dirt and then twist your body out of the way. Everything must be done at the same time. What really happens is that the runner slides at an imaginary bag two feet away from the real one, then hooks his leg out to catch the bag as he goes past.

Sliding isn't easy and it can't be taught. There's only one way to become a good slider. That's to study sliding form until you know what is expected and then to practice and practice and practice some more. Even big leaguers, who have been playing baseball for years, have to take sliding practice now and then to keep in form. And as for young fellows—well, it's just a matter of good hard work and constant practice all the time. The picture here will show you what you're supposed to do. Learning to do it is entirely up to you and practice is the only way to learn.

Hyatt Five Plays In Aliquippa Tonight

Charley Hyatt and his fast stepping floor aggregation still are cavorting the hard wood courts throughout the district and up to date show one of the best records ever made by any traveling basketball team. They have played 16 games, including a double header last Monday night, when they played at both Mars, Pa., and Steubenville, O., and of these they managed to win 14.

Tonight they travel to Aliquippa to meet Nate Lippe's all-star Beaver Valley group in the Harding High School.

Hyatt probably will end his tour Wednesday when he is scheduled to appear in his home sector, Uniontown.

FLOOR LEADERS URGE CENTER JUMP BAN

NEW YORK, April 11.—(AP.)—Sentiment in favor of eliminating the center jump has mustered surprising strength at the annual meeting of the joint basketball rules committee now in session here, it was learned today.

Agitation for this radical change, which would remove one of the traditional features of the game, apparently is strong in the Middle West. A definite proposal that the center jump method of putting the ball in play be abolished and replaced by a pass from out of bounds has been made to the rules-making group by the chartered board of officials of the Chicago district.

DECISIONS TOMORROW

This and other recommendations were laid before the committee for consideration and discussion today. They will be acted upon tomorrow and the rules code for 1930-31 announced.

Various coaches throughout the country have been experimenting with elimination of the center jump in accordance with a suggestion made by the rules committee last year. Its proponents declare that the game is faster when the ball is passed in from out of bounds instead of tossed up in the center. It also is held that the present system places an undue premium upon height and unduly handicaps a team that does not happen to have an attentuated center.

CHANGE OPPOSED

Other leading coaches and officials are equally vigorous in opposing the change on the ground that it would take one of the most spectacular and distinctive elements out of the game. A heated battle over this important point is anticipated.

Another change favored by many of the referees was a suggestion that, if the center jump be retained, a circle 16 feet in diameter be drawn on the floor around the center circle with the provision that none of the players except the centers be allowed inside the 16-foot ring until the ball is tapped.

PENNA. GROUP MEETS

HARRISBURG, Pa., April 11.—Members of the Pennsylvania State Board of Approved Basketball Officials, at a meeting here, went on record as being opposed to the elimination of the center jump in the floor sport, but favoring a 16-foot circle around the eight-food radius in the center. No player other than the centers would be permitted to enter the big circle until after the tap-off, according to the plan.

The officials further recommended that in an extra-period game a player be permitted one extra personal foul before he is banished.

Shorty Cantlon Sets New Auto Speed Record

LANCASTER, Cal., April 11.—(AP.)—A new world record for four-cylinder racing automobiles was set here yesterday by William (Shorty) Cantlon, who drove his 150-horsepower Scofield Special at a speed of 144.985 miles per hour over a mile course on Murdoc Dry Lake bed in the Mojave desert, near here. The speed test was supervised by A. C. Pillsbury, member of the contest board of the Automobile Association of America.

The former record of 141.1738 miles an hour was set by Bob Berman, at Daytona Beach, Fla., in 1911. Cantlon covered the mile course in 24.83 seconds. The lake bed, cracked and rough from the desert heat, was considered slow. An electrical timing device was used.

Cantlon said he would take his car to Indianapolis for the 500-mile Decoration Day race.

Carnera Probe Is Launched By N. B. A.

CHICAGO, April 11.—(AP.)—The National Boxing Association yesterday launched its threatened investigation into the one-round knockout tour of United States rings by Primo Carnera, Italy's man mountain heavyweight.

Its investigating committee, composed by Secretary Walter Lagunger, of the Wisconsin Athletic Commission and Chairman John V. Clinnin, of the Illinois commission sent out questionnaires to commissions in all the 14 states Carnera has appeared in requesting leaders of each to investigate thoroughly whether there were any indications of collusion between Carnera's manager and those of any of his various opponents.

"We intend to determine whether Carnera's fights have been of the dive variety," Chairman Clinnin said. Reports were received from commissions in Pennsylvania, Missouri and New Jersey, but they were held secret.

GIANTS, SHORT OF PLAYERS, USE COACHES

PORT WAYNE, Ind., April 11.—(AP)—The New York Giants may find a job without any delay for Walter Roettger, the outfielder they got from the Cardinals yesterday. They were so short on players for yesterday's game here that they had to draft a pair of coaches, Irish Meusel and Dave Bancroft, for active service. Meusel played left field after Andy Reese, who has been working in the outer pastures, injured a hand. Bancroft, acting manager for the day, substituted himself for Travis Jackson at shortstop.

He expects to catch or work as a pitcher for the team in Chicago for the summer.

"The Cubs do not need my services any longer," Mike said last night, "but that is not my fault. I always gave them the best baseball I had in my system. This winter, all of a sudden, I was released and heard with no little surprise that I had developed a weak arm. Such news was quite interesting but far from the truth. I am still a good catcher and I can prove it.

when these two S-men, Saylor and Solomen, clash tonight.

Jackie Wilson starts back along the return trail following his defeat by Solomen in the six-round semi-final, in which he meets Young Burkel, of Midland. Don Frazier, Cuban, of Chicago, boxes Frankie Lanz, of Sharpsburg, in the second bout, and Amos Jones, of New York, and Frank Monroe, of Fair Haven, are in the opener.

Between Rounds

The benefit boxing show for the widow of Billy Hatch, the Negro boxer who died [illegible] recently following a bout in McKeesport will be held in the McKeesport ring next Thursday night under the auspices of Jim McGirr, the promoter who [illegible] to have all boxers desirous of donating their services communicate with him.

Approximately $6,000 was realized for the families of Kid Williams, former bantamweight champion, and Bobby Garcia, former featherweight boxer, held in Baltimore a few nights ago. The sale of tickets netted $3,000 and the program brought as much more. Gov. Albert Ritchie, of Maryland, and Tom Sharkey, the old heavyweight fighter, were among the notables at the ringside. All of the boxers on the card received compensation with the exception of Benny Goldstein, who defeated Al Martin in the main bout and donated his purse to the cause. The money has been placed to a trust fund and will be administered by the Maryland Athletic Commission, which sponsored the show.

Pete Perone, of Canton, O., who meets Billy Williams, [illegible] night heavyweight, in a return bout, is the eight-round [illegible] knockout victory by Williams at Mc[illegible] several months ago. Among the [illegible] Perone has boxed are George Fayad, Lloyd Jordan, Marty Schofield, Doc Martin and Walter Pickard. Sergt. Sammy Baker, of New York, and Vincent Hamright, of Cincinnati, who meet in the 10-round windup at the Garden, will arrive in town Sunday morning and work out here in the afternoon.

The new Duquesne Garden A. C., which planned its first show in the downtown arena of the building last Wednesday night, only to have to call it off because of cancellations by a few of the principals in the bouts on the all-star card, will not run next Wednesday either, on account of Holy Week, but will concentrate on a big show the following Wednesday.

Benny Schwartz, Baltimore bantam weight, is in strict training here for two bouts he has pending. He wants to redeem himself with the local fans for his [illegible] defeat by Jackie Rodgers, suffered when he entered the ring partly blinded by an eye injury. He scales 124 pounds, which is within a few pounds of his best fighting weight.

The benefit boxing show and general entertainment for Loudon Campbell, former local boxer, has been sanctioned by the State Athletic Commission, and will be put on at the Moose Temple Saturday night of next week.

Dave McConnell, local lightweight boxer who was suspended a number of months ago along with Jack Ervic and the latter's manager, Luke Carney, following a bout in West Virginia, has applied for reinstatement and likely will have his request granted at the next meeting of the State Athletic Commission. The ban on Ervic and Carney was issued a long time ago.

LOUGHRAN VS. SCHAAF

DURIS HALTS GENE REED IN THIRD

CLARKSBURG, W. Va., April 11.—Willie Davies, of Charlerot, contender for the world flyweight championship, easily outpointed Johnny Edwards, of Huntington, W. Va., in their 10-round bout which featured the show at the Carmichael Auditorium, under the auspices of the Clarksburg Athletic Club, here last night. Both fighters tipped the scales at 114 pounds.

In the six-round semi-final fracas, Louie Vine, of Clarksburg, fought a draw with Mickey Walker, of Huntington, W. Va., Vine weighed 132 pounds, and Walker scaled the same.

DURIS STOPS REED

JOHNSTOWN, Pa., April 11.—(AP)—Mickey Duris, Johnstown, won on a technical knockout here last night in the third round of a scheduled 10-round bout with Gene Reed, of Charlerot.

A collection amounting to $125 was taken up among the spectators for Mrs. Billy Hatch, of Pittsburgh, widow of the Negro boxer who was fatally hurt in a bout at McKeesport a couple of weeks ago. Mrs. Hatch lives at Pittsburgh.

GIANTS, CARDS IN TRADE

NEW YORK, April 11.—(AP)—Bartering in the baseball marts of the National League has gained momentum as the opening of the season approaches. Yesterday the New York Giants gave an infielder and outfielder, Eddie Farrell and George Fisher, to the St. Louis Cardinals for an outfielder, Wally Roettger.

This East-West deal followed upon the sensational announcement that Burleigh Grimes, one of the league's star pitchers, had been transformed from a Pirate to a Brave of Boston.

The exchange of talent between St. Louis and New York will be regarded as one of the ideal trades that "will help both clubs." Manager McGraw is understood to have been on a search for weeks for an outfielder who hits right-handed while the Cardinals have been woefully short of reserve infield material. Roettger hits right-handed and Farrell is a capable infielder for utility purposes. Fisher may be headed for the minors—possibly Rochester—for the Cardinals do not need outfielders.

ATHLETICS TAKE SERIES LEAD

PHILADELPHIA, April 11.—(AP)—While Lee Roy Mahaffey kept the Phillies scoreless, the Athletics feasted off two of the National Leaguers' pitchers yesterday and took the lead in the home series with an easy 10-to-0 victory.

Mahaffey pitched all nine innings and blanked the heavy-hitting Phils with eight scattered hits. In contrast, Johnny Milligan gave the A's runs with passes and hit batsmen and Collins was walloped solidly, the pair yielding the A's all their runs in the first three innings. Pitcher Harry Smythe entered the game in the fifth and held the A's to two hits. The score by innings:

	R	H	E
Athletics	10	10	0

Batteries—Milligan, Colgan, Smythe and McCurdy; Mahaffey and Cochrane.

TIME PAYMENT BUILDING PLAN SUCCESS

By MERRYLE STANLEY RUKEYSER.

NEW YORK, April 11.—The barrier to a large scale resumption of building of individual homes, on which a return of full prosperity and employment hinges to a marked extent, may be surmounted through the application of the installment plan to the needs of the home owner of moderate means.

The Johns Manville Corporation has already tested the idea on the Pacific Coast in the restricted field of re-roofing old homes. The management is satisfied with the soundness of the experiment, and will soon begin to extend the operations to all parts of the country. The local dealer indorses the installment paper of the home owner, and the paper is sold to an independent finance company. The Johns Manville Corporation has merely supplied the leadership in developing the plan, and in encouraging dealers to apply it.

Leading executives of the principal corporations which supply raw materials to the building trade are vitally interested in the suggestion made in this column and elsewhere to the effect that new technique is needed to furnish junior capital for the financing of homes. However, some are reluctant to set up a new corporation for this purpose, but prefer to work out the new technique through established financing agencies. Some of the outstanding men in the industry are now tentatively developing a specific plan for financing home building on the installment plan as an alternative to the use of the much-abused second mortgage.

LOCAL FINANCING

These leaders prefer to work through local financial institutions. They expect the local banking institutions to furnish the first mortgage money, and believe that, if a sound financing plan for junior money is worked out, that the banks can be induced to make liberal first mortgage loans, running at least up to 60 per cent of the total cost of land and buildings. They feel that the home owner himself should supply 20 per cent of the funds needed. The novelty comes in the matter of arranging for the remaining 20 per cent, which ordinarily would be taken care of by a second mortgage. The experience has shown that the net cost of second mortgages have run up to 20 per cent a year, and the whole system has been abused.

On account of unsound financing methods, there have been wholesale defaults on second mortgages, and at present, although the supply of prime mortgage money has been increasing, there is still a reluctance on the part of lenders to take second mortgages. The formulators of the new plan want to pick credit risks in a manner that will make loans at a lower rate of interest safe. They believe that finance companies will accept notes, indorsed by the local contractor—installment paper—running over a period of two years, which will be retired seriatim monthly. They believe that the cost of such financing could be held down to 10 per cent.

LIKE AUTO FINANCING

Under the older system, many houses were built speculatively, and financed extravagantly. Putting up no substantial amount of cash, but paying for the home only in the form of rent, many stayed in new houses only until the second mortgage fell due and then moved out, causing widespread defaults. The new plan for a substantial down payment and monthly retirements of the notes would put the business of the sale of homes on the same basis that automobiles are now sold. And as a matter of fact, home ownership lends itself even more to such financing, because of its permanence and the slow depreciation of property.

Although expecting no revival of a boom in building, leaders anticipate a quick recovery, which is already partly under way from the recent slump to subnormal levels. The great impetus of a national movement to the suburbs after the war may have spent itself, and future growth will be more nearly in accordance with normal annual demands. The supply people anticipate in the period that lies ahead an increasing tendency to remodel existing residences. The efficiency of labor and the decline in commodity costs make the present time an appropriate one for initiating such projects.

PLAN ESTABLISHED

The financial report of the Ford Motor Company for 1929 confirms common observation on the highways to the effect that Ford has come back as a leading producer of automobiles. Continuing to buck financial fashions by keeping his company a closed corporation, Henry Ford does not feel obliged to tell the public his financial secrets. However, under the Massachusetts law, he must file an annual report with the commissioner of corporations and taxation. The maker of the Model A and the Lincoln revealed a net profit for last year of $83,012,348 for 1929, compared with deficits of $72,221,498 in 1928, and of $42,786,727 in 1927. These comparative figures are, of course, the result of major bookkeeping operations in charging off the cost of new jigs and dies which will be used over a period of years. This statement indicates a profit on each car sold of between $40 and $50.

STOCKS CLOSE STEADY AFTER SETBACK

Late Buying Lifts Prices When Shorts Cover; Good Gains Made Early in Day

NEW YORK, April 11.—(AP.)—The stock market turned reactionary after an opening period of strength today with the selling influenced by a denial of merger rumors involving Public Service of New Jersey and United Gas Improvement, and the closing of the Tokio Stock Exchange as a result of a collapse of securities prices in that market. Trading was again in heavy volume, total sales in the first two hours running above 2,600,000 shares, with the ticker running about 20 minutes behind the market at 1 p. m.

The market opened with an outburst of strength, with pools again taking several blocks of 5,000 to 15,000 shares. About two score issues, including nearly a dozen public utilities, were marked up to new high levels for the year on gains which ran from fractions to more than 6 points.

COPPERS HEAVY

Coppers were heavy from the start, but the selling spread to the public utilities and motors and by early afternoon the reactionary movement had covered the general market, a sprinkling of issues, as usual, showing independent strength.

While little information was available here concerning the extent and importance of the economic crisis in Tokio, most brokers were of the opinion that its effect on the local market would be largely sentimental. Bear traders, who have been seeking to unsettle the general list for days, were quick to take advtange of this development.

DECLINE 2 TO 4

J. I. Case, which had moved up 2 points to 303 in the early trading, fell back to 293. Auburn Auto sold down nearly 6 points below last night's close and Stone & Webster, U. S. Steel common, American Telephone, Vanadium, Lambert, Brooklyn Union Gas, Radio-Keith-Orpheum, United Aircraft, Delaware and Hudson, Paramount Famous Lasky, Radio, Montgomery-Ward, Sears Roebuck, Celotex, Coca Cola and Congress Cigar were carried 2 to 4 points below yesterday's final prices before effective buying support was encountered.

In the early rise, Standard Gas and Electric had advanced 6¼ points to a new high at 127½, and International Hydro Electric, Southern California Edison, Public Service of New Jersey, American Water Works, Allied Chemical, International Harvester and Foundation Company had been marked up 3 to 5 points to new 1930 peak prices.

Partial recoveries from the day's low figures were made in the final hour when the shorts began to cover. Utilities turned upward rapidly and some of the specialties, such as Columbia Graphophone and Radio-Keith-Orpheum, were brought in large blocks. The close was steady. Sales approximated 5,800,000 shares.

Warner Acquires German Interest

NEW YORK, April 11.—Arrangements have been concluded between Warner Bros., pictures and the Tobis Klangfilm group, the dominant motion picture interests in Germany, for the acquisition by Warner Bros., of a substantial interest in Tobis Klangfilm patents and licenses for talking pictures throughout the world, with the exception of the United States, Canada and New Foundland.

This acquisition will facilitate expansion of Warner Bros., European business, in Germany particularly, where the situation has been unsatisfactory to American film producers since Western Electric apparatus was excluded as infringing upon Tobis Klangfilm patents.

He-Man Executive Tells How to Meet Situation

—By B. C. FORBES—

WHEN business becomes harder to get the only sensible thing to do is to work harder to get it.

Yet how many salesmen, executives and others instead of concentrating enthusiastically upon working harder, waste endless time merely complaining harder?

That orders are scarcer than they were during the boom of a year ago is plain to everybody. Indeed a vast number of individuals from the bottom to the top of the ladder found the going so easy that they were able to take lots of time off to dabble in the stock market, to watch the stock ticker and to discuss stocks by the hour.

Our own is not the only country in which the going has become less easy.

J. D. MOONEY, famous as the go-getting president of General Motors Export Division, who has returned from a business trip around the world, frankly confesses:

"I am convinced that we must look ahead to a period in our business which calls for harder and more productive work than any we have done before. With the acute phases of the depression behind us, and our business on the up-grade in what seems definitely to be more than a seasonal recovery, I believe nevertheless that we are entering a temporary economic era which will see all business, including our own, proceed at volume levels somewhat lower than those to which we have become accustomed."

WHAT is the best way to meet a period such as we are now experiencing?

The old-time method was to lay off men ruthlessly, to cut wages drastically, to cancel contracts for raw materials and goods right and left, to reduce the sales force, to slash advertising appropriations, and to do everything else calculated to kill prosperity deader than a doornail.

Not all organizations have been able to resist doing some—not to say all, of these things during the last few months.

OUR best-managed enterprises, instead of weakly relaxing their efforts to market their wares, have adopted the opposite course. Like George Eastman, who has built up the greatest photographic supply business in the world, they have increased their advertising. Instead of dismissing salesmen, they have expended redoubled energy in stimulating them to work harder, in co-operating with them, in pepping them up and, in some cases, offering bonuses or other special inducements for better-than-ordinary results.

MR. MOONEY, in place of attempting to paint a false picture of conditions and of pretending that it should be easy to roll up a full volume of sales, has addressed a straight-from-the-shoulder message to everybody at home and abroad connected with the division of General Motors.

"We are certainly ready in the export division," he says, "to accept the challenge which this condition imposes. It means, first of all, that we need good men to carry on the fight as we have never needed them before. It means that we must take the men we have and put them, in every instance, to the most productive uses that we can find for them.

"In capitalizing to the maximum the personnel values we possess, it means that men will move about and assume new responsibilities and undertake more arduous tasks; that staff reserves will be thrown boldly into directly productive line activity, and that many swift changes will be made which must be accepted and understood in the light of the necessities for them that exist.

"THE men who have been selected to fill our positions of trust and responsibility abroad, in all levels of the organization, were selected with a deliberate eye to the courage and the character they were known to possess.

"The simplest sort of arithmetic will prove that the same men can do the same job against stronger resistance only if those men put more into their work than they have put into it before. If we accept the challenge in this spirit, we can look with unconcern upon any lower levels of total volume abroad which may develop, for we shall so increase our ratio to that total as to give us the real measure of success we are seeking."

THIS be-man attitude, this determination to go after business hammer-and-tongs, this clear-cut notice to every man that nothing short of his maximum effort will satisfy may do something to stiffen at least a few American executive backbones that have shown weakness, that have elected to do nothing but cut, cut, cut rather than work, work, work.

Demand for Sheet Steel Improving

CLEVELAND, April 11.—Sheet steel demand is steady, but at a better rate than a month ago, according to Daily Metal Trade. Automotive tonnage remains light for this period, although fair improvement is noted in buying over the past 30 days. Some new hot strip steel business is developing, but total new bookings are not large, and in cold strip some makers report a decline in specifications. New plate business is developing in the East. Shipping orders for bolts, nuts and rivets continue slightly under the rate a year ago. Pig iron buying is limited. Scrap continues weak.

BENDIX GROUP MEETS HERE

Development and expansion of the newly formed Bendix-Westinghouse Automotive Airbrake Company were being planned here today at a Wilmerding meeting of the directors and officials.

Vincent Bendix, who heads the Bendix Aviation Company, of Detroit, holding company of the local concern, arrived here with several directors for the session, which will be followed by a dinner tonight.

While no addition to the present plant is planned, Mr. Bendix stated that the meeting would bring out developments for further use of automotive airbrakes on busses and trucks. This class of equipment is showing a rapidly increasing demand, he said. The local plant is now operating on a close to capacity production schedule.

The Bendix-Westinghouse subsidiary began operations April 1.

Mr. Bendix and the directors will be guests of Harrison Nesbitt at a dinner in the University Club tonight.

To List Shamrock on New York Curb

By GEORGE H. SNYDER.

TRADING in the stock of the Shamrock Oil and Gas Company on the unlisted department of the New York Curb Exchange is expected to start within a short time. The company was organized by local interests last October and was listed on the Pittsburgh Stock Exchange in December.

The company was financed by the issuance of $2,000,000 in 6 per cent sinking fund debentures and 230,000 shares of common stock. Each debenture carried a warrant authorizing the holder to buy 20 shares of stock at $15 a share up to August 31, 1931, and at higher prices on subsequent dates. The outstanding amount of stock has since been increased to about 240,000 shares through the exercising of these warrants.

The company has retired $270,000 of the debentures, reducing its funded indebtedness to $1,730,000.

Operates in Texas

SHAMROCK has 5,000 acres of oil lands in Gray County, Texas, and 43,000 acres of gas lands in the Amarillo field in Texas, which is one of the most extensive gas producing areas developed in this country.

At present 3,000 barrels of oil are being produced daily from 15 wells and four additional wells are being drilled. These are nearing the sand and officials expect their completion within a short time.

Recently a quarter interest was purchased in the Borger refinery of the McMillan Petroleum Company. This organization has contracted to purchase up to 6,000 barrels of oil a day from Shamrock. At present about 5,000 barrels a day are being delivered, part of which is from storage. Officials of the company expect to increase production to the maximum amount covered by the contract by June.

Gas Contract

A CONTRACT has also been made for the sale of gas. The purchaser has secured attractive franchises. An announcement will be made within a short time of plans for the construction of a pipe line which will give Shamrock a market when its production is fuly developed.

On the basis of the performance of other properties in the field, it has been estimated that Shamrock will be able to recover in the neighborhood of 20,000,000 cubic feet of gas per acre. Under the sales contract Shamrock is to get 5 cents a thousand cubic feet.

Six Months to Build Line

ABOUT six months will be required to build the gas line so that it will be close to the end of 1929 before Shamrock will be securing the benefits of its investments in the gas end of the business. Even without these, however, the company is showing fairly satisfactory profits. The earnings statement for the portion of 1929 during which the organization was in existence has not been published. It is expected that profits of about $300,000 before depreciation and depletion will be shown for the three months ended December 31, 1929.

Officials have estimated that they will earn $4 a share on the stock from the first full year of the operation of the gas business after making full charges for depreciation and depletion.

The company also owns a plant for the extraction of casing head gasoline. This has a daily capacity of 20,000 gallons.

The management of the organization has an exceptionally high standing. William C. Fownes, Jr., is chairman of the board and J. B. Orr, is treasurer. Both are Pittsburgh men. Operations are in the hands of John Sheerin, president, and J. M. Baldridge, vice president and secretary. Both have had many years experience in the Mid-Continent field.

New Director

ERNEST T. WEIR

Mr. Weir who today was elected a member of the board of directors of the Fidelity Trust Company. He is also chairman of the board of the National Steel Company and one of the founders of Weirton, W. Va., the headquarters of the Weirton Steel Company.

COAL TONNAGE INCREASING

CHARLEROI, Pa., April 11.—Bituminous coal production in the Southwestern Pennsylvania fields was expected to break records for the present quarter. Resumption of mine activities in local and regional mine districts indicates an increased river and rail tonnage of 350,000 tons monthly.

Warner mine of the McMahon Coal Company, Charleroi, was the latest to announce capacity operation, which will give employment to 100 additional men. J. Marr McMahon, president of the company, said the production was hastened by an early opening of the lake trade.

SWOPE VISIONS TRADE RALLY

BOSTON, April 11.—Gerard Swope, president of the General Electric Company, in an address at the Boston Chamber of Commerce, expressed confidence in the present and future outlook.

"We are firm in the faith, especially in the electrical industry, that the needs of 125,000,000 people, increasing in number and demand, will keep our industry and commerce constantly on a general uptrend. As a single barometer of better times."

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., April 11.—A bill in equity was filed in Hampden County Superior Court seeking an equity receiver for Indian Motorcycle Company by Isadore Unger, a stockholder who claims to own 20 shares of the common stock. The bill of complaint is against president and directors of company.

Court ordered bill returnable April 21, 1930, when company is to show reason why a receiver should not be appointed.

Van Sweringens After 'Mop' Stock

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., April 11.—Application to acquire in excess of 10 per cent of the stock of the Missouri Pacific Railroad was filed with the state public service commission late yesterday by attorneys for the Alleghany Corporation, a holding company controlled by O. P. and M. J. Van Sweringen, who were reported to have recently acquired working control of the railroad through purchase of stock. The case was set for hearing April 21.

Humble Oil Takes Lead In Restoring Higher Crude Prices.

IN line with predictions made recently several of the leading crude oil purchasing companies yesterday posted higher price schedules. Humble Oil and Refining, which took the initiative in cutting crude schedules late in January in a determined effort to check flush production, was likewise the leader in restoring the price. It was followed by several other large purchasing companies. The advance, however, was accompanied by a plain statement which appeared to indicate that any big rush of production would probably result in a fresh downward adjustment, the head of Humble stating plainly that maintenance of the new prices depended entirely on the ability of producers to keep output in hand. Oil stocks naturally responded favorably to the news.

First quarter results of the American International Corporation, one of the more popular of the investment trust group, show up remarkably well, and indicate that the company has been quite active marketwise since the turn of the year. Net profit for the period was equivalent to $1.22 a share on the 1,019,757 shares of stock outstanding. This compares with the equivalent of $1.23 a share earned on 980,000 shares in the corresponding period last year. The satisfactory showing of earnings offers ample explanation for the recent strength in the stock. Evident there has not been any appreciable conversion of debentures into stock inasmuch as the increase in total amount of stock outstanding just about covers the amount paid out in stock dividends at the rate of 4 per cent yearly.

STOCK trading set a hectic pace through the first half hour of business yesterday with more than 1,000,000 shares changing hands in that short interval. Many heavy blocks changed hands in individual issues, with tremendous dealings in a number of low-priced issues contributing substantially to the total. This feverish rush threw the tape 25 minutes late by mid-morning but as it became apparent that the general list was making little, if any, headway under the enormous rush of speculation, interest began to subside. Relative quiet ruled in the afternoon, the tape later breasting the tide and closing the gap with the volume of business dwindling down to around Wednesday's pace.

That Wall street is confident the present pace of speculation will be maintained or perhaps accelerated for some time into the future is evident from the report going the rounds of preparations being made to handle substantially larger daily volume of business than has yet developed on this bull movement. A well-founded report had it that one of the largest odd-lot houses in the street has just completed arrangements with its bankers in preparation for handling its portion of daily trading which is expected to reach an average of 8,000,000 shares in the near future. Apparently this firm sees plain evidence of returning public interest on a large scale.

DIRECTORS of Nash Motors voted to maintain the $6 rate on that stock presumably satisfied that the motor business is looking up. First quarter earnings were equivalent to only 65 cents a share against $1.51 a share in that period last year. The head of the company sees conditions much brighter citing the fact that sales by Nash distributors last week were better than in any week since July, 1929. The company can readily afford to maintain its dividend for a considerable period in view of its strong cash and surplus position. The stock spurted sharply on the announcement, running up some 4 points.

Failure of New York City authorities and the legislators at Albany to agree on a bill providing for the unification of New York City rapid transit lines has not discouraged those who believe that ultimately justice will be done holders of the traction securities. No agreement could be reached on a clause in the bill which amounted to a virtual guarantee of the five-cent fare. The city now proposes to operate the new subways, but the bill which provided for financing this new construction stated that in the event of municipal operation, the lines could only return deficits for three years before it would be necessary to raise the fare to meet operating costs. In view of the huge cost of construction, it is generally conceded that the new subway lines cannot be operated profitably on a five cent fare.

Settles Control Of Air Transport

WILMINGTON, Del., April 11.—The fight for control of the National Air Transport, Inc., was settled early today when it was announced that the present management had been retained. The battle was waged between two groups of the company, the Curtiss-Wright-Keyes group, which now controls the directorate of the corporation, and the United Aircraft Corporation, which sought to elect a new board of directors.

The new $10,000,000 plant of the A. M. Byers Company, near Ambridge, will be ready for operation within 60 days, L. M. Johnston, vice president of the company, told members of the Pittsburgh Builders' Exchange at the weekly luncheon yesterday at the Hotel Henry.

Follansbee Ohio Plants at Capacity

The Toronto (Ohio) plants of the Follansbee Brothers Company, are running at capacity this week. The plant at Follansbee, W. Va., is at 75 per cent capacity for the week. It is expected that the average for plants in both localities for the month of April will be in the neighborhood of 75 per cent.

Demand for forged steel sheets, and tin plate, the company's main products, is gradually improving. Automobile specifications are becoming larger.

DAILY TRUE STORY

The Man Learned

LANEVILLE was the sort of a village that fitted its name. The valley road was much like a lane, and the thirty or so houses, church, general store and postoffice made up most of the community. There was the dairy house and depot at the lower end of the town where the narrow gauge railroad ended.

In such a town everyone knows, practically, what everyone else has for breakfast, what they think of this and that, and all other details of their finance, health, morals and ambitions.

Well, perhaps Ranny Balmer had no ambitions.

Ranny Randlett, it was written in the family Bible, lived with his mother, who's second husband was Jonas King. Ranny didn't admire Jonas. Jonas regarded Ranny as he would a stump in a field—useless and in the way. But Jonas was fond of his wife. Ranny's mother, so he put up with Ranny.

There was a time when it looked as though Ranny would marry Myra Perkins.

Ranny rather thought it would be a good idea. Myra owned a small farm and had money in the bank. Myra liked the looks of Ranny, he was good-looking and jolly. But Ranny had his faults.

In the first place he was shiftless.

In a place like Laneville, where all were toilers, to be shiftless was downright sinful.

Chet Stevens, who owned the general store, had a pool table in his back room. Ranny hung out there a great deal.

Ranny's mother might have been partly at fault. He was her only child, she "favored" him, as they said. She thought farming was altogether too hard work for him.

Myra looked at him.

"If only you would work—do something, amount to something, Ranny," she said, "I could let the hired man go and you could run the farm—"

Promises to Work

"Shucks, you need me to keep the hired man busy while you do the housework and such, Myra—what say?"

"If you'll show a little ambition and go to work and get yourself some good clothes, I'll say 'yes.'"

He did look around, but he couldn't find anything that suited him—every job he located had work connected with it.

Then Ranny's mother died.

Myra hoped that the death of Ranny's mother would change him, make him more self-reliant.

But there was a little money, a few hundred, that his mother left him. So Ranny proceeded to spend that.

Ranny went broke finally.

"Now," said his stepfather, "you got that all out of your system, you come down in the lower field and help me cradle them oats."

"My back ain't strong enough for that," Ranny objected.

"Your stomach is strong enough to hold three square meals every day at my expense, Ranny—and while there's no hard feelings, you got to cut bait or fish—you got to do some work or get out!"

Ranny went to Myra and told her Jonas had turned him out.

"We'll get married now," he said.

Myra wished she could marry Ranny, and again she knew better. Peter Harmon wanted to marry her. Peter clerked in Chet Stevens' general store, worked steadily.

Jonas King locked Ranny out that night. He went down to the depot where Tony Bianco had his shack and put up with him. Next day he brought down his fishing tackle and guns and clothes. He supplied Tony with fish and game and Tony kept him in smokes.

Myra married Peter Harmon.

Learns of War

Ranny came down from Swift river one April morning with the season's first mess of trout. He swapped some with Chet Stevens for a cap and some cigarets and he learned that the United States had got over being too proud to fight and was going into the big war.

"When we get over there," Ranny said, "we'll put an end to all that fighting foolishness in no time at all."

"Where do you get that 'we' stuff, Ranny?" Peter Harmon asked him, playing for a laugh from the loafers in the store.

Myra giggled.

"Sure I said 'we,' I'm goin' over," Ranny said quietly.

He didn't show up next day. Tony said he had gone down to Springfield on a freight.

Ranny was gone six weeks.

"He's gone some place to hide," Peter Harmon said. "He didn't have the nerve to hang 'round here after we called his bluff 'bout going off to war."

But Pete was wrong.

Ranny Balmer stepped off the narrow gauge passenger car one afternoon.

At first Tony and the others didn't recognize him. Ranny was spic and span in the uniform of a private!"

He walked up the street.

"Ranny," someone said.

"Hello, Myra er Mrs Harmon," Ranny answered.

"Oh, Ranny, why, I'm—I'm awful proud of you," Myra said.

"That's all right, Myra—some of us boys have got to teach 'em what's what over there."

He went on to what had been home.

"Came to get me a picture of Ma," he said to Jonas King.

"I'm right proud of ye—your mother would be, too, Ranny. I knew you was good for something. When you get back come here and I'll help you along," Jonas said.

Ranny had four days' leave.

He got into some old clothes and fished for two days. He got quite a send-off when he left for camp. He expected they would sail in a week or so—and be showing those boys what was what, if they managed to dodge the submarines.

Only Representative

The draft came.

In Laneville there was no man drafted. Only two were called, but both were exempt.

And so Ranny Balmer, who had been the town bum, the town's disgrace, was the sole representative, over in France, of Laneville.

Jonas got one letter. It was pretty badly censored with stuff cut out and inked out, but he could make out that Ranny had been in some fights, and also he had been in a hospital and was out fighting again.

It was in the summer of 1918 that word came to Jonas King, whom Ranny had given as "nearest kin," that Sergt. Randlett Balmer had been killed in action.

In a way Laneville became proud—she had furnished a son and he had heroically died on the field of action, had given his utmost for his country—the minister preached a touching sermon about it, and Mrs. Harmon, she that had been Myra Perkins, sobbed convulsively throughout most of the sermon.

When the armistice was signed Chet had a snapshot of Ranny enlarged. He put this in his store window with some flags around it and "Our Hero" beneath it, chalked on some cardboard.

Myra shed a few tears over it, but she didn't have much spare time because there were two youngsters at home and housework to do. Myra was getting quite stout, but she was still romantic, and she seemed to feel that the heroic passing of Ranny was really her own personal secret sorrow. She seemed to forget that she had turned Ranny down flat and married long before he went to war.

It was the second year after the end of the war that the citizens of Laneville decided that other towns shouldn't be ahead of them in the way of war memorials.

In the little square before the combined "town hall" and Grange headquarters an imposing stone was erected and a bronze tablet was affixed. On the tablet all who ran—or loitered—might read:

Laneville
Erects This Memorial to Her Sterling Son,
Sergeant Randlett Balmer,
Who, in the Flower of His Promising Young Manhood,
Laid Down His Life for His Country.

Nine Years Pass

On the next Memorial Day the three remaining old Civil War veterans and the five Spanish War veterans put a wreath on the memorial.

Nine Memorial Days had passed since the war ended.

Then, in midsummer, an extremely smart touring car was driven into Laneville.

The man slowed up when he saw the memorial. He got out and read it. He spoke in German to his pretty blonde wife. She got out and read it.

Myre Perkins Harmon, wheeling a perambulator with an infant in it and accompanied by four other youngsters, came along and stared at the memorial for a moment. Myra was very fat and it was hot and her face was red and she didn't want to have the city people see her weep—she could always stand there and squeeze out a tear or so—so she moved on a few steps.

The man stared at her.

He spoke in German to his wife.

"Yetta, if I hadn't escaped from that German prison, and if you hadn't hidden me and cared for me and then married me, when the fuss was over, this is the dump where I would have had to come and vegitate the rest of my days."

"But—but now—Ranny—what shall you do?"

"If I announced myself and robbed them of their hero they would hate me—"

Ranny Balmer laughed. He laughed long and hearty. Then he got in his car and drove away to the city where he was to take a ship for Germany and for his beautiful home on the Rhine.

"Mama," said little Pete Harmon to Myra, "Mama, did you hear that? The man laughed!"

"I heard," she said and stamped her heavy foot, "and it was downright sacrilege!"

HOT STUFF, 1779

Note.—While picking around an abandoned city dump for material, one of our representatives came across the following illustrated ditty. It was dated 1779.

GOING THROUGH THE TUNNEL

Riding up from Bangor,
On the "Eastern" train,
From a six week's shooting,
In the woods of Maine;
Quite extensive whiskers,
Beard, mustache as well,
Sat a "student fellow,"
Tall and fine and swell.

Empty seat behind him,
No one at his side;
To a pleasant station,
Now the train doth glide,
Enter aged couple,
Take the hinder seat;
Enter gentle daughter,
Beautiful, PETITE.

Blushingly she falters,
"Is this seat engaged?"
(See the aged couple Properly enraged),
Student quite ecstatic,
Sees her ticket "through,"
Thinks of the long tunnel—
Thinks what he might do.

So they sit and chatter,
While the cinders fly,
Till that "student fellow"
Gets one in his eye;
And the gentle maiden
Quickly turns about—
"May I if you please sir,
Try to get it out?"

Happy "student fellow,"
Feels a dainty touch!
Hears a gentle whisper—
"Does it hurt you much?"
Fizz, ding' dong! a moment,
In the tunnel quite,
And a glorious darkness
Black as Egypt's night.

Out into the daylight
Darts the "Eastern" train;
Student's bever ruffled
Just the merest grain;
Maiden's hair is tumbled,
And there and then appear
Cunning little ear-ring
Caught in student's beard.

Passover Marks Freedom From Bondage—Prejudice

Thousands of our neighbors and fellow citizens, members of an ancient race and religious fellowship, are on the eve of their most important holidays, Passover, called "Pesach" in Hebrew. The festival begins tomorrow evening and continues for seven days, during which unleavened bread is eaten in most households of Israel.

This festival probably is more ancient than any that is celebrated today. Now its significance lies in the fact that it marks the deliverance of Israelites from Egyptian bondage under the leadership of Moses. But the holiday had its origin in the spring festivals of barley harvest in Palestine long before the birth of Moses.

In spirit we can all join with the Jew who sees in Passover the symbol of liberation from oppression by subjection in the past and the oppression of prejudice that grows less and less as the world becomes enlightened. Such a deliverance is one that all can appreciate.

Traffic Engineer Job Calls for Technical Man

There are said to be a number of applicants for the position of city traffic engineer, now held by Burton W. Marsh, who has tendered his resignation, effective May 1. At that time Mr. Marsh becomes traffic engineer in Philadelphia with a greatly increased salary.

The position is an important one, which, possibly, may be hard to fill because of its technical nature and requirements of the ordinance providing for its incumbency. These are said to include three years' experience in traffic engineering by one who is a graduate of an approved school with a degree in civil engineering.

Country Must Reinforce Guard Against Dope Evil

The American House of Representatives takes a long step Forward and unanimously passes the Porter bill providing for more efficient narcotic enforcement in the United States.

The Indian Assembly takes a long step Backward and unanimously approves the cultivation of the cocoa plan and the manufacture of cocaine in British-controlled India.

The Porter bill provides for the separation of narcotic and prohibition enforcement, the appointment of a commissioner of narcotics by the President and the development of an accurate method for determining the amount of narcotics this country really needs for science and medicine.

The action just taken under British rule in India betrays humanity anew by increasing the unregulated manufacture of cocaine and making the suppression of the dope traffic more difficult than ever. Two months ago British delegates participated in an advisory conference at Geneva and voted in favor of careful regulation of the dope TRAFFIC, but NOW the insincerity of British words is made plain by this official stimulation of cocaine PRODUCTION in a British possession.

The people of India use 1,780,000 pounds of opium a year, because the government fosters its production for revenue—by lending money to opium producers without interest—and sells it to them in 7,000 government regulated shops.

India produces FIVE TIMES as much opium as the world needs for legitimate purposes and half of that death crop leaves India. It is smuggled into every other country, ruins millions of lives and necessitates constant vigilance, enormous expenditures, and such strict and valuable legislation as the Porter narcotic bill.

Please try to imagine the increased burden laid on the world by the manufacture of cocaine in India with the consent of the British government.

Only one course remains for the United States. We must redouble our watchfulness and increase the efficiency of the forces that fight against dope in this country.

We can be proud of those representatives in Washington who ROARED their approval of the Porter bill and we must inform our Senators that we wish the same heartfelt and unanimous approval when the legislation comes before them.

The Hearst newspapers have fought for the Porter narcotic legislation and for effective sincerity in all international narcotic conferences. They will continue to fight for honest regulation and suppression of an evil that means a LIVING DEATH for human beings and dirty profits for the exploiting nations of the earth.

Never Too Late

For a Honeymoon.

A Chicago judge who reminds you of Solomon has staved off one divorce by ordering the couple involved to go on a honeymoon.

The husband is 68 years old, the wife 64, and they have been married 40 years. When the knot was tied the wife had her suitcase packed for the bridal trip, but, she told the judge her husband wouldn't go because he was too busy.

Pa has been too busy ever since, though Ma has kept the suitcase packed, hoping. And now, in pursuance of the court's decree, they are off to Hot Springs for a month's holiday together.

From which several morals may be drawn. One is that some judges are wise. Another, that feminine patience is eventually rewarded. A third, that Pa ought to have organized his business better.

And the fourth and last is that Hot Springs will get the surprise of its life when Ma unpacks that suitcase and blossoms out in the costumes of 1890.

Dont Rock the Boat -:- -:-

Drawn by Nelson Harding

"Don't rock the boat," the steersman cries
As calmer waves and clearer skies
Assist the crew that's struggling toward
The harbor wherein safety lies,

Why rock a boat that's well away
On its return? Why tip and sway
The craft and make it hard to row?
Don't rock the boat, Avast! belay!

"Bugs" Baer Says:

Another Bale of Hays

WE must commend Will Hays' efforts to nip up the presentation of the talkies.

They are wiring all theaters for sound in spite of the fact that Will Hays was hired to do the talking for the movies.

"Bugs" Baer

Mr. Hays objects to the manipulation of profanity in the chattering scenarios. He doesn't want any young audience to get a college education for 35 cents.

Those long drawn-out muggins must also cease. Greta Garbo and John Gilbert have been in the habit of going into executive session on those osculatory mergers. A kiss is a kiss and violates no amendments. But you can park too long.

The covered wagon must keep its shades down when going through the suburbs.

No young men will be allowed to talk Spanish in the talkies. And the sinister menace cannot hand a red, red rose to the love interest with the remark: "A white rose is for purity."

The talkies are to be kept as clean as a whistle on a peanut stand. Those fiery Mexican sweethearts, whose eyes shine like the doorknobs on speakeasies, will be forced to throttle down their ardent, tropical tremors while Mr. Hays is directing celluloid traffic.

If a talkie star is too beautiful she will have to act in a barrel and talk through the bunghole. Talkies are to be the newest form of ethical culture.

After seeing the "Cock-Eyed World" we had to go to an oculist to have new brake linings put in our ear drums. There was a picture that talked straight from the shoulder to the lapels.

The theater is no place for profanity. An ordinary cuss word will chill off an audience. We have heard some conversation in Broadway theaters that would nickleplate an iceberg.

At one of Mae West's shows we didn't know whether our ears deceived us or whether the fuses had blown out. During the first act our elbows started to twitter, our shoulderblades opened and closed like Japanese fans and our asthma came back out of season.

When we go to see a talkie we want to be entertained. And we don't want to have a picture cussing us without the chance of cussing it back.

'EXCELSIOR'

By Herbert Kaufman

A NEW sort of robot has just made its bow, at the convention which 20,000 American chemists are attending in Atlanta.

It popped out of a brewer's vat to supplant heat and machinery as extractors of vegetable fats.

Industry's LATEST hired man asks no wages, requires no housing accommodations, mechanical upkeep, motor fuels or installation costs.

Experiments show that the same tiny creatures which transform barley into liquid malt, will glean every DROP of oil from a coconut within six hours, and extract the olealinous content of seeds, nuts or, what HAVE you, at the same SPEED and PRICE.

Build ANOTHER monument to Pasteur, who revealed the INDETERMINABLE worlds of demons and good fairies to whose works we respectively owe ABUNDANCE and MORTALITY.

THE silkworm may ALSO make up its mind to look for other employment. There's ANOTHER old and faithful servant about to receive a PINK SLIP from the cashier.

We can get so many more goods for so much LESS money from cornstalks, cotton lint and forest growths, that the balance sheet can't much longer retain the cocoon on the payroll.

The rate at which chemistry is turning cellulose into stockings, gowns and drapery materials is indicated by a 400 per cent increase in "glos" output during the past 12 months alone.

And now Atlanta warns the sheep interests in the future will grow its wool in TEST-TUBES and develop it from the SAME bases that hold silk equivalents.

And that isn't ALL the good news by a LONG sight.

Sugar, like GOLD, is where you choose to LOOK for it. And we are told that it's waiting to be taken from practically every BY-PRODUCT of agriculture.

XYLOSE, which was apparently so rare in nature that the small amounts of it HITHERTO procurable sold for its weight in precious metals, suddenly declares OMNI-PRESENCE in straw and chaff and farm litter.

Big scale production will manifestly deliver this new sweet at a mere FRACTION of the expense at which it is NOW teased from throw-aways. And we can NOW buy it at five cents per pound.

Xylose is a SHORT CUT to acetic acid. There isn't a POUND of fat in a TON of it, as diabetics and lettuce-sandwich eaters will be DELIGHTED to know.

The far-flung imaginations that dared to prophesy a day when we'd cultivate frankfurter bushes and croquette plants, have the last laugh on the CAN'T-BE-DONERS, too.

That supreme benefactor of humanity, cotton, with a LITTLE help from science, stands ready to provide a succulent and nourishing meal, which can be blended with beef, mutton, pork and chicken without tattling its presence to the taste.

MAN need NEVER go hungry while there's a HEAD on his shoulders.

The keys to all of nature's spare larders are hanging from our HAIR ROOTS. Wherever death prowls and famine gnaws skin and bones, folks aren't searching their brain CELLS for RESERVE food supplies.

There are no INSOLUBLE problems to efficient IMAGINATION. Disease, poverty, stupidity, confusion and decay can't gain GROUND while we are THINKING hard enough to survive.

There aren't ANY leaks, loose screws, or penuries for which intelligence won't furnish the necessary monkey-wrench, plug or remedy.

If today CAN'T identify them, tomorrow WILL.

AN OILY river . . . a jabbering group of savages yanking at something in their midst . . . a frail, old body with shrunken breasts lifted suddenly in black arms . . . a scream . . . a splash . . . the quick, lunging crunch of a scaly snout.

"It takes a pretty strong prayer to shut out matricide," said Trader Horn to Ethelrede Lewis. "Not but what they'd have to get permission from the priests at the Josh House to do away with 'em. Then they'd gather a few friends together and chuck somebody's old mother or granny into the river, at the age when in Lancashire she'd be just right for a shawl and a good cup o' tea.

"You couldn't do anything any more than you could stop a funeral in Lancashire. Seemed like you could neither run away nor shut your eyes. You just had to shiver and try not to blubber in front of 'em. Some of the old women would battle out and try swimming, but 'twas never for long. The crocs in those rivers—"

That's how the M'pangwes dispose of their aged in Africa. We have other notions. Less cruel? That depends on what you mean by cruelty.

There was that little old woman on Fifth avenue today . . . so ragged and wrinkled she looked like a torn leaf caught in that great rich tide. Helpless as a leaf, too.

A big cop helped her across. For a few yards I could see her go on, shuffling aimlessly, then she disappeared—where? What place had we made for her to go to? Who had we appointed to take her there? Don't sentimentalize. Don't pretend. You know, as well as I, that we'd made no place—appointed no one.

WE, IN OUR WEALTH AND STRENGTH, HAVE DONE NOTHING FOR THAT OLD LADY. AND WHAT'S MORE, WE DON'T INTEND TO DO ANYTHING. WE DON'T THROW OLD LADIES TO CROCODILES IN AMERICA, BUT WE LEAVE THEM TO A CRUELER FATE, TO A LONGER AGONY—WE ABANDON THEM TO INDIFFERENCE.

"But we have poorhouses and charities," you protest.

Yes, and if a poor old foolish soul has wits enough to understand, she may find such relief. But, even then, many of them wouldn't take it. Queer, how pride will survive, even when the body's worn to a shred. They want a home of their own, a dollar of their own—is it so strange? If YOU had only a little while left—if YOU had to choose between the long humiliation of a poorhouse or the quick crunch of a crocodile, which would YOU take?

Text For Today Offer unto God thanksgiving; and pay thy vows unto the most High.—Psalms L:14.

THE SCIENCE OF LIFE

By H. G. WELLS
In Collaboration With
Prof. Julian Huxley and George P. Wells.

VERY similar vestiges of leaves, though often still more reduced in size, are to be found in many of the cacti and prickly pears, which, too, have the function of food-manufacture taken on by their thickened stems, and for the same reason of economizing water.

In flowers, too, vestigial organs may be found. The flower of the common figwort, Scrophula has changed from its original five-rayed symmetry, so common among flowers, to a bilateral arrangement.

H. G. Wells

And, of its five stamens, four are grouped in two pairs, and the odd fifth never develops any pollen, it is purely vestigial and quite useless. In the related speedwells, Gratiola, only two of the stamens produce pollen, one has been entirely lost and two have been reduced to vestiges.

These flowers have lost their original, perfect, five-rayed symmetry; and in the process some of the stamens have become useless.

But instead of being discarded they sometimes linger on as vestiges to help the botanist unravel the plant's evolution.

And so we might proceed.

There are the sightless vestiges of eyes in many cave-fishes and cave shrimps; the feeble vestiges of wings in kiwi and dodo, and a many flightless insects; the useless limbs of some Amphibia, like Proteus, which have preferred swimming to crawling, and of some lizards which have taken to a burrowing life, and there are a host of examples which man carries about with him in his own person.

But we are reserving for a later section that museum of evolutionary biology, the human body.

3. THE EVIDENCE OF THE EMBRYO

VESTIGIAL organs, actually so diminutive, swell in their theoretical aspect to mountainous proportions, forming impossible barriers to the attacks of the Anti-Evolutionist. But obstacles almost or quite as formidable await him in the facts of embryology.

About a hundred years ago, von Baer, the great German embryologist, omitted to label some specimens of embryos which he had put away in spirit. When he came to examine them later he found—but we will quote his own words:

"I am quite unable to say to what class they belong. They may be lizards, or small birds, or very young mammals, so complete is the similarity in the mode of formation . . . of all these animals."

Thinking over this he came to formulate a general law—that animals resembled each other more and more the farther back we pursued them in development.

This law in general holds good, and this resemblance of embryos or larvae is a very striking fact, very difficult to explain save on evolutionary lines. A child of two can tell a pig from a man, a hen from a monkey, an elephant from a snake.

But these animals are only easy to tell apart in the later stages of their development. When they were early embryos, they were all so alike that not merely the average man but the average biologist would not be able to distinguish them, and even a specialist in embryology might be pardoned a mistake.

But this is by no means all. The embryos of different animals, in addition to being more like each other as development is traced backwards, show also a widening contrast with their parents and their adult destiny. They become unlike their adult selves, but at the same time and in the same respects their construction comes to resemble that of quite other types of animals.

To go back to von Baer's unlabelled specimens, not only are the early embryos of man, cat, hen and snake so alike that they are hard to tell apart, but one of the ways in which they are alike is in having their heart, main arteries and neck region built on the same plan as in fish.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, April 11.—Thoughts while strolling: Radio artists who go in for Valentino sideburns. Those fake twin sisters who dress alike and coyly glance back as they pass. L. M. Gianinni, the banker. A Lexington avenue barber shop offers a "free manicure." Elsie Ferguson in a mink coat going into a Childs.

Marc Connolly, a Pittsburgh, Pa., boy, who made good in the city. Rarely see a picture of Mrs. Grover Whalen. Noonday crowds spending the luncheon hour in parks—reading and munching chocolate bars. A linen shop displays sheets embroidered with quotations. Funny, how beauty experts are almost as homely as columnists.

Children don't seem to have croup any more. Amelia Earhart up in the air again—but on a bus top. An Ole Clo' Man who plays tunes on a concertina to attract trade. Mme. Binney, who revived the corset. What's become of the phrase: "That's priceless!" Mansions all unboarded for summer.

The sun beams. Birds chirp. And girls are in summer ginghams. Pale looking people who patronize vegetarian cafes. A certain glamor somehow to theatrical hotels. Joe Leblang, the cut rate king. He furnishes a room where dramatic critics may write reviews.

The newsboy evangelist of West Forty-second street. The spread of continuous burlesque. George White always skips along as though on his way to a general alarm fire. Fly-blown shops with glass jars of candy on display out front. Greeks who wear flamboyant shirts. And oil their hair.

Mugs about the Garden who talk in husky monosyllables. Women with baskets on their heads—going to Paddy's Market. Combination fish stands and pool halls. Inarticulate children who stand about darkened hallways and seem unable to play. Old men with dry nervous coughs.

The Aphrodite Hat Cleaning Salon. Faces that peer out from the curtained windows of drab boarding houses. Wall paper of spotty gray-green. The smell of boiled cabbage and lysol. Soiled white poodles. Nothing heightens squalor so much as a gas house.

A new wrinkle in theatrical ballyhoo is to be tried out shortly. The manager of a star is to exploit her without using her name on billboards and in newspapers. His lithographs will use instead her picture, without caption, and the name of her play. On the program she will be listed merely as The Star.

A man about town, who was forced to sit in a courtroom and hear love sizzling letters read to 12 perfect strangers in the jury box, begged a friend to sit with him through the trying ordeal. After the first missive, featuring much mumsie-wumsie talk was read, the friend inquired: "Did you actually write that?" He bowed his head in assent. "Goodby, then," said the friend—and scooted.

Theatrical hotels have stopped "on the cuff" patronage. It has been a custom to carry along players "at liberty" until they secure new engagements, but jobs are too scarce these days. More than $250,000 in debts are outstanding among inns catering largely to performers. Thus the "Cash in Advance!" policy.

And one illustrious and high-nosed theatrical family is denied credit in almost every establishment in town. Each purchased article is delivered strictly C. O. D.

One branch of the theater, however, is said to be unfailing in settling personal debts. Vaudeville acrobats are especially prompt, it appears.

The vaudeville curse is: "May all your children be acrobats!" Yet they are perhaps the cleanest living and most religious of all entertainers.

Absent-minded husbands, I suppose, are a trial. My wife returning from a motor ride in the country told of seeing a cow fall with its neck on a railroad track and, half stunned, an entire express train passed over it. "It must have cut off its head," I ventured brightly.

"No, indeed," she replied—a trifle acidly, I thought—"they got a saw and sawed it off."

"I like your articles well enough," writes T. M., Chicago, "but that thumbnail picture accompanying them is a fright. It is obvious you have no sex appeal."

With my hair waved, and singing through a megaphone, you might be surprised.

ONCE OVERS

By J. J. Mundy

THERE are days when everything seems to go wrong.

At times you wonder if there is anything the matter with your mental machinery, and the thought is alarming.

Perhaps there is if the "off days" come too often.

But if you look back over the day and check up, you will usually find that things get twisted when you have started with some thought worrying you.

You often read articles in which you are told not to take business troubles home with you, and it is equally true that you must not let domestic troubles affect your business.

Present day methods require speed and accuracy.

If you keep thinking about personal matters in your work-a-day world you will find many mistakes, for you can't do two things well at the same time.

Then when you find errors you grow more nervous with loss of time fumbling or dumbly staring into space trying to adjust thought to action.

Thoughtless speed cannot make up for the careful accuracy which you need to do fast work efficiently.
